Homes Smashed, Five Injured

OCEAN FALLS, B.C. (CP)—Two persons were known dead and five were missing and presumed dead in a snowslide that tumbled on a portion of this isolated coastal paper mill town, 350 miles north of Victoria, Wednesday night.

Five others were injured when trapped in the wreckage of homes that were crushed or swept into the sea from the mountainside town.

An estimated 200 families, including women carrying children wrapped in blankets, fled from the area as three minor slides followed the first.

A fourth slide tumbled down today and touched off an urgent radio call to nearby ships to return to the town for possible evacuation.

Police and shipping officials later said the slide was of a minor nature and that no ships were required.

A spokesman for Northland Navigation Company in Vancouver said a few persons may have been taken from the Crown-Zellerbach Canada Limited company town here by its steamer Northland Prince. But he said there was no wholesale authorized evacuation.

Earlier reports from Northland's Kitimat office said the ship had taken aboard a number of evacuees in response to an SOS call.

LIST RELEASED

RCMP released the following list of dead, missing and injured:

Dead: Mrs. Edith Hill, 45, and one unidentified child.

Missing: Walter Gordon Taylor, 42; Agnes McDowell, 56, and a mother, a father and one child not identified.

Injured: Douglas Diggins, possible fractured ankle; Clair Langdale, possible broken elbow; Robert Langdale, head and other injuries; Mary Langdale, superficial injuries and shock; Mrs. Grace McKeen, hysteria.

The injured were being treated in hospital here. Only Robert Langdale's injuries were described as serious, the others were minor.

The snowslide cut a swath 100 yards wide through a residential section to the sea, crumpling two duplex homes, a single-family dwelling, a printing shop and a credit office. A third duplex was badly wrecked and the corner of a fourth was smashed.

The slide, at about 8 p.m., touched off three other smaller slides. Police cordoned off the area and evacuated a number of persons who had not fled earlier.

The slide was the second natural disaster to strike British Co-

QUEBEC TALKS

PCs Bid To Halt Walkout

MONTREAL (UPI) — The Conservative party's Quebec wing wound up a five-hour closed-door debate today by deciding to put off for the time being at least any split with the main party.

MONTREAL (CP)—Conservative members of Parliament from Quebec province met privately in a Montreal hotel suite today to discuss their future within the party.

The meeting, scheduled to begin at 9:30 a.m., got under way at 10:45 a.m. The start was delayed by last-minute efforts to effect a conciliation. Some members have threatened to leave the party and sit as independents in the Commons.

Dalton Camp, national president of the Conservative party, made an unexpected trip here from Halifax to meet with Quebec leader Leon Balcer before the start of the meeting.

After leaving the meeting with Mr. Camp, Mr. Balcer declined to make any statement to reporters. He said any decisions taken will be announced at a press conference late today in Ottawa.

Mr. Camp conferred with Mr. Balcer in one room of the Windsor Hotel while other Quebec members waited in another room for the caucus to start. Paul Martineau (PC—Pontiac-Temiscamingue) was also understood to have attended the meeting with Mr. Camp.

Egan Chambers, Mr. Camp's predecessor as national president of the Conservative party and a former MP for Montreal St. Lawrence-St. George, was also reported to be participating in the reconciliation talks.

JAPAN TO GET MISSILE SHIP

TOKYO (Reuters)—Japan's postwar navy will get its first missile destroyer next month, Vice-Admiral Susuru Ishiguro said Wednesday.

The destroyer, the 3,050-ton Amatsukaza (Heavenly Wind) will be armed with U.S. Tartar surface-to-air missiles.

Workers Protest U.S. Deal

U.K. Abandoning Own Aircraft?

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

LONDON (CP)—Thousands of aviation workers staged a protest march through London today, bearing banners that ironically proclaimed: Harold Wilson, all-American boy.

Prime Minister Wilson's Labor government was bitterly criticized for reported plans to scrap Britain's new super-aircraft, the TSR-2, along with other advanced military planes, and buy United States warplanes for manufacture under licence.

The marchers — estimated at 8,000 or more — called on the government to remember the glory of British-made Spitfires and Hurricanes in the Second World War and put its trust in British aircraft design for the future.

The workers, mostly from British Aircraft Corporation's factory at Weybridge, Sussex, assembled from special trains at Waterloo Station and marched in orderly procession to Hyde Park, nearly three miles away.

A LITTLE DIFFERENT

"They're a little different from the ban - the - bombers, aren't they then?" was the comment of one Oxford Street shopper as the clean-shaven workers passed behind a pipe band.

"We are here looking for the right to work, and to fly and buy British," demonstration leader George Elliott told the workers at Hyde Park speakers' corner.

A few representatives of the Committee of 100, a ban-the-bomb group, handed around leaflets. And a couple of gospellers, dislodged from their usual vantage points by the advancing crusade, wandered around ths fringes with placards

'Pearson Aide Unable To Help Much on Bail'

(See also Page 19.)

MONTREAL (CP)—Eddy Lechasseur, 33-year-old friend of suspected narcotics smuggler Lucien Rivard, testified today that Rivard sent him to see Raymond Rouleau partly because Mr. Rouleau's brother was a Liberal member of Parliament.

But, Lechasseur told the Dorion inquiry, neither Raymond Rouleau nor his brother, Guy Rouleau, then parliamentary-secretary to the Prime Minister Pearson, had been able to do anything much to get Rivard released on bail.

Lechasseur said Rivard wants to get out of Bordeaux jail in Montreal because he is on the point of selling his Place Ideale resort and prefers to be free to close the sale.

The witness said Rivard had rendered services to politicians and it was therefore "perfectly reasonable, perfectly normal" for Rivard to ask his long-time friend Raymond Rouleau for any help possible.

Lechasseur said Raymond Rouleau had told him that Rivard faced a serious charge and that he did not think his brother Guy could do much.

He quoted Raymond Rouleau as saying that Guy Rouleau had stated that he did not see how he could do anything in Ottawa.

Lechasseur said Raymond Rouleau would ask for Rivard's services at election time.

SERVICES QUERIED

Commission counsel Andre Desjardins asked what type of services Rivard rendered to Raymond Rouleau.

Lechasseur said Rivard had a number of employees at his resort and that "there's all kinds of work to be done and you need all kinds of people" at election time.

"There are politicians here and you could ask them to tell you," Lechasseur told Mr. Desjardins.

He said he and Mrs. Rivard went to see Raymond Rouleau to find out whether he could do something for Rivard.

Rivard had good reasons to approach Mr. Rouleau. They had been good friends for a long time.

Mrs. Rivard had told him that Raymond Rouleau had a brother in Ottawa who might perhaps be able to help Rivard.

One of the considerations of seeing Raymond Rouleau was that his brother was an MP.

Raymond Rouleau hadn't undertaken to do anything definite but had said he would do something if he could.

KEPT CALLING

Lechasseur said he kept calling Raymond Rouleau afterwards to see whether there were any new developments.

He said Raymond Rouleau told him that his brother was here, there and everywhere and it was hard to get hold of him.

He kept getting the "same story" when he kept calling Raymond Rouleau.

Raymond had told him that Guy "was "not too delighted" about the affair and had said he was looking after it only because his brother had asked him.

Lechasseur said he had never received any report that Guy Rouleau had got in touch with a minister or any other influential person.

The witness said Raymond Rouleau didn't want to discourage Mrs. Rivard and had told him "Eddy, there's not much to be done in this case."

Earlier today Kennedy Candlish, 28-year-old accountant for

Snow Slides Trap Train In North

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—A freight train was trapped early today between four snow slides that blocked the Canadian National Railways line and the highway between Prince Rupert and Terrace in north central British Columbia.

Communications have been lost with the train, and it was unknown if it was derailed, said CNR operations superintendent Gordon McMillan.

RCMP said no highway travellers were reported missing.

Three days of heavy rain are blamed for the slides, which came down within 10 minutes of each other. Engineers described the slides as 10 to 20 feet deep and 200 to 300 feet long. One of them brought rocks and trees with it.

Six bulldozers are working at clearing the highway and tracks and were expected to reach the train sometime today.

Tar Warning Bill Planned By Senator

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Warren G. Magnuson (D—Wash.) proposed legislation today to require labeling of cigarette packages with health hazard warnings and statements on tar and nicotine content.

He said he would introduce his bill Friday.

"I believe that an adult has a right to choose his own poison," the senate commerce chairman said. "But I also believe that he has the right to know just what kind of risk he is taking."

BOSS TOSS THREATENED IN STRIKE

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — About 600 workers barricaded themselves at Astarsa, one of Argentina's largest shipyards, today and threatened to throw 50 management hostages from upper windows if police intervened.

More than 300 riot police, with dogs, firearms, pressure hoses and tear gas tried to move into the shipyards. They were stopped short of the gate by the threat.

The workers, roughly half the shipyard's work force, began a surprise sit-in strike Tuesday night. They claim Astarsa is three weeks behind in wage payments and has not paid the annual one-month bonus provided by law.

Bennett Turns Down Bus Pass For OAPs

(See Pages 3, 21)

Premier W. A. C. Bennett today added his "no" to suggestions that the government or B.C. Hydro provide old age pensioners with bus passes.

He said the Greater Victoria and Greater Vancouver municipalities are receiving franchise payments from the transit system and said they should use the money to provide the passes.

The premier said in an interview that the public utilities commission had settled the fares and "it doesn't involve the government."

He pointed out the higher rates produce higher franchise payments to the municipalities but "the provincial government gets not one cent" in this form of revenue.

"The cities of Vancouver and Victoria get thousands of dollars and it would be a nice gesture if they gave some of their ill-gotten gains to the pensioners."

The premier also recalled that he urged municipalities last year to start discussing the franchise expiry — due in 1966 on the lower mainland and in 1967 here.

He said now is the time to start discussing the situation with B.C. Hydro.

In answer to a question, he said "it's not impossible" that B.C. Hydro may undertake new franchise agreements.

"That's a matter of negotiation between Hydro and the municipalities," he added with a broad smile.

(Both Premier Bennett and Hydro officials have indicated the crown agency plans to drop the bus system into civic laps as soon as the franchises expire.)

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pickets, petitions and mass rallies were back today as the fight against increased bus fares continues.

Not satisfied with the 2½-cent reduction they won, students are continuing their fare battle, and old age pensioners have joined the clamor for special consideration.

Student groups from Vancouver, North Vancouver, Burnaby and the University of British Columbia are organizing a protest rally outside the B.C. Hydro building in Vancouver Saturday.

Busy Session Ahead Says Bouncy Bennett

Premier W. A. C. Bennett, full of bounce and joviality, told reporters today that next Thursday will open a "good session" which will see a "considerable" amount of government legislation.

The premier also said he had a "very nice budget" to present to the legislature, as he fenced with questions by reporters on his programs for 1965.

The premier made the comments before attending his first cabinet session since his Christmas holidays which included a brief "rest" vacation at Palm Springs.

He confirmed that he has been officially invited to accept the freedom of the City of Vancouver.

"I received a call from Mayor Rathie this morning and I am very appreciative. I don't think it (the honor) was deserved but I appreciate it."

He will be made a freeman of Vancouver to mark his record tenure of office as premier Feb. 16 when he exceeds the previous record set by Sir Richard McBride.

HIGHWAY OPEN SOON

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi said today the Hope-Princeton Highway should be reopened "by the end of next week."

Crews now are working to put in a detour over the top of the Johnson Peak slide area 12 miles east of Hope.

Mr. Gaglardi added: "We haven't given up" in searching for the remaining two bodies buried in the massive slide.

A LITTLE KEY, THEN VIDEO PHONE

Supermarkets on the Way Out?

NEW YORK (AP)—Imagine, housewives, shopping for groceries in a supermarket without clerks, without market baskets and with all the products behind glass.

And with an electronic device to tote up the bill and record charges in place of the usual checkout counter.

It's coming in perhaps five to 10 years, the experts say. Forerunners already have appeared in France and Sweden.

"Of course, the ultimate step may be elimination of all supermarkets," said Herbert R. Brinberg, who as market research director of American Can Company studies such possibilities.

"I mean it very seriously. If people become accustomed to buying without touching, there's no reason they couldn't get used to ordering by video telephone two or three times a week."

Brinberg sees an automated supermarket as working something like this:

The shopper enters a display section that occupies a fraction of the floor space now required.

Products are arrayed in customary groupings — preserves, breakfast foods, frozen concentrates, and the like—behind a transparent partition dotted with key slots.

The shopper takes a key from her purse. The key would be somewhat larger than a house key to accommodate a micro-miniature electronic tape recording device.

Choosing her brand of coffee, the shopper inserts the key into the slot in the partition, turns and withdraws it. Then she moves on to the soups, detergents and so on, repeating the operation.

At the conclusion of her aisle-touring, she inserts the key into an electronic scanner, charge-reckoning and clearing device hooked into a computer that starts things moving in a large warehousing zone of the store.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

If you were one of the people who said our recent wintery weather wasn't fit for a dog you were wrong. So says Mrs. H. Gordon-Findlay of Kamchatka Kennels on Millstream Lake Road.

She sent a snap proving that her three Samoyeds kept her home heated during the period of snow and freeze.

Oil trucks couldn't get up the quarter-mile drive so oil was left at the roadside in a 45-gallon drum. Transfered there into two five-gallon cans it was placed on a toboggan and twice a day the dogs donned harness and pulled the fuel home.

They have never been trained to harness nor teamwork but sometimes the children had to jump on too, to slow them down.

Teen-age fashions are possibly more transitory than even those of milady, but one that appeared last week at Lansdowne Junior Secondary School has faded from the corridors already.

Reason is an order of principal Don G. Macdonald, who thought the wearing of heavy lumber shirts—brightly colored, tails flapping—was too sloppy for the ideal studious atmosphere.

Boys are still wearing the shirts to and from school, but during classes they send them to the lockers.

Mrs. Lillian Thirwell of 2728 Cavendish bought a car from Suburban Motors this week and she has memorized her new licence number already. She didn't notice until after the deal was made, but the number, 28755 is also her telephone number, EV 2-8755. When she can click with odds like that she should now head that car toward Las Vegas.

We expected the competition would benefit Victoria shoppers when two new department stores were opened in recent years. But we never thought any store ever would pay us to come in.

Up at Mayfair Tuesday the department store and the neighboring merchants joined in handing 20-cent bus tickets to every customer who arrived there by bus. They intend to continue this largesse each Tuesday and Wednesday. The free ride home more than cancels out the recent bus fare increase.

Now when gasoline jumps again, will they also provide all car-driving customers with a gallon of regular?

Torontonians in the audience may take pride in a report in the Board of Trade Journal there.

It claims that Metro Toronto is growing in population at a rate of 50,000 per year and now claims 1,750,000 residents. Property assessment is well over the $4.5 billion mark.

Just when we are beginning to feel proud of our own growth someone comes along and says Toronto is more than 10 times as large . . . despite those winters.

Even council committee meetings have their lighter side.

Take, for example, this week's meeting of the public works committee of Saanich Council.

Item 16 on the agenda was a letter from Durrance Home and School Group requesting a school crosswalk on the West Saanich Road.

The police department took a half-hour survey of traffic conditions on the morning of Nov. 12.

The report found:

"Vehicles southbound: 13.

"Vehicles northbound: 10.

"Children on bicycles southbound: 1.

"Children on bicycles northbound: 6.

"Children on foot southbound: 2.

"Children on foot northbound: 20."

The report concluded there was insufficient vehicle traffic for a crosswalk to be installed.

Potato Prices Rocket As Supplies Dwindle

Diminishing supplies of potatoes are driving the price upwards throughout British Columbia.

"It's the law of supply and demand," said a local wholesaler.

"Potatoes are becoming little gold nuggets," said a retail store.

Increases in wholesale prices are being reflected in the shops.

No. 1 local gems were selling at 79 cents for 10 pounds. Last year the price was 59 cents, said the retailer.

At another store, potatoes were going for nine cents a pound compared with the usual price of five or six cents.

Wholesalers laid part of the blame on severe winter weather freezing large parts of the Prairies and U.S. mid-west.

A spokesman for the B.C. Coast Vegetable Marketing Board said growing conditions were poor throughout the continent because of the poor summer. In addition, prices have been poor for the last four or five years.

The crop had produced only 90 per cent of the normal amount and as a result there was a much greater demand.

Supplies in nine western states at Dec. 1 stood at 45 million hundredweight compared with 58 million at the same time in 1963.

The situation was slightly better for Canadian stocks. Supplies amounted to 19 million hundredweight, down two million from the Dec. 1, 1963, figure.

NIGHT COURT NOT PAYING OWN EXPENSE

VANCOUVER (CP) — This city's night traffic court isn't worth the expense, its magistrate Maurice Mulligan said Tuesday.

He told a service club meeting here not enough people are taking advantage of the night sittings to fulfill the court's functions.

He said night sittings are intended to accommodate people who want to plead not guilty but can't attend during the day without losing job time.

But about 30 per cent of those who appear could come during the day, he said, and of 489 defendants in the 30 sittings to the end of December, 108 pleaded guilty.

"What is going to happen to the night traffic court is not for me to say," said Magistrate Mulligan, "but my own personal opinion is that I don't think it is of value."

ARAB RAID THWARTED BY ISRAEL

TEL AVIV (Reuters)—Small bands of Arab raiders attempted to penetrate into Israel last week in a bid to carry out sabotage operations against the installations of Israel's national water carrier, it was reported here today.

The attempts were made on the eve of the Arab premiers' conference in Cairo, which ended Tuesday night.

An official announcement here said the saboteurs were sent by an Arab terrorist group called Fatah backed by the Syrian authorities.

Citizenship Council VIP Pays Visit

An ex-member of Parliament and noted Canadian barrister, J. T. Thorson, president of the Canadian Citizenship Council, will arrive in Victoria Friday for a one-day visit.

He will meet with members of the local citizenship council and address them at a luncheon meeting at the Empress Hotel.

His subject will be the Canadian Citizenship Council's centennial project.

Mr. Thorson, who is a native of Winnipeg, was a Rhodes scholar from Manitoba in 1910.

He was admitted to the bar in London, England, in 1913 and called to the bar in Manitoba in 1933.

LAW SCHOOL

He also lectured at Manitoba Law School of which he was dean for many years.

He was first elected as a Liberal member of the House of Commons for Winnipeg South Centre in 1926. He was defeated in 1930, but re-elected in 1940.

He served as the Canadian delegate to the League of Nations in Geneva, Switzerland, in 1938.

Mr. Thorson was appointed minister of national war services during his second term in Parliament.

He resigned this position in 1942 to become president of the Exchequer Court of Canada. He was president of the International Congress of Jurists in 1952 and 1955.

Mr. Thorson was elected to the presidency of the citizenship council in May of last year.

the Royal Trust Company, testified that Mrs. Rivard on June 25 deposited $60,000 with his company.

WITHDREW CASH

Mr. Candlish said Mrs. Rivard deposited cash which she brought with her—565 $100 bills and 70 $50 bills. Mrs. Rivard had withdrawn the money Sept. 16 in $1,000 bills.

Mr. Candlish was asked to look at Lechasseur and to say whether he had ever seen him before.

He said he had seen Lechasseur either when Mrs. Rivard deposited the money or when she withdrew it.

Mr. Desjardins asked Lechasseur whether he had ever been convicted. Lechasseur replied yes but when Mr. Desjardins attempted to find out when, Dollard Dansereau, counsel for Lechasseur and Mrs. Rivard, objected.

Mr. Dansereau argued that the great publicity being given the hearing would cause prejudice to Lechasseur if his criminal record was given in detail.

Chief Justice Frederic Dorion of Quebec Superior Court, presiding at the inquiry, ruled that a list detailing Lechasseur's record could be supplied only to the lawyers appearing before the inquiry.

At his direction, Lechasseur was supplied with a copy and, after looking it over for about 30 seconds, Lechasseur said he wanted a correction made.

CONSULT ON RECORD

The lawyers huddled briefly and Mr. Desjardins said he would submit a corrected sheet after consulting with Lechasseur and Mr. Dansereau.

Under questioning, Lechasseur said one person who contributed money to Mrs. Rivard for her husband's bail was a Bill Amie. But the witness denied that Rocky Brunette, Montreal nightclub employee shot to death last Sept. 17 was a contributor. Lechasseur said he did not know Brunette.

He also said he does not think Gaston Clermont was a contributor but said he had seen Mr. Clermont a few times as a friend of Rivard.

lumbia following unprecedented snowfall in December.

Saturday a massive slide — half a mountain—tumbled across the southern transprovincial highway near Hope, B.C., 100 miles east of Vancouver, killing four persons.

Rescue crews still were working today to find the last two bodies in that slide.

A week of torrential rain brought high-piled snow-cascading down 4,000-foot Caro Marion Mountain. Ocean Falls is one of the wettest areas in British Columbia, annually hit by about 174 inches of rain.

It still was raining today at the scene of the slide, along Burma Road and an area known as the Upper Levels. Police said further slides were always a possibility.

The giant paper-making mill here suspended its normal 24-hour operation to house evacuees. Others crowded into the hotel and other homes not affected.

After the slide rumbled down rescue crews rushed in and hacked a hole in one toppled house and freed five persons.

Grits Want 'Reform' Legislation

Provincial Liberal Leader Ray Perrault said today the government should use record revenues to make the coming legislative assembly a "reform session."

"It is to be hoped that B.C.'s relatively buoyant economic conditions will inspire the government to make this a reform budget and a reform session because reform is needed in many areas," he said.

Mr. Perrault made his remarks to reporters here while making arrangements for pre-session caucus of his party next week.

Mr. Perrault indicated the Liberals will call for creation of a full-time minister of industrial development with a large chunk of the budget to develop a major department.

ECONOMIC COUNCIL

He also said his party will press for establishment of a B.C. economic council similar to the type created federally last year which produced its first report this week.

"With one-third of B.C.'s population under 16 years of age and a great tidal wave of young people just about to enter the employment market, priority must be given to those measures which will make new jobs, said Mr. Perrault.

"This means there must be government emphasis upon industrial expansion in high-employment secondary industry."

Mr. Perrault also said the provincial government should give a better tax sharing deal to the province's municipalities.

stating: Prepare for Thy Doom.

Manufacturers and unions maintain that cancellation of the warplane contracts would destroy the British industry since the civilian side rides on the back of military contracts, particularly in research.

"Don't sell out to the Yanks," was a banner frequently seen in the hands of the workers.

Ironically, newspapers report today that leading RAF officers have expressed a slight preference for the American movable-wing F-111 over the TSR-2—for economic reasons.

There also are reports of talk among Labor politicians about ultimate nationalization of aircraft production — the big airlines already are nationalized — but one source said this did not appear to be an element in the cabinet's present thinking.

MEET FRIDAY

Wilson, who is scheduled to meet the chiefs of Britain's plane-making firms Friday night, ordered a re-examination of the industry in the light of huge financial losses in the last number of years.

At stake is a project conservatively estimated to cost £1,000,000,000 ($3,000,000,000 over the next five years. Also involved in reports of cancellation or curtailment are the P-1154 vertical take-off fighter and the HS-681 transport plane, designed to service the TSR-2.

Wilson as yet has made no announcement concerning any of these planes. His decision, when it comes, could either cripple the government - subsidized aircraft industry or keep it operational for the time being.

The national press is not giving Wilson much help in making up his mind. Newspapers are about equaly divided on whether the TSR-2 should be built or follow the ill - fated flight of Canadas Avro Arrow to the scrap heap.

MOORE
. . . not regional

Spring Thaw Laughs Same Across Land

TORONTO (CP)—After years of producing Canada's best-known satirical revue, Mavor Moore says there is no evidence of a regional sense of humor in this country.

Individuals may vary, of course, but by and large audiences in all parts of Canada laugh at the same things.

Moore, whose 1965 version of Spring Thaw opens in Victoria Jan. 18, has found it is better not to try to style the show differently for different parts of the country.

"Last year we did add one sketch especially for Ontario—and it was by Eric Nicol from British Columbia. It didn't go in Montreal, and we had to take it out again."

The 31 sketches in this year's revue have been chosen from 300 submissions, most of them unsolicited. Unsolicited material accounts for two-thirds of the show, the rest being commissioned.

The company of nine, headed by Barbara Hamilton, Dave Broadfoot and Peter Mews is almost the same as the one that toured the country last year in The Best of Spring Thaw.

Canadian Ships Depart for Big Naval Exercises

HALIFAX, N.S., (UPI) — The 20,000-ton aircraft carrier Bonaventure and three other Canadian naval vessels have departed for the Carribean to take part in a massive naval military exercise.

The exercise, called "maple spring", will involve some 4,000 navy, air force and army personnel, and will be centred around Puerto Rico.

It will also involve United States naval forces.

Sailing wtih the Bonaventure were the destroyer escort St. Laurent, the ocean escort Swansea and the naval tug St. John.

Commodore J. C. O'Brien, senior Atlantic officer afloat, will command the manoeuvers, which are expected to last until late March.

One Canadian ship, the destroyer escort Columbia, has already reached the exercise area.

The Columbia is the Canadian warship designated to participate in NATO's new multinational squadron of subchasers.

VANCOUVER TO HONOR BENNETT

VANCOUVER (CP) — City council agreed Tuesday to make Premier W. A. C. Bennet a freeman of Vancouver in honor of his 12 years as premier.

On Feb. Premier Bennett will become the longest serving premier in B.C.'s history, surpassing the 12 years, 6½ months record established by Sir Richard McBride between 1903 and 1915.

They said Tanganili became entangled in his line and was dragged overboard by a 660-pound "barili" fish which took the hook and dived for deep water.

Legislature Battle Looms

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

Refusal to roll back bus fare increases for old age pensioners likely will produce fireworks in the legislature against B.C. Hydro.

Hydro co-chairman Gordon Shrum, who beat a sudden retreat in the face of determined protests against the boosts by high school students, set the stage for another bitter battle Wednesday by rejecting similar requests by pensioners.

Social Credit MLA John Tisdalle of Saanich gave his support to the senior citizens' request and said they deserved the same consideration as students.

He urged BCH to "give a careful and considerate second look" to the pensioners' request.

New Democratic Party and Liberal members are expected to blast Mr. Shrum's rejection after the legislative session starts and several Social Credit members—such as Mr. Tisdalle and Victoria MLA J. Donald Smith, who have long advocated passes for pensioners—are expected to join in.

Mr. Shrum, who Tuesday announced fares for high school students would be cut back from 15 cents to 10 cents, said Wednesday there was no possibility of any further transit fare reductions.

"Adjustments (for high school students) were made only where a large increase in fares had been made," he said.

(The student rates had been jumped from five cents.)

Mr. Shrum said university students, who also requested a cutback, had been well treated already because the recent increase in their fares amounted to only seven cents, compared with the 10-cent boost for high school students.

Elementary Students 'Ignored' by Hydro

School trustee Peter Bunn said today it was a "pretty poor business" for elementary school students to be left out of the recent bus fare adjustments.

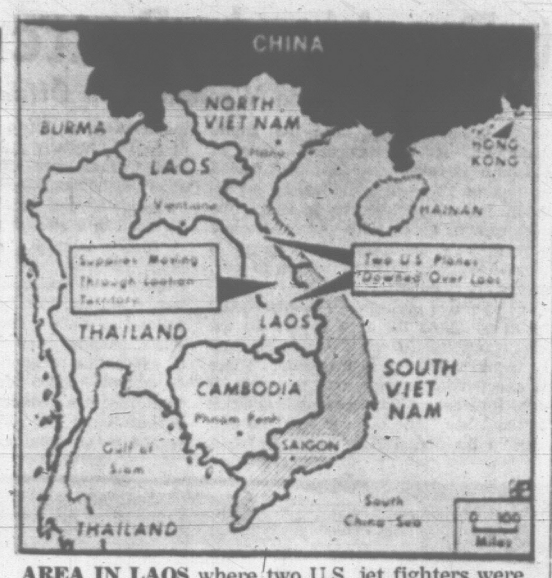

He said although there were only about 250 elementary school students who use the bus every day in Greater Victoria they should not have been ignored.

"They are stuck with this situation," he said. "The fare adjustments were an improvement for the secondary students but the whole situation is far from right."

Elementary students' fares were doubled to 10 cents on the approval of the Public Utilities Commission recently.

Turkey Rejects MLF Proposals

By ENDRE MARTON

WASHINGTON (AP)—Turkey pulled out of the proposed multi-lateral nuclear fleet Wednesday, knocking another pin out from under the already wobbly project.

Turkey borders the Soviet Union, and officials speculated that Moscow's stiff opposition to MLF might have had something to do with the decision.

America's pet tiger already has picked up more than its share of thorns. France attacked MLF violently last month. Britain's new Labor government has been working on alternative plans. Other allies are cool. Only West Germany among the major Western powers sees MLF in the same shining light that Washington does.

Turkey's desertion is the first, however, and officials consider it a heavy psychological blow. Others, it is feared, might follow Ankara's lead.

MLF is a proposal for a separate force of surface ships, equipped with nuclear - tipped Polaris missiles and manned by a mixed crew of sailors. In this way America's allies would share in a nuclear force and yet proliferation of nuclear weapons would be avoided.

U.S. policy-makers figure that major countries — West Germany is prominent in their thinking—would build an independent nuclear force of their own if they failed to share in atomic control.

SERVE ON RICKETTS

Turkey was one of eight nations studying the political, military, technical, and financial possibilities of the ambitious plan to launch the fleet of 25 vessels equipped with 200 Polaris missiles. An 11-man Turkish contingent is on the Ricketts, an American destroyer operating experimentally with a seven-nation crew. U.S. officials expect the Turks to be pulled off.

In assessing Turkey's withdrawal, Washington notes Ankara's explanation that it could not afford to contribute to the considerable costs of the fleet, but American officials also suspect a drive for reconciliation with the Soviet Union is as significant.

U.S. Jets Blast Rebel Supply Links

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. fighter - bombers have been smashing at Communist supply and reinforcement lines running through Laos for at least a month, government sources said today.

Wednesday's strike — which cost the United States two air force jets—bore down on Route 7, key segment of a road and trail network that feeds both the Red Pathet Lao in central Laos and the Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

American authorities refused to say anything publicly beyond the announcement that an F-100 Supersabre and an F-105 Thunderchief "were shot down in central Laos by ground fire."

Both pilots were rescued, first Capt. Albert C. Vollmer of Denton, Kan., and Henrietta, N.Y., then Capt. Charles L. Ferguson of Clovis, N.M., and Parma, Idaho. Ferguson, piloting the F-100, first was listed as missing, but early today the defence department said he had recovered and was all right.

Defence department spokesman Arthur Sylvester declined to discuss what kind of a mission the two high speed jets were flying.

Four navy and air force jets were shot down over Laos before Wednesday's losses. Each was described officially as either conducting photo reconnaissance or escorting planes taking pictures of the Red supply roads and trails.

For weeks, the Communist Chinese and North Vietnamese have been claiming that U.S. air and sea forces have been raiding Communist territory.

NO COMMENT YET

The U.S. government evidently is not ready to acknowledge that its war planes are in combat outside the borders of South Viet Nam.

The degree of escalation of the war still is rather low. The issue of whether it will be stepped up further — possibly to strike at production and supply centres, rail lines and military bases inside Viet Nam—is in doubt.

So far, sources said, the air strikes against supply lines leading from North Viet Nam through Laos have been conducted chiefly by American planes, with some activity by Laotian - piloted aircraft. The South Vietnamese Air Force has not yet taken part in these operations, the sources said.

Blizzards Sweep U.K., New Storms Predicted

LONDON (AP)—Severe gales and blizzards swept much of the British Isles today after the worst buffeting of the winter Wednesday night.

London had bright sunshine and blue skies, but an air ministry spokesman said the north and west coasts could expect "a tough time again."

Winds of more than 60 miles an hour held the 43,340-ton British aircraft carrier Ark Royal in Devonport harbor and prevented her sailing.

Twelve ships sought safety at the Kent port of Margate; and cross-Channel ferries ran late.

Some domestic passenger flights were grounded.

About 800 vehicles were stranded in snowdrifts near the Scottish border.

Gales swept Sweden's western coast. Seven East German trawlers were sheltering at Lysekil.

Brest radio reported that the 125-ton British schooner Result was eight days overdue and presumed missing on a voyage from Littlehampton, England, to the Isle of Jersey. It was not known how many were aboard.

France, West Germany, southern Scandinavia and central Spain all reported mild weather.

Medical Panel To Discuss Contraceptives

A panel of pharmacists and physicians will discuss Corticosteroids and oral contraceptives Wednesday at 8:30 p.m.

The meeting sponsored by a joint medicine-pharmacy liaison committee, with the co-operation of the South Vancouver Island Pharmacists Association and the Victoria Medical Society, will be held at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

Panel moderator will be Dr. R. W. Lauener, endocrinologist from Vancouver.

Members on the panel will be Dr. C. F. Ballam, general practitioner, Victoria; Dr. J. H. Dickinson, obstetrician and gynaecologist, Vancouver; G. A. Aaronson and C. F. Boughey, retail pharmacists in Victoria.

ELECTRONIC EAVES-DROPPERS

'Snoopers' To Be Probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Data about electronic eaves-droppers and many similar devices are in the files of Representative Cornelius Gallagher's government operations subcommittee which is investigating invasion of privacy and intends to open hearings late this month or early in February.

The New Jersey Democrat's group is one of at least five congressional committees investigating various facets of the situation.

At the congressman's request the general services administration is conducting a survey of private contractors to learn what types of snooping devices have been purchased by what agencies.

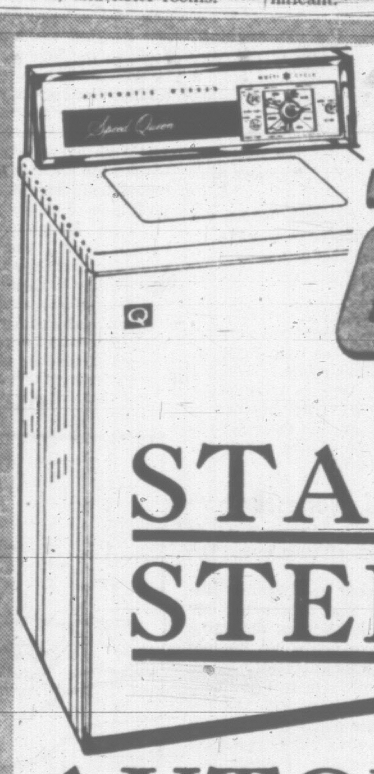

With this information in hand, hopefully within a week, "we can learn the size of the problem, which government agencies are involved and what methods they are using," said a subcommittee aide today.

Gallagher says "man's home . . . is in danger of becoming a fish bowl." He also sees the danger invading offices, places of work, and hotel rooms.

Clothes for the Man

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia's economic chiefs have announced a move to give the man in the street the kind of clothes he wants instead of the kind the Soviet planner says he ought to want. In future nearly 400 clothes and shoe factories will take their orders direct from the stores which sell the goods, instead of working to plans handed down from above.

Target for a Nation

THE ECONOMIC COUNCIL OF Canada in its first report to the government has produced an economic objective for the country which is little short of staggering in its magnitude.

As our Ottawa correspondent Mr. Maurice Western notes on this page, the report is not a forecast but a detailed outline of how Canadians must manage their affairs if they are to make the most of the country's potential.

The Council, in brief, says that Canada must achieve a rate of gain in productivity between now and 1970 never before sustained over a similar period of time in our history.

The goal set is an annual average increase in the gross national product of 5.5 per cent — approximately twice the rate of growth in recent years — in order to create employment for the one million persons expected to enter the labor market during the years 1963-70. As well, the gain should be enough to lower the unemployment rate to about three per cent of the labor force.

The increase in production, it is stated, must be achieved without seriously disrupting the price and cost structure of the economy, that is without stimulating serious inflation. This in itself would be a considerable challenge in an economy which already is in "forced draft" expansion.

The Council concedes that it has set a difficult task for the country. However, the eminent and highly-respected economist who is its chairman, Dr. John J. Deutsch, believes that on the basis of current under-employment of the nation's productive capacity the target can be reached. But not without radical re-direction of the economy. It is clear that attainment of the target will demand of all sectors, both public and private, a capacity to accept profound changes.

In general the report calls for a new commercial policy which will emphasize the growth of the manufacturing sector of the economy and bring it into the mainstream of world trade. Industry cannot be allowed to shelter behind tariff walls, the report says, and labor must not cling to work rules which lower its competitive productivity in relation to world industry.

Since Dr. Deutsch specifically does not recommend any further intrusions of government into the economy, but rather only a greater awareness of the problem among government economic planners, there must arise the question of how the council's goals are to be reached.

This question Dr. Deutsch necessarily leaves for the people of Canada to answer. "I believe this country can be made to work," he has said. "But it will require understanding and intelligence from its citizens — more so than is demanded from the citizens of any other industrialized nation on earth."

This is the kind of stuff Canadians should want to hear. Who says there are no opportunities left in this country when it is obvious that the greatest development period in Canadian history can be started right now? This is the time for Canadians to realize that their economic destiny can be worked out by their own efforts.

Apartments By the Sea

MR. JUSTICE WOOTTON has ruled invalid an Oak Bay bylaw which would have permitted the rezoning of a waterfront property for an apartment.

The judgment is limited to a particular bylaw covering a particular property. It does not prevent a future application for rezoning of the same land for apartment purposes nor, necessarily, prevent passage of such a new bylaw after a proper public hearing. Neither does it define policy.

Perhaps the council should take time at this stage of municipal development to determine how it wants the waterfront to be used. Up to now Oak Bay has considered rezoning on the merits of individual applications. Conceivably the time has arrived when it should look beyond such applications and lay down policy.

Then present and prospective property owners would know where they stand.

Working the Farms

THE SHORTAGE OF FARM labor in British Columbia deserves some study, as the B.C. Federation of Agriculture requested in a brief presented to the provincial cabinet this week.

However, the Federation's suggestion that Chinese labor be brought over from Hong Kong to fill the gap can hardly be given serious thought. It would scarcely be feasible to bring workers over from Hong Kong and return them after the relatively short season for which they would be needed to pick fruit and other crops. To encourage immigration on a permanent basis of unskilled workers for seasonal employment would defeat the purpose of Canadian immigration policy.

No doubt there is a tight squeeze on agricultural labor in this province. Except for a few categories such as dairy farming and beef cattle raising, the demand is largely for seasonal labor and it is spread over a wide area ranging from the Okanagan and Kootenay areas to the Lower Mainland and Vancouver Island.

Perhaps a useful area for a study of the situation would be the possibility of greater co-operation among all farm groups needing seasonal labor. This could include establishing wage rates at a level high enough to attract workers and arranging transportation and accommodation for the migrant labor force.

'We Must Do Much Better In All Fields'

By Maurice Western From Ottawa

ON the basis of its challenging first report and its future plans, the Economic Council of Canada seems destined to play a most important, and quite unprecedented role in the life of this country.

Western

As the auditor-general is the watch-dog of the public accounts and the Ombudsman, in Scandinavian lands, of civil rights, the Economic Council, it would appear, is to be the constant and independent appraiser of our economic performance, addressing itself not merely to government but also to business, labor and the public generally. Having set forth goals of balanced development for the period ending in 1970, it proposes in subsequent annual reviews to measure the achievement against the potential while progressively expanding the scope of its research and calling attention to new, emerging problems.

One or two preliminary points should be noted about the first report. In the first place, the Council does not, generally speaking indulge in prophecy. There is one partial exception to this rule. It does forecast an unprecedented addition to the labor force of over 1,000,000 persons in the period 1963-70—on the basis, incidentally, of very modest net additions of 50,000 annually due to the excess of immigration over emigration. But the other goals mentioned in the report are "potentials" and this term is to be understood in a special sense.

To the layman, "potential" employment naturally suggests 100 per cent employment; the greatest possible in the best condition. But Dr. Deutsch and his colleagues do not use the term in that sense, whether they are discussing jobs or exports or production or productivity. It cannot be too strongly emphasized that they are concerned with balanced performance; not, for example, with an emphasis on total employment at the expense probably of price stability or the balance of payments. "The real problem," they report, "lies not in how to pursue some particular objective, but in how to achieve all our agreed social and economic goals simultaneously and consistently."

A "potential," in the context of this approach, is a reasonable postulate of economic performance based upon a study of past performance and other relevant factors. Thus our actual output of goods and services in 1963 was still about six per cent below potential. We are warned that the potential output target for 1970 will be reached only if we achieve an average advance of 5.5 per cent per year in the volume of total production of goods and services from the actual 1963 level.

This is very high not only in the light of our post-war experience but also when compared to the growth performance of other countries. But it is not high in relation to the prospective growth of the labor force. Moreover, unemployment at the present time is still about five per cent and the goals of balanced development call for a reduction of this figure to about three per cent by 1970.

Formidable

The goals will appear formidable too in the light of our extremely uneven (and highly unbalanced) performance since 1945. For example, we must go on increasing exports at an annual average rate of 5.3 per cent, which means an increase in value of $3 billions in the seven year period under review. This also implies that the volume of manufactured exports must rise steadily by 10 per cent per year; a requirement calling for a quite new emphasis in our international commercial policy.

But it is clear that there is nothing starry-eyed about these potentials. This is no blue-print for economic Utopia. Even if we move ahead over a wide front at the prescribed rates, we may still encounter serious troubles. For these various assumptions and calculations still indicate that, at the end of the period, the deficit on non-merchandise accounts of the balance of payments will be around $1.5 billion and may run as high as $2 billion. The Council frankly recognizes that the problem of maintaining a viable economy in these circumstances must be a continuing matter of major concern.

Ownership Unconsidered

At least one of the ministers in the present government has concentrated much of his attention on the problem of foreign ownership. It is interesting to observe that this does not exercise the Council at all. What the members are concerned with is economic performance whether the particular industry is Canadian-owned or a subsidy of a foreign firm. Another minister has hopefully reported the demise of the business cycle. The Council is very careful to deny that "we have simply assumed away the business cycle for the future or that we are unconcerned about the possibility and dangers of cyclical instability in the Canadian economy."

What it comes down to is that we must do much better in all fields even if the boom continues and that much extra if it is unfortunately interrupted by cyclical recession. Competitive pressures are going to increase and will be surmounted only if our high-standard-of-living and high-employment economy is at the same time "a high-education economy, a high-resource-mobility economy, a high-research economy, a high-investment economy, a high-innovation economy and a highly competitive economy."

How well we are measuring up to the challenge of balanced development we should know next year when Dr. Deutsch presents us with his second report.

—Bierman, Victoria Daily Times.

"It says, 'Row like the devil'."

THE ELECTION ALERT

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

Two Gordons For Me, Sez Mrs. Noggins

AS SECRETARY-TREASURER of our local Progressive Conservative Association, my neighbor, Mrs. Alfred Noggins, has put that vast political apparatus on the alert for an early federal election.

Hutchison

"As soon as I seen in the papers that Walter Gordon was talkin' of a cut in taxes," Mrs. Noggins informed me, "I knew wot 'e meant. I never mix financial policy with politics, says Gordon, and if the election follows right after the tax cut nobody could be more dumbfounded than me by that weird coincidence.

"Bein' both minister of finance and chief manager of the Liberal party, says Gordon, I'm a split personality, outnumberin' my competitors two to one. Why, 'alf of me wouldn't recognize the other walkin' down the street. We may wear the same 'at and carry the same umbreller but we're entirely different fellas and not on speakin' terms.

"Axually, nobody in politics is on speakin' terms these days. Diefenbaker don't speak to his closest friend, Balcer. Fulton don't speak to Diefenbaker. Lesage don't speak to Levesque. Thompson don't speak to Caouette. Bennett don't speak to Thompson. Douglas speaks only to God. And nobody dares to speak to any furniture dealer in town.

"A deep and broodin' stillness 'angs over Ottawa, broken only by the moans of the wounded, the sound of Balcer's 'atchet on the grindstone and the muffled footsteps of Senator McCutcheon as he snowshoes down to Quebec with frozen olive branches from Dief.

"Oh, yes, 'tis a cold, depressin' landscape but the 'ot steam of moral indignation burstin' from the tortured souls of the New Democrats and Social Crediters is likely to melt the polar ice cap and bring on a spring flood.

"No wonder Douglas and Thompson 'ave both torn down their old party platforms to build an ark before the deluge starts. You can 'ear their frantic 'ammerin' but the rest is silence, except fer a few more royal commission explosions every day.

"That don't worry the two Gordons, either of 'em. My estimates of revenue, says the finance minister, was only a 'underd per cent wrong and on that record of accuracy I 'ave no 'esitation in predictin' a balanced budget this year, or nearly balanced, or over-balanced, dependin' on circumstances that I can't foresee.

"So now we know exactly where we stand. I may cut taxes, says Gordon, or else I'll raise 'em or leave 'em as they are. After long thought I see no other alternatives.

"With that clear at last, we can advance boldly forward, backward or sideways on all fronts as the case may be. But before the finance minister decides on an election 'e'll 'ave to consult the other Gordon if 'e can find 'im out in the back concessions of Ontario explainin' the Great Society to the farmers' wives.

Honester and Honester

"Anyways, Canajian gover'mint is gettin' more honest all the time. The figgers prove it.

"Up to now every gover'mint pretended that when they borrowed our money they'd pay it back at the same rate but now they're settin' up the old age pension scheme on a sounder basis. Prices, they say, will rise two per cent each year and our money will fall the same way. The state absolutely guarantees to steal our savin's but only a little at a time, on a regular schedule, announced in advance. Wot could be fairer than that?

"I put a thousand dollars in a gover'mint bond 20 years ago and I've lost barely 'alf of it so far. In the last year they took only two per cent off it and in the next 10 years I can't lose more than 20 per cent altogether, if things go right, as planned.

"I tell you, modern plannin' is wonderful. And, besides, there's no 'arm in a tiny little burglary between friends, as Uncle 'Erbert said when 'e was cashier of a bank in Liverpool and the police caught up with 'im. Like 'Erbert told the judge, 'e'd only took two per cent of the money in the vault every year and that big, rich bank wouldn't miss it, but the judge give 'im two years' 'ard labor and said he wouldn't miss them either.

"And I won't miss my gover'mint bond so long as they take it gradual, accordin' to law. So you may be sure I'll buy another when I save some more money, if I go clean out of my mind, that is.

"A poor woman like me 'as to prepare fer a rainy day but the only old age pension worth anything is appointment to the Senate, and the opportunity is limited. The surest way to solve the problem of poverty is to enlarge the Senate but no gover'mint 'as the courage to do the obvious thing.

"Well, everybody will feel better once we get the election over and fer the poor naked politicians a tax cut will cover a multitude of skins.

"Like Douglas and Thompson are always sayin', wot we need is strong, decisive gover'mint, so we ort to give the splinter parties more seats and avoid the danger of a majority controllin' parliament and axually governin' the country. The way things look from 'ere, there's no serious risk of that disaster."

Commonwealth Secretariat — 'The Children Pour the Tea'

(Reprinted by permission of The Economist.)

THE present talks (in London) between officials (of Commonwealth governments) about the organization of a new Commonwealth secretariat are part of the process initiated by the 18 heads of Commonwealth governments who agreed, at their conference in London last July, that this new organ should be set up. Both governments reflect and express a welcome readiness to bring the machinery of Commonwealth relations more into line with reality.

In recent months, some of the lingering Commonwealth myths have been dispelled with a salutary speed. Less than a year ago it was still common form, in ministerial speeches as in leading articles, to dwell on the Commonwealth members' "like-mindedness." But on January 4th The Times itself declared the "political unlikeness, or incompatability" between them to be now the Commonwealth's "most obvious gesture"; and the Labor government's appreciation of this has been vividly expressed in the phrase "uneasy intimacy," used in the September issue of the Fabian journal, Venture, which added: "Britain and the new Commonwealth are joined in a curious kind of love-hate relationship."

It is by no means just a matter of newborn African states discarding the "Westminster model" in favor of one-party, one-leader systems, not wedded to the rule of law. (Not that the African members pioneered even that road. In 1958 Ghana, the first of them to take it, was still a constitutional monarchy with a parliamentary opposition, at a time when Pakistan had already converted a republican system into a military government.) The love-hate process originated in the old Commonwealth. Dominions that rallied to Britain's side in war learnt to use a long spoon when supping at the mother country's table in years of peace.

Long before the Afro-Asian Commonwealth even became a twinkle in the then Mr. Attlee's eye, any proposal to create centralized institutions for the Commonwealth automatically aroused suspicions. The old Dominions succeeded in getting the full equality of status of all members spelt out in the 1931 Statute of Westminster. But their lack in those days of diplomatic services of their own to match the wily British led them to regard the idea of a Commonwealth secretariat as a device that would reimpose Britain's maternal embrace.

At first sight, therefore, the eagerness that several of the new members showed, at last July's conference, for the creation of a secretariat struck many people as odd indeed. The initiative came from three African members and from Trinidad and Tobago. The Canadians' first reflex action was to utter the same ritual warning against over-centralization that Mr. Mackenzie King had so often repeated 30 and more years before; but Mr. Pearson made a swift recovery and emerged at the end of the Marlborough House talks as a convert to the Afro-Caribbean idea. There was a particular reason for this conversion, at this time. Canada was among those members who were decidedly narked by the way the British tried to use their control of the conference arrangements to relegate the controversy over Rhodesia to relative obscurity. It is now a matter of record that this unsuccessful attempt at legerdemain brought to a head the other members' dissatisfaction with the time-honored custom of leaving conference machinery in the hands of Britain's Cabinet staff and Commonwealth Relations Office.

One of the assigned tasks of the new secretariat is to take over the arrangements for conferences of heads of government—though, be it noted, "in co-operation with the host country," which is still much more likely to be Britain than any other. Another is to "disseminate factual information to all member countries on matters of common concern"—in other words, to do what is now done by those famous CRO telegrams, with the difference that the factual information will no longer pass through a Whitehall sieve but through a mixed-manned one. The takeover will probably—and desirably—be made with smooth discretion. This week's London talks are being held in a susurrus of sealed lips. But the shaping up of the new multilateral organ has already begun, through working-level contacts established soon after the July conference; and, if the current meeting reveals no unexpected snags, the secretariat may take shape in time to handle the arrangements for a Commonwealth conference of prime ministers and presidents during the coming summer.

What is already clear is that it will work in London and will have a chief official drawn from a member country other than Britain. How large a staff he will control is not a question that can be conclusively answered at this stage. Against the Parkinsonian pull in the direction of ever-swelling bureaucracies there must in this case be set a strong anti-gravitational force, in the shape of the reluctance of the member governments to accept any suggestion of interference in their own affairs.

There is little prospect at present that the new organ will be called upon to serve the "full-scale Council of the Commonwealth" that the Prime Minister has visualized as an eventual goal—a Strasbourg-type structure including a consultative parliamentary assembly which, in Mr. Wilson's view, could be developed out of the annual meetings already held by the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association. For the time being, visions of such expanding activities must take second place to the task of taking over jobs hitherto done by British officials alone. This calls for a high degree of tact and understanding on both sides. It is not easy for a mother to get used to watching her assertive children pour the tea.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

By Elizabeth Forbes

There's something about the smell of bread in a home kitchen oven that creates a feeling of pleasant well-being.

That's how it was this week when my friend Jean did a baking of "good brown loaves with all the necessary vitamins."

The full, rich smell gradually filled the house with an aroma no other baking can duplicate. It stirred hunger pangs and an impatient anticipation of the moment the loaves would come out of the oven—with one earmarked for me.

It brought back memories, too, of other days and of other kitchens not nearly so modern as the one in which my friend Jean does her baking.

Today, a batch of bread, from its first mixing to the final cooling of the loaves, takes little more than five hours.

I remember when it took my mother 24 hours at least to produce a baking.

She started the night before when she mixed the dough in a big brown earthenware bowl, for its first rising.

This bowl was covered with a piece of blanket and placed on the back of the coal and wood stove, in our big kitchen.

The fire was banked at just the right degree of heat (instinct seemed to tell my mother what that degree of heat should be) and the dough was left there while the family slept.

★ ★ ★

In the morning it would be up to the top of the bowl.

A few expert jabs and punches with her capable, long fingered hands and my mother would have it back in more compact shape and covered over again with the blanket.

This time, the bowl would be placed in a warm room, off the kitchen, for a second rising.

If my memory serves me right, there was a second punching down, and a third rising before the dough was taken out of the bowl, shaped into loaves and placed in the bread pans.

It would be well on in the afternoon before the bread came out of the oven. We children always made it a point to be somewhere near at hand.

Our mother would cut the one with the brownest crust and we would eat the warm slices with slathers of butter and honey to top them off.

Those, loaves, as I remember, were twice the size of today's store loaves. They were smooth and rounded; golden brown on the top. The texture was solid and yet light.

When I close my eyes, sniff the aroma of my friend Jeans baking and let my memory drift, I can still see them and almost taste each slice.

★ ★ ★

Going even further back over the years, I remember my grandmother's kitchen in a big log house in the Okanagan Valley. Here she did a baking of bread at least twice and sometimes three times a week for, besides her family, there were ranch hands to feed.

She had a wooden trough, six feet long and three feet deep that she kept scrubbed until it was creamy white.

This is where she placed the mixing and left it to rise until it filled the trough from side to side.

There was a wooden baking board too, equally as white, to which the dough was finally transferred to be punched and shaped into loaves.

I was very small then but I remember how expertly my grandmother's flour-covered hands moved.

How she shaped the dough and patted and folded it into loaves that fitted by threes into her bread pans.

Before the final shaping she always pinched a bit from each loaf. These were turned, by her fingers, into small buns with twists and curls to please a little girl.

Today's methods do not include long sessions of bread baking. Quick yeasts, (my grandmother made her own from hops and a bit of leaven left over from the last baking), improved flours and electric stoves have reduced the time required and taken away all the element of chance.

Only thing that hasn't changed is the full, rich aroma that spreads through the house bringing with it a sense of well-being and a wealth of memories from the long-ago past.

CHINA ISSUE NOT SOLVED

WASHINGTON (AP) — Japan's Premier Eisaku ends his talks with President Johnson Wednesday without agreement on policy toward Communist China.

They have decided, however, to consult in advance of any proposed policy changes.

High Japanese diplomatic sources said there were no major conflicts but that differences of viewpoint still remain. The United States has a total embargo on trade, while Japan is increasing its trading posture with the Chinese mainland.

HOME GARDEN

Indoor Grape Vine Requires Work Now

By JACK BEASTALL

That indoor grape vine should receive attention now unless the work was done in December.

Jack

Cut all the lateral shoots that come from the main rods back to three eyes or buds. It is wise to leave three for safety although only one will be allowed to extend, and if all develop the other two will be removed.

Peeling bark is rubbed off and the rods thoroughly washed to remove over-wintering eggs and insects. You may not see them but you can wager they are enjoying the protection of even a cold greenhouse.

Soft soap and water is as good a wash as any, applying it with a plastic sponge.

The soil at the roots of the vine will need a little attention also, whether the roots are inside or outside the greenhouse.

Remove the top inch or two and replace with well rotted manure or well prepared compost mixed with heavy loam if possible. If the garden soil is unsuitable for adding, use the compost alone.

After the soil is replaced add a dusting of a complete and balanced fertilizer, raking it into the surface.

Be sure that any greenhouse containing a grape vine receives adequate ventilation at all times of the year to prevent diseases that flourish in humid, dank conditions.

Station V-Bombers

CANBERRA (Reuters) — Britain will station a force of V-bombers in Darwin early next month, the Australian defence department announced Wednesday. The department said the RAF bombers would be stationed in northern Australia for an unspecified period to engage in exercise with the Australian Air Force.

Gerald Waring ...REPORTING

OTTAWA — Serious differences within Mr. Pearson's battered and beleaguered cabinet are a little less than momentous news, but they are well worth noting. They cast light on the oft-hidden pressures and pulls on government, and thus aid understanding of government policy.

One such split, now outwardly healed but in reality only temporarily patched, is over the ownership of off-shore resources.

Every province except land-locked Saskatchewan and Alberta has an interest in claiming the resources, notably oil, that may underlie the salt water that forms part of its boundary. But the federal government claims that whatever may be under the adjacent seas is a national resource.

★ ★ ★

With 126 million acres of salt water already under federal government permit for oil exploration, and with Nova Scotia and British Columbia warning oil companies of legal consequences if they fail to get identical permits from Halifax or Victoria, federal and provincial interests are obviously on collision course. The collision will occur when somebody strikes oil.

When Resources Minister Laing brought the problem to cabinet he found that his ministerial colleagues from Atlantic and Pacific provinces saw much that was fair in the claims of their provinces. After all, the provinces have been mining coal from under the sea for decades — at Cape Breton and Nanaimo — giving them at least squatter's rights. And who better to administer a submarine resource than a resource-oriented provincial government bordering upon it?

And besides, these ministers do want to be re-elected.

But Mr. Laing, although from British Columbia, is more impressed by the federal title recognized under international law, and by the principal that a national resource should be administered for the benefit of the entire nation, not just the geographically more fortunate provinces. He recommended that the question of ownership be made subject of a reference to the Supreme Court. Then, once legal rights have been firmly established, the problem can be considered in light of the interests of the nation and the provinces as they may appear.

The coastal ministers opposed the reference, desiring instead that Ottawa withdraw its claim in favor of the provinces. The coastal premiers saw no need to drag in the Supreme Court; it could all be settled, Premier Bennett of B.C. said, on a friendly give and take basis.

Who he had in mind giving, and who taking, isn't hard to conjecture.

But Laing was persuasive, and Prime Minister Pearson eventually agreed that the court should decide. And that's where it stands now. Mr. Laing is in a personally unfortunate position, for his duty as resources minister conflicts with the interests of the province of which he is the senior cabinet minister. Already Premier Bennett is said to have described him as "the minister against British Columbia."

On the other hand, the expected court ruling in favor of federal ownership does not exclude the possibility of some accommodation of provincial ambitions. This likely will be federal relinquishment to the provinces of mineral rights out to the old three-mile limit.

SYNOPSIS — It was mild in British Columbia Wednesday night with minimum temperatures ranging from the low 20s in the Kootenays to the mid 40s along the coast. Even the readings were above the freezing mark in the Cariboo the first time this has happened in over a month. Rain occurred along the coast and in the north interior but only a few snow flurries were reported from the south interior. Similar weather conditions will persist for the next few days as warm Pacific air flows over the province from the west.

Logger Ordered To Stand Trial

A 22-year-old Sooke logger Wednesday was formally committed for trial on a charge of criminal negligence.

Robert Nelson continues free on bail of $1,000.

He is accused of running down five men with a car on the parking lot of Port Renfrew Community Hall, Nov. 22 of last year.

The incident occurred after a Saturday night dance in the hall. Evidence at Wednesday's preliminary hearing was that Nelson was involved in several fights at the dance.

Four of the five men run down by the car gave evidence at the hearing. A date will be set, probably early in February, for Nelson's trial.

Foreign Aid Bid Slashed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson today asked Congress for slightly less than $3.4 billion for foreign aid next year. It is the lowest request in the 18-year history of the aid program.

The request followed last year's pattern of presenting Congress with a tightly cut down aid program in hopes few cuts would be made.

Malaysia Scans Beach, Jungle For Attackers

By RICHARD MYERSCOUGH

KUALA LUMPUR (Reuters)—Malaysia today speeded up strengthening its security in the undeclared war with Indonesia.

Indonesian President Sukarno has vowed to "crush" the Malaysian federation as a colonialist plot although the official news agency Antara quoted him Wednesday as saying Indonesia would not declare war but would strike back if attacked.

Nearly half a million Malaysians have volunteered as coastguards and skywatchers, and vigilantes have given first warning of every Indonesian commando raid so far on the Malayan Peninsula.

Tun Abdul Razak, deputy prime minister and defence minister, has said the government planned to arm 40,000 home guards in remote beach and jungle areas. Surplus arms were expected to be sought in Britain and New Zealand.

Government sources have disclosed that vigilante units on the southwest coast, scene of most of the landings, will be linked to police operations rooms. The telephone network will be extended to other coastal areas later.

Vigilantes at Carey Island, 12 miles off Kuala Lumpur's port Swettenham, have been ordered to patrol round the clock instead of only at night.

The government has started basic military training for home guards on other larger islands off the east and west coasts.

In Singapore Wednesday the British aircraft carrier Eagle arrived to join in the Far East Fleet. The carriers jet fighter bombers touched down on the island base.

(In Jakarta, a spokesman for the Indonesian navy said the Eagle would be sunk if she dared start a war.

One thousand fresh British troops, including a paratroop battalion, were flown to the Far East and six small craft were taken out of "mothballs" at Singapore to reinforce patrol squadrons guarding Malaya.

Prime Minister Wilson said Britain now maintained 50,000 servicemen in this country, 10,000 of them in Borneo.

In addition Australia and New Zealand each have an infantry battalion in Malaysia.

In the air there are two Australian fighter squadrons and one bomber squadron and one New Zealand bomber squadron.

Both nations have transport detachments in Malaysia.

There are also New Zealand and Australian destroyers, frigates and minesweepers with the British Far East Fleet.

Behind this screen, the Malaysian forces are building up.

Four battalions are being added to the eight Malaysian regular infantry battalions now in service.

A fleet of eight deep - sea patrol craft, and eight inshore minesweepers was last week joined by a frigate.

Loses Appeal

OTTAWA (CP) — The immigration appeal board Monday rejected an appeal by Eleftherios Varnakiotis, 22-year-old Greek seaman ordered deported Nov. 5. Varnakiotis deserted from a Greek ship in 1962 and was picked up by immigration department officers in Vancouver Nov. 4.

Sukarno Asks Study Of N. Borneo Future

JAKARTA (AP) — President Sukarno called today for a new investigation by an African-Asian commission or by the United Nations of whether the people of North Borneo want to remain in Malaysia.

Sukarno said he would abide by the decision of either group.

"I am for a peaceful solution of the Malaysia issue," Sukarno told reporters, "but let us investigate the real feelings of the people of North Kalimantan."

(North Kalimantan is the name the Indonesians apply to Malaysia's North Borneo states of Sabah and Sarawak.)

Asked if he would agree to a second investigation by a United Nations mission in Sabah and Sarawak although Indonesia has withdrawn from the UN, Sukarno replied:

"Yes, I am calling on (Malaysian Prime Minister) Tunku Abdul Rahman to come back. I shall abide by any decision of an Afro-Asian study commission. I will (also) abide by any decision of a United Nations commission."

A UN team in August and September of 1963 conducted a survey to ascertain whether the peoples of Sabah and Sarawak wanted to join Malaysia. The result was positive, but Indonesia rejected it with the contention that it was held under the threat of British bayonets.

INDONESIA OBJECTED

The federation of Malaysia was proclaimed despite Indonesia's objection Aug. 31, 1963.

Sukarno had said previously that the Malaysia dispute could be solved by a plebiscite in Sabah and Sarawak. He also accepted Philippine President Diosdado Macapagal's proposal that an African-Asian conciliatory commission seek a solution of the dispute.

Malaysia also agreed to the proposed African - Asian commission but demanded that Indonesia first withdraw its guerrillas from Malaysian Borneo. This Sukarno refused to do.

Meanwhile, combat-ready Gurkha troops from Hong Kong landed in Malaysian Borneo today and immediately began moving toward the Indonesian border, where Indonesian troops have been reported massing.

Shuttle flights of RAF four-engine Britannias will complete the airlift of the 500-man battalion to Borneo within the next five days. They will bring the number of Commonwealth troops in Borneo to 10,000.

Viper Wine Has Plenty Of Bite

TOKYO (AP)—It takes a lot of vipers to make "viper wine," and a Japanese company has set up a $560,000 centre to carry on breeding of the poisonous snakes.

The Tohtoh Shu Company, Limited, opened the centre at Yabuzuka, 60 miles north of Tokyo. It has a snake zoo, a restaurant specializing in snake delicacies, and a research laboratory to extract serum for anti-venom treatment.

But its main interest centres on 2,000 vipers. The owner hopes to increase the number through a breeding program.

The company produces an ingredient known as essence of vipers which is added to wine.

The "viper wine" is highly appreciated in many parts of Asia because it is "good for flailed nerves, fatigue, lack of appetite and weak construction," a spokesman for the company said.

Business has been increasingly good and there is an acute shortage of the beverage, he added.

'Loan Kitty' For Fairs Newest Plan of Ministers

OTTAWA (CP) — That noted auctioneer Harry Hays is holding up for the inspection of his cabinet colleagues a new plan aimed at making friends on all sides for the Liberal government.

The agriculture minister's project is a loan kitty "as big or bigger" than the $400,000,000 municipal development fund.

In one stroke it would pump new capital into the economy and, in a departure from past agricultural policy, make funds available indiscriminately for community centres and agricultural fairs.

Sources say Mr. Hays is campaigning vigorously for introduction of the scheme as soon as the financial climate is right.

Low-interest loans would be offered to promote community centres and large buildings of that kind which might only incidentally and for a short period every year be used as homes for agricultural fairs and exhibitions.

Mr. Hays first mentioned the fund last month to the Canadian Association of Exhibitions in Toronto.

OPEN NEW SOURCE

He spoke then of opening up "a whole new source of financial assistance" for fairs and exhibitions. He said they weren't able to carry out the type of expansion needed "with $100,000 or even twice that amount."

FARTHEST NORTH

Point Barrow, Alaska, is the northernmost point in the United States.

Sources say the amounts he has in mind are more in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 for the larger exhibitions with repayment over 30 or 40 years.

Like the municipal development fund, which in the last two years has pumped more than $200,000,000 into the economy, the fund for community centres would probably allocate money by regions and in some cases through the provincial governments.

No mention has been made of whether, as with the municipal loans, the federal government is prepared to absorb the loss of part of the money involved.

Municipal loans are repaid at a rate of 5¼ per cent with 25 per cent of the total forgiven in projects where the work is completed by March 31, 1966.

TAX LIENS totalling more than $35,000,000 have been filed in Florida by the internal revenue service against James Rand, inventor of the dial telephone, and former head of Remington-Rand Corp.

REINSTATEMENT RECOMMENDED, BUT . . .

Teacher Not Allowed to Return

EDMONTON (CP) — Suspended teacher Raymond Hertzog said Tuesday he and the education committee of Strathcona County council have agreed to terminate his teaching contract.

Mr. Hertzon, 26, said in an interview the agreement is that he will not re-enter the classroom at Ardrossan High School in nearby Strathcona County but that he will continue to draw salary until April 30.

Mr. Hertzog said he will resume studies at the University of Alberta here, working toward his doctorate in education.

He said he is giving up the fight to win reinstatement as a teacher in Strathcona County because he believes he can't teach in the atmosphere prevailing there.

Mr. Hertzog was suspended as a teacher by the county education committee Nov. 12 after parents charged that he had given a student a copy of a controversial magazine, Edge, and had ridiculed Christianity in the classroom.

Mr. Hertzog appealed the suspension and Alberta Education Minister R. H. McKinnon ordered a closed inquiry. The Christianity complaint was not pursued at the investigation.

When Mr. McKinnon had received a report on the investigation, he recommended Mr. Hertzog's reinstatement.

County officials said the minister's recommendation was not binding and two weeks ago decided to seek Mr. McKinnon's approval to terminate Mr. Hertzog's contract on 30 days notice.

SCHOOL BOARD

Such permission is mandatory whenever a school board or county education committee wants to terminate a teacher's contract other than in July or August.

Mr. McKinnon said Tuesday that the agreement reached between Mr. Hertzog and the county education committee to terminate the contract now has closed the case as far as his department is concerned.

View Royal Told Why Merger Best

The advantages of a merger between Esquimalt and View Royal were pointed out at a closed meeting Tuesday.

Attending the meeting at View Royal were members of the local ratepayers' association and municipal officials from the neighboring municipality.

Esquimalt representatives pointed out the merger would mean a larger area and population, giving them more say in intermunicipal affairs.

At the same time, View Royal, which at present has practically no voice in such matters, will be represented.

30 PER CENT TAX HIKE

The cost to the present unorganized district would be a 30 per cent hike in rates—about $40 more on a $15,000 home.

In return for this they would receive:

- Reduced water rates.
- Weekly garbage collection service.
- Lower fire insurance rates.
- Street lighting.
- Elected representatives to establish bylaws and regulations.
- Municipal officials to carry these out.
- Engineering and emergency services for flooding, sanding, etc., more readily available.

In addition, they would use Esquimalt sewers and be protected by Esquimalt police.

The View Royal panhandle made an application, in the form of a petition, several months ago to amalgamate.

This was approved by the municipal affairs department and later by Esquimalt ratepayers in a referendum put to them December 12.

Compulsory Store Hours Ruled Out

Provincial legislation creating compulsory store-closing regulations was ruled out Wednesday by Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

The idea was proposed recently in a brief by the B.C. division of the Retail Merchants' Association, which contended among other arguments that the present system confuses tourists who do not know when stores may be closed during the week.

Mr. Campbell said variation in store closing hours among neighboring communities could be solved by adoption of his proposed joint services board for regional co-operation.

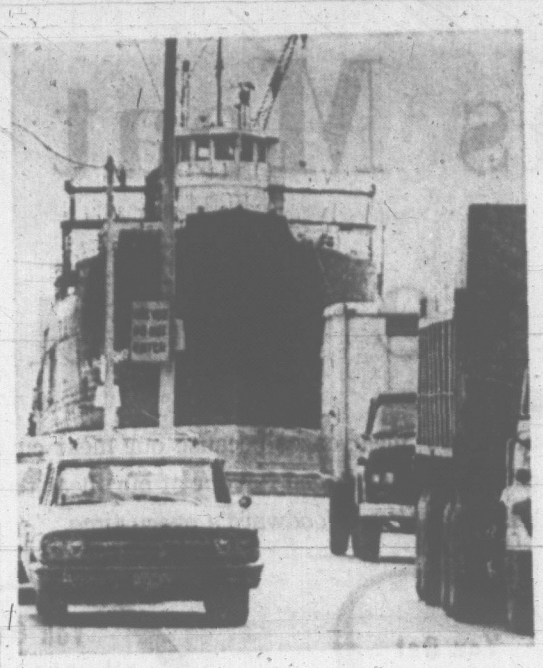

(In Greater Victoria, none of the municipalities require stores to close during the week.)

Businessman Shot

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The owner of a Windsor construction company was pistol-whipped and shot in the chest and back Tuesday night by two gunmen who forced their way into his home. Patrick d'Amore, 36, owner of d'Amore Construction Ltd., was reported in satisfactory condition in hospital. Police believe the motive of the men was robbery.

Blast Kills Miners

BELGRADE (UPI) — Four miners were killed and one seriously injured when a stick of dynamite exploded Wednesday in a workhouse at the Zletovo about 37 miles from the Macedonian capital of Skopje.

DOES IT DROP ANCHOR at traffic lights? No. It is just an illusion caught by a telephoto lens. The Great Lakes freighter L. A. McCorquodale appears to be following traffic along a downtown Toronto street but it is moored at the waterfront for the winter. (CP Photo.)

Stepped-Up Patrols Asked In Slide Area

LILLOOET (CP)—A coroner's jury inquiring into the death of a Pacific Great Eastern Railway engineer has recommended a stepped - up patrol system through a dangerous slide area at Seton Lake.

Engineer Melville Hunt, 44, of North Vancouver, died after his diesel engine Dec. 13 struck a rock slide and plunged into the lake.

The jury, sitting at Lillooet, five miles from the wreck scene ruled he died by drowning when he was apparently trapped in the cab.

The jury said railway scooter patrols should precede every train through the slide section bordering the lake.

Hunt's death was classified as accidental.

PGE officials said later that they considered the present patrol system a good one, but would give the jury's recommendation close study.

PGE assistant superintendent Lorne MacNamee said that patrols precede 75 per cent of the trains through the slide area. He said that on the day of the accident a patrol went through at 10:30 a.m. The 50-car freight hit the slide about 1 a.m.

Retailers Urge Pension Review

OTTAWA (CP)—The Retail Council of Canada said Thursday it has "considerable reservations" about the proposed Canada Pension Plan and the timing of its introduction.

A council brief told the joint Senate - Commons committee studying the plan that it should not be started until there has been a "close review of whether the national economy can afford a plan of this magnitude at this time."

There were pressures in favor of a national health plan, greater spending on education, and more revenue for the provinces. In the light of this there would be "considerable merit" in establishing priorities before embarking on the plan.

Like most Canadians, said the council, it is in favor of a contributory pension plan. But it should be approached with care.

It would be regrettable if Ontario decided to leave the plan, and "every effort should be made to so amend the design of the federal plan that participation in it becomes acceptable to the province of Ontario."

The hesitation on Ontario's part appeared to be based on fears that it will have only partial control over the accumulated contributions of the fund which originate in Ontario.

"The most readily apparent way of allaying these fears would be to revert to the concept of a minimally funded plan."

The council hoped that the huge accumulated fund would not tempt the government to increase benefits beyond future means.

'MAINTAIN INTEGRITY'

". . . The council does not quarrel with the decision to make a proportion of the reserves available for investment by the participating provinces. It simply is anxious that the integrity of the plan as it presently is contemplated be maintained."

Another suggestion in the brief was that a method be established whereby Canadians will know exactly how much they contribute to both the pension plan and the old-age security program. This would be necessary if they are to make intelligent decisions between spending in the pension area and in other fields.

Employers may have difficulty in integrating existing pension plans with the proposed national plan, said the brief.

"The council is apprehensive that sections of organized labor may be reluctant to agree to any alteration of existing pension schemes which would involve a reduction of future employer contributions despite the fact that the reduction in future contributions and benefits were to be compensated for by the benefits provided by the Canada Pension Plan."

The council asked that there be full consultation between government and employers to devise collection procedures that will place a minimal burden on employers. It suggested a method of similar to income tax collectors, whereby estimated deductions are made by employers and the final liability determined at the end of each year.

THAW TURNS ROADS INTO 'SKATE RINKS'

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — A thaw accompanied by rain turned highways in the Prince George area into sheets of ice Wednesday night.

"It's like a skating rink," said a busy RCMP officer at Vanderhoof, who added that he understood ditches on 60 miles of highway between here and Vanderhoof are dotted with cars.

It was 35 above zero Wednesday night in Prince George and the weather office did not expect it to freeze Wednesday night.

RESUSCITATION LECTURE

'The Kiss of Life'

The kiss of life will be demonstrated to Victoria West-Esquimalt residents at meeting arranged by Victoria West Parent-Teacher Association for Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the auditorium.

Mouth-to-mouth resuseitation will be subject of an hour-long lecture, film and demonstration by members of the naval fire department, which will be open to the general public.

The color film is titled Breath of Life, showing how oral resuscitation can be employed by anyone to keep oxygen supplied to persons in distress.

"Although wallet-size instructions are given to all persons who attend the lecture, people who see these demonstrations gain a lasting knowledge of this method," said PTA program director Mrs. Jean Small.

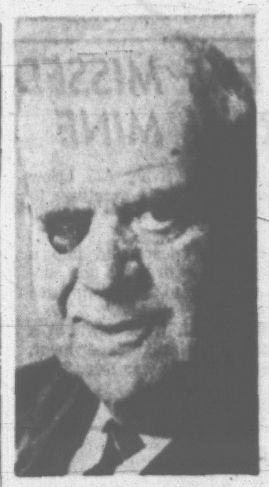

"And it is so valuable with the day-to-day risks of drownings, suffocation, traffic accidents and sudden illness at home, school and away.

"We are fortunate in having such a service available to us courtesy of the navy," Mrs. Small said.

Police Find Man's Letter After Shots

GARDENA, Calif. (UPI) — A 70-year-old man with a savior complex was being held by police here on charges he shot 29 poker players and employees in three clubs to "... save a lot of innocents and good peoples."

Louis Koullapis' reason for the mass shootings early Tuesday was made clear in a poorly-spelled letter police found in his room here:

"Tonite I am sacrificing my life just to see if the clubs will be closed forever. I am old and very sick man. Is nothing left for me in this world.

"What I am doing tonight ... could save a lot of innocents and good peoples.

"These gyp joints destroyed lots of homes. Thousands of divorces and many good thousants of childrent are without good homes.

"... Many young women become prostitutes just to have enough money to play cards ..."

Koullapis, a retired machinist from Crete, also was reported to have said two days ago that he was going "to take 20 or 30 people with him when he died.

Policemen Louis Purcell and Donald Williams, who disarmed Koullapis during a scuffle following the shooting spree over a distance of about one mile, booked him on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder.

Abortion Law Change Advocated

TORONTO (CP)— The Criminal Code should be amended to provide greater freedom for physicians to perform abortions, says Metropolitan Toronto's chief coroner, Dr. Morton Shulman.

Abortions should be legal to prevent children from being born with serious physical or mental defects, Dr. Shulman said in an interview Tuesday.

Abortions also should be permitted when pregnancy impairs a woman's mental or physical health or when conception results from incest or rape, he added.

Dr. Shulman said he will send these recommendations to federal Justice Minister Favreau.

Ban on Religion Defied by Tibet

GENEVA (AP)—The International Commission of Jurists said Wednesday that Chinese oppression has failed to wipe out religion in conquered Tibet.

The commission said despite a brutal campaign of religious persecution "there is evidence that the Tibetan people still cling to their faith by such means as praying, offering incense and putting up prayer flags, practices forbidden by the Chinese."

The Tibetans follow the Lamaist religion, derived from a form of Buddhism.

The commission's report said they (Chinese) have destroyed many monaseries or converted them into offices for the occupation authorities.

"Religious figures have been imprisoned, put to forced labor and subjected to brutal torture which sometimes has had the effect of causing the persons to commit suicide."

It said monks and nuns have been forced to marry and to commit other acts contrary to their religious belief. In order to discredit religion, the Reds have challenged some to perform such feats as surviving indefinitely without food.

No worship of any kind is permitted. Sacred objects and monuments of religious significance are either confiscated, desecrated or destroyed.

The commission includes law teachers, judges and lawyers in virtually all non - Communist countries. In a long report four years ago the commission accused the Chinese of committing genocide against the Tibetan people.

The new report, based on testimony from Tibetan refugees who recently arrived in India, said there has been no change "and it is clear that neither the United Nations resolutions nor the call of human conscience had any effect upon Chinese policy."

It said the Chinese continue to force Tibetan women to marry Chinese soldiers and officials.

Workers Warned

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner told striking welfare workers Wednesday night they are on "a course of collision with law and order ..." and cannot win.

In a statement the mayor urged strikers to return to work and to apply for reinstatement in their jobs.

His statement came after some 600 welfare casework supervisors voted to support Tuesday night's rank and file decision to continue the strike, now in its 11th day, which is illegal under New York State's Conlin-Wadlin Act.

Under that law, which bans strikes by public service employees, the strikers have until midnight tonight to apply for reinstatement. After that, the law's penalty provisions become mandatory, and can mean permanent loss of jobs.

Licence Withdrawn

LISBON (AP) — Portugal has bowed to British objections and withdrawn the manufacturing licence of a Macao shipyard building landing craft for the Indonesian navy, authoritative sources reported Tuesday. There was no formal diplomatic protest, but during talks with Portuguese officials Indonesian hostility toward Malaysia and British interests in the Far East were stressed, the informant said.

'Nature Rips Apart Peaks' All the Time,

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mountain landslides are common, but not usually newsworthy, an engineer and a geologist agree.

E. B. Wilkins, a design and planning engineer with the provincial highways department, says he believes Saturday's highway-slicing slide near Hope was due to geological processes.

"Mountains are always being ripped apart by nature. You can't give probabilities on a thing like this.

Mr. Wilkins says designing a new road over the slide will take several months, but anticipates no problems with the underbed because the slide debris is mostly rock.

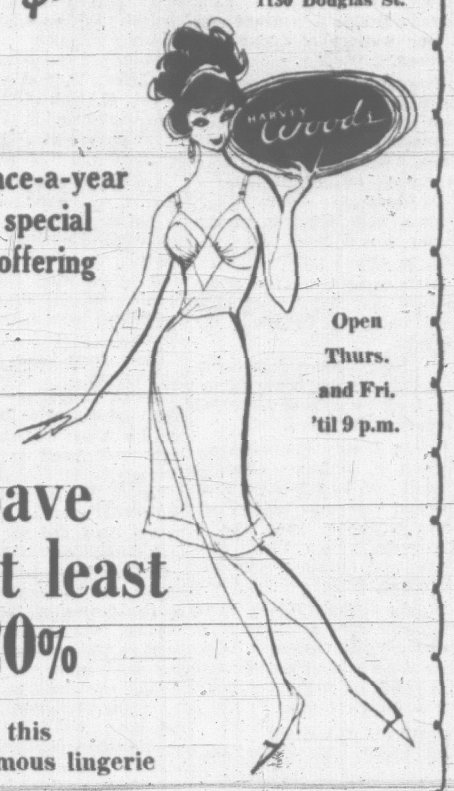

K. C. McTaggart, university of British Columbia geologist, said the wiped-out portion of the highway was built over an old slide.

Loose, rotting rock and unstable material build up over the years, and are on the move all the time—very slowly.

It flows when it gets wet.

"Where you have mountains and heavy precipitation, slides go on all the time. It's just when they hit a highway and someone is killed that it makes news," he said.

SLAYINGS REPLACE STRANGLINGS

Hoodlum Gang Warfare Newest Boston Terror

By JAMES CALOGERO

BOSTON (CP)—The wave of mysterious stranglings which ended exactly one year ago with 11 victims has given way in Greater Boston to a new terror —gang warfare of major proportions.

Even while the stranglings continue to defy solution, 15 men have been killed in gangland fashion and at least a half-dozen others have been wounded in obvious slaying attempts.

The strangle victims — all women—were killed in an 18-month period from June 14, 1962, to Jan. 4, 1964.

Death came to the last of the 15 men Jan. 10. Arrests have been made only in one of the slayings.

The Boston police department serves as clearing house for the half-dozen communities involved in the investigations.

Boston Deputy Commissioner Herbert F. Mulloney says the slayings can be traced to three hoodlum elements: Rivalry between a Boston gang and a Somerville area mob, loan sharks and tailgators who rob from open trucks.

Mulloney added: "We think that sometimes a killing is to show personal strength. One gang wants to show another that it is strong so they kill a member of the rival gang."

INVOLVED PAY-OFF?

One source said investigation is under way to determine if one of the attempted killings involved a pay-off to a man who knows who took $1,551,277 from a mail truck in Plymouth, Mass., in August, 1962. The man was reported to have demanded $50,000 in hush money and already had collected $25,000.

The unsolved mail truck robbery still stands as the biggest cash robbery in U.S. history, topping the $1,219,000 robbery of the Boston headquarters of Brink's 12 years earlier.

Most of the men killed had police records.

One who didn't was the first one killed in the long outbreak, William J. Sheridan, 21, of Boston, shot in the head from ambush on a Roxbury section sidewalk last March.

The man sought for that killing is on the FBI's list of the 10 most wanted men, George P. (Punchy) McLaughlin.

A brother, Edward McLaughlin, 43, was hit in the face and chest with a shotgun blast last November and after his discharge from a hospital went into hiding.

Still another brother, Bernard McLaughlin, was shot and killed at mid-day on a busy square near the Boston waterfront four years ago.

Less than two months after the Sheridan killing, Francis Benjamin, 32, of Boston was found decapitated in the trunk of a stolen car abandoned in South Boston.

A week later, the body of Russell C. Nicholson, 33, was found with two bullet holes in the head in woods in suburban Wilmington. He was a policeman who resigned in the face of charges of association with known criminals.

On July 23 the bodies of Paul J. Collici, 39, and Vincent A. Bisesi, 40, both of Providence, R.I., were found in the trunk of a car parked at a Quincy Motel. Both had been shot.

A month later Harold A. Hannon, 54, of Everett and Wilfred T. Delaney, 27, of South Boston, were found dead in Boston Harbor, their bodies trussed with baling wire. Hannon had been beaten and strangled. Delaney was thrown in alive and drowned.

There were three killings in September.

Leo C. Lowry, of South Boston, was shot twice in the head and his throat was slashed. His body was found in woods in Pombroke.

Ronald P. Dermody, 32, of Somerville, was shot three times in the head and his body left in a parked car in Watertown.

Carlton Eaton, 23, of Weymouth, who had been questioned in the deaths of Hannon and Delaney, was shot twice in the head in his own car. His body was found in the car parked on a quiet side street in Malden.

Anthony Sacramone, 22, a former boxer, was killed in a case of mistaken identity. Police said he was shot in the head and stabbed outside an Everett housing project—killed by men who apparently were looking for a man with the same name recently released from state prison.

THROWN IN BROOK

The body of Edward P. Huber, 43, of Boston, described by police as a "small-time burglar," was found late in November in a brook in suburban Hingham.

Just after Christmas, George E. Ash, 43, of Boston, only recently freed after serving a jail term in connection with a murder, was found slain in his sister's - in - law car in Boston's south end. He had been shot in the head and stabbed more than 50 times in the back.

The body of John F. Murray, 38, described by police as a small time hoodlum, was found with a bullet wound in the head in a vacant lot in Boston's Dorchester district Jan. 10.

He had been paroled from Massachusetts State Prison last July after serving five years for breaking and entering.

Arrests have been made only in the slaying of William Treannie, 23, whose hacked up body was found in three suitcases in a Boston vacant lot last Nov. 13.

One of the men charged with Treannie's slaying is William Murray, 35, of Boston, brother of John F. Murray, found slain Jan. 10. Also charged is Robert Cook, 38, who lived with Treannie.

Fine After One Drink Urged For Motorists

VANCOUVER (CP)—Magistrate M. W. Mulligan predicted Tuesday drivers will one day face court penalties for taking even one drink of liquor or beer.

Speaking to a city service club, Magistrate Mulligan said parliament will sooner or later have to face up to the problem and set definite limits of a driver's alcoholic consumption, probably through a total ban.

A sniff of alcohol on a driver's breath would constitute an offence. He didn't personally like the idea of prohibition for motorists, but the impaired and drunken driving problem was growing more and serious even though penalties were at the maximum.

"Most of us do drink and drive at one time or another," he said.

This is legal but it becomes illegal at an indefinite point and hence is a matter of degree.

The indefinite quality makes it a special problem for magistrates, he said. Most other court cases involve "absolutes," such as thefts, breaking and entering and assault.

Unlike impairment, you can't "have a little bit of assault."

Canadians Carry Most Insurance

NEW YORK (UPI) — Canadians continued in 1964 to carry more family life insurance protection than any other nation, the Institute of Life Insurance said today.

The Japanese again increased their average family life insurance coverage the fastest of most nations, but Sweden's protection almost doubled because of a new nation-wide group system.

In only five countries—Canada, United States, Sweden, New Zealand and The Netherlands—did life insurance in force exceed total national income.

Heavy Fire Damage

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I. (UPI) — Flames raced through the Queen Hotel in downtown Charlottetown Wednesday, causing between $150,000 and $200,000 in damages. No one was injured.

NEW YEAR'S EVE MISSED BY EXPLORER IN MINE

NICE, France (AP)—A young girl living 325 below ground in an endurance test sent New Year's greetings to the surface Wednesday—a new sign that she has lost track of time.

Josie Laures, 26, a cave explorer, descended into a grotto at Andon a month ago. Equipped with lights and supplied with food from the surface, she plans to stay down three months to learn the effects of prolonged isolation.

Another cave explorer, Antoine Senni, went down in a cave near Josie's 1½ months ago for a similar experiment. He sent word to the surface Tuesday that it was Dec. 28 by his reckoning.

Neither has been advised of the correct date.

Man Gets 4 Years In Beating Death

CALGARY (CP)—Ernest Eric Bancroft, 32-year-old unemployed electrician, Tuesday was sentenced to four years in penitentiary on a reduced charge of manslaughter in the beating death of Eleanor Andruso, 35, a waitress.

Bancroft told police in written statements accepted as evidence by Mr. Justice J. M. Cairns of Alberta Supreme Court that he had tied and gagged Miss Andruso during the early hours of June 9, last year.

He said in the statements that he struck the woman with his belt and later removed the gag.

Miss Andruso's nude body was found on a bed in a southwest Calgary apartment June 9.

MANY BRUISES

A pathologist, Dr. Lola McLatchie, testified that Miss Andruso died of suffocation brought on by blood blocking air passages in her throat and nose. There were multiple bruises on her body.

Bancroft admitted that he and Miss Andruso beat one another once a month. "We had to hurt each other before we got any enjoyment, and I guess this time I hurt her too much."

Mr. Justice Cairns, in sentencing Bancroft, said: "The facts in this case do not constitute murder but they do constitute manslaughter."

GAVE CONSENT

"The woman had given consent to the beating, but not to the extent that was involved."

Bancroft said in the statements that after removing the gag they went to sleep.

"The next thing I knew it was daylight and Eleanor was cold. Despite a violent hangover, it registered with me that something was wrong."

Witnesses told earlier of a drinking party held at the apartment the previous night.

PRINCIPAL:

Prejudice 'Not Cause Of Beating'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Howard McAllister, principal of Point Grey High School, says racial discrimination was not the cause of a fight between an Indian student and an older boy. The alleged victim apparently agreed.

Clarence Charles, 16, a resident of the Musqueam Indian Reserve, was reported in satisfactory condition at St. Paul's hospital with a fractured nose and facial injuries. He had told police he fought an 18-year-old youth to save his own younger brother, Percy, 15, from persecution by five older boys.

Clarence said the older boys told him: "We don't want Indians infiltrating our school."

FULL REPORT

Mr. McAllister said he was making a full report to the school board, but was convinced racial discrimination had little if anything to do with the fight.

And Clarence himself, speaking from his hospital bed Wednesday, said:

"As far as I am concerned it was just a straight fight between two boys who didn't like each other."

Anonymous Point Grey students reported Wednesday that the boy responsible for Charles' injuries also "took a terrific beating."

"He looks pretty bad today with cuts and bruises on his face," said one youth.

African Violet Club of Victoria will meet Monday at 8 p.m. at the YWCA.

Alderman Balks At Demolition Council Order

VANCOUVER (CP)—City council Tuesday gave Ald. Tom Campbell one month to remodel or demolish a wooden frame building he owns in the city.

Council decided the building was in such dilapidated condition it should be torn down.

Ald. Campbell said later he had no intention of obeying the council order because the building is used only for storage and is structurally sound.

LOOKS AT SPORTS

When Jack Evans first came to Chicago Black Hawks' training camp in 1958, team owner James Norris was sunning himself at Coral Gables, Fla.

Every day Norris would get a phone call from manager Tommy Ivan. Norris would ask about ticket sales, program advertising, ticket sales, which player had ingrown toenails and ticket sales.

One day Ivan said, "We have a new defenceman. Evans, born in Wales."

"How does be look?" Norris asked.

"Skates well," Ivan replied. "Handles the puck fine. But he doesn't say much. Hasn't said anything in fact."

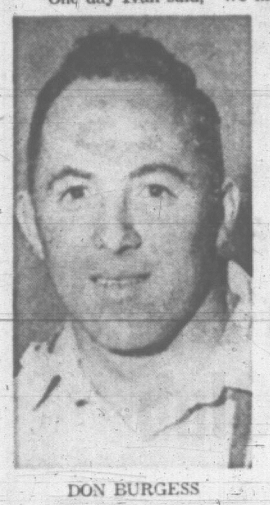

For four days Ivan reported each time noting that Evans still hadn't opened his gums.

On the fifth day Ivan gave his usual recitation and added excitedly, "Evans spoke today!"

"What did he say?" asked Norris.

"He said, 'Anybody got a schedule?' "

Evans stayed in the National Hockey League for five schedules. Built like a Welsh cliff, all rock and gristle, he didn't score often but he kept opposing forwards honest, virtuous and scared.

DON BURGESS

Evans merited employment because of his skills and class, but his inclination to keep his tonsils under lock and key didn't hurt too much either.

Professional athletes are governed as a rule by an asinine commandant set down by hidebound management.

The commandment goes: "Thou shalt not be irreverent, nor jolt the satus quo, nor go turning over rocks to see what's crawling underneath. Rock the boat and thou shalt be drowned."

Ruggerman Rocked the Prof's Boat

At a Victoria Maple Leafs bun-feed 10 days ago, the boat was rocked by one of Victoria's sporting types, Don Burgess.

Mr. Burgess has played a number of sweaty games in his day, including rugby.

Rugby players do not wear pads but they swat one another regularly and with glee. It is not a game for people who hear footsteps.

But when the referee points to a player and says "you have sinned" he does not get a retort like "whatsa matter, you bum? You blind?"

Why, Mr. Burgess, wondered, does professional hockey permit prolonged conversations between referee and offender? Demeans the respect for authority and all that, he claimed.

He put the question to Hal Laycoe, shepherd of the Portland flock.

As a coach Mons. Laycoe effects the image of a zoology professor . . . soft-spoken, bespectacled, articulate. But in his NHL days he was a minor Paul Bunyan. He could swing his axe with the best of them as the scars on Maurice Richard's brow could testify.

"Well, now," said Mr. Laycoe. "I think referees are calling them too close. This year you know we can't speak to referees, not even to inquire about their health and vision." vision."

This year the Western League has no control over referees. They are appointed by the National League, a fact which Laycoe bemoaned.

"I would have complained by now," he said, "but it costs too much to phone Montreal after every game."

What We Preach We Should Practice

Laycoe's lighthearted assessment of a serious question failed to keep Burgess in his stockade. Aware that other hockey lovers writhed uncomfortably in their chairs, he plowed on.

"A referee can do a better job," he said, "if his authority is unquestioned.

"Canadian youngsters see this bickering and believe it's proper to bug officials. This is contrary to everything we as mature adults attempt to teach."

It is true as Burgess contends that hockey is the only sport where if you fight you can return to play.

In rugby where body-contact could be the catalyst to let emotions run amok, pseudo Sonny Listons do not get an invitation to cease and shower from the referee. The team captain has the power—and uses it—to dismiss one of his carefree mates from the field.

Burgess did not raise the question during this week's hockey scawl. But later he put the finger on Murray Costello, the WHL publicist in charge of answering thorny questions.

Costello left no doubt as to which side of the penalty box his feet were planted.

"You're absolutely right," he told Burgess. "If they squawk, off they go. Can't have it any other way."

Hell-raisers and loudmouths are regarded by management as box office stimulants. But this does not cut much ice with Costello.

NFLers Keep Their Mouths Zipped

"If two guys are arguing," he asks, "how much does the customer care? He can't hear them. And he didn't buy a ticket to see a debate."

Looking for an example of respect for authority which begets a desirable image and full houses, Costello cited the National Football League.

"You have 250-pound players beating the can off one another, play after play. When one forgets himself and grabs a face-mask and twists it . . . bang! 15 yards. And no beefing. They know what they did wrong and they accept it."

Rudy Pilous, the Leafs' factotum, insists that some control is desirable but too much is unnecessary.

Pilous was piqued recently when Victoria defenceman Sandy Hucul was awarded a misconduct for asking an official why a particular penalty was called.

Isolated, the question seems innocent enough.

But Pilous forgets that it's just a slip of the tongue from "Why did you call a penalty?" to "Why don'tcha get a seein' eye dog, Mac?"

Hockey players who like to yip don't need to do it in working hours. They can get all the beefs they want at home.

Titans Say 'Howdy' In Impressive Style

Victoria High Titans introduced themselves with a flourish on their home field Wednesday to the Inter-High Senior Rugby League by trouncing hapless Mt. Douglas 15-0.

Vics' were quick to take advintage of a manpower shortage on the Mt. Doug squad in the first half, collecting several ties for a runaway lead.

Wingers Dennis Nolan and Bob Stevenson, second row Dave Smirl and eighth man Bob Iverson, with a try each, seasoned a good Vic High effort. Jim Howell added the other points on a long penalty goal.

Mt. View, in a second match, saw two tries beat a penalty kick. The penalty kick was by Oak Bay and it wasn't enough to catch Hornets six-point lead, set up by Ross Swanton and outside centre John Hughes.

Don Head scored the Bays' points.

Claremont and Esquimalt were also scheduled to play but the game was set off until today.

Freddie Hucul Set For Action In Big Series

Fred Hucul is back.

The all-star defenceman who "retired" from the Western Hockey League on Dec. 4 rejoined the Victoria Maple Leafs this morning.

Hucul, after conferring with coach Rudy Pilous, worked out this morning and will be in the Leafs' lineup Friday night when the Victoria team opens a crucial "run-for-third" series with Vancouver Canucks.

The Leafs play in Vancouver Friday and the two teams then bounce back to Memorial Arena for a Saturday night contest.

TRAIL BY THREE

Hucul's return, combined with the promise that injured defenceman Claude Labrosse also plans to be in the lineup, comes at an opportune time. The Leafs are only three points behind the third-place Canucks.

A sweep of their series with Canucks would send Leafs into third place.

There is no question that Hucul's return will raise Leafs' stock considerably. Although Pilous has been getting surprisingly good performances from his other defencemen, the rearguards have been lacking a steadiness that Hucul can provide.

In addition, Freddie is considered one of the best men on the point in power plays.

PROBLEM SOLVED

It was never clearly explained why Hucul left the team five weeks ago apart from the fact that Fred himself expressed disappointment in his own performances.

It has since been learned, however, that some personal problems helped hasten Hucul in his short-lived retirement.

He owns a ranch in Caroline, Alta., and suffered the loss of several cattle during a recent blizzard.

His problems, it would appear, have been solved.

And, possibly, the Victoria hockey team's, too!

Buckaroos Belt Inept Canucks

PORTLAND — Portland Buckaroos held Vancouver Canucks to 15 shots on goal and took away a 4-2 Western Hockey League victory Wednesday night before 5,422 fans.

The win moved Buckaroos within three points of first-place Seattle and eight points ahead of third-place Canucks.

The Vancouver club, almost absent-minded in its attack, managed only two shots on goaltender Don Head in the first period, four in the second, and seven in the third.

It was 1-1 after the first period on goals by Art Jones for Portland and Dave Duke for Vancouver, then Buckaroos' Pat Stapleton and Andy Hebenton put away the game with goals at 5:08 and 8:16 of the second.

Billy McNeill narrowed the margin to 3-2 at 15:35 of the third period but when Canucks drew goaltender Gilles Villemure for an extra forward, Tom McVie flipped a puck into the open net at 19:17 for Portland's insurance.

Villemure had to block 30 shots, including 14 in the second period.

THERE MAY BE MORAL SOMEWHERE IN STORY

NICE, France (AP)—Desperado, a flat runner with no experience at hurdling, started in the Prix Alvarado Tuesday and went off at 14-1.

Desperado did not like the change and quit. Jockey Rene Laouria headed him back to the barn.

Led by Darling, the 5-4 favorite, the seven other horses went ahead—and took off on a wrong course. The judges disqualified them all.

Laouria turned Desperado around and nursed him through the proper course. The other horses were too exhausted to try again.

Desperado won the $3,000 purse.

The official chart noted "time for race not recorded."

Soccer Player Paid $6,000 For 'Fix'

NOTTINGHAM, England (Reuters)—A witness in Britain's "soccer conspiracy trial" here said Wednesday he had paid a former professional soccer player about £2,000 ($6,000) from betting winnings.

Reginald Parry, a tavern keeper, told the court that after talking with James Gauld, former Mansfield Town player, he placed bets for himself on three league matches. He later paid Gauld "somewhere in the region of 2,000 sterling."

Gauld, 35, and two other soccer players admitted Tuesday taking part in a conspiracy to "fix" league matches for betting purposes.

The judge ordered them held in custody for sentence to be passed later.

Meanwhile Third-Division Shrewsbury Town gained a deserved 3-1 win over Second-Division Manchester City in its third-round Soccer Cup replay here Wednesday night.

Shrewsbury, which will be away to the London club, Millwall, in the fourth round, looked far the better team in the second half.

In Sheffield, Everton qualified to meet Leeds in the fourth round when it defeated Sheffield Wednesday 3-0 in another replay.

Everton's goals—all in the first half — came from Fred Pickering, Jim Harvey and Derek Temple.

At Liege, Belgium, Liege defeated Atletico of Madrid 1-0 in the first of two games in the quarter-finals of the European Inter-City Fairs Soccer Cup. The second game will be played in Madrid, March 3.

Going Somewhere? Try Grocer System

Firehorses Trample Chiefs 83-68; Chinooks Blow Over Alberni Club

By HAL MALONE

Vancouver Grocers believe if you're going somewhere the best thing to do is run.

Each player runs two miles every night. Wednesday night they skipped individual exercise for a collective arrangement.

They ran harder, faster and longer than Victoria Haida Chiefs en route to an 83-68 Intercity Basketball League victory at Central Junior High.

Victoria Chinooks don't firehorse the basketball nearly as much. But they know what to do with it. What they did with it in the other half of the doubleheader was too much for the Junior Alberni Athletics. Make it 88-40, advantage Chinooks.

John Lauvaas was Chinooks best "doer." Nearly everything he threw up fell through the cords. His 34 points came on 15 field goals and four free throws. The entire Alberni team contributed 14 field goals.

TIED FOR FIRST

The victory elevated Chinooks into a first-place tie with Vancouver CYO. Alberni, one of the "new boys" in the league, are several fathoms back.

The experimental senior-junior doubleheader was a modest success at the gate, luring more than casual coterie of close friends and relatives. About 300 sat in.

Grocers made their first appearance here without Billy Joe Price, the six-nine telephone pole acclaimed the league's most valuable player last semester. If they missed him it wasn't noticeable to the Chiefs. It was like asking a Model T Ford to play tag with a Maserati.

Coach Bobby Burtwell's Grocers blended zing (speed) with ping (in hockey they call it bodychecking) for a jolly fling.

WHISTLES WORKING

Their aggressiveness had the officiating duo of Len Leach and Terry Tobacco playing hot tunes on their tin whistles throughout the first half. Grocers outled Chiefs 48-28 on the scorepad and 29-17 in the sin division.

Burtwell explained later that his club had played two games against Seattle teams last weekend "and down there it's a different game. Who wants whistles, anyway?"

Late in the contest it appeared as if they might need gendarmes, not only referees, to keep the peace.

Darrell Lorimer, piqued at elbows sunk into his spindly frame by Al Birtles, pancaked Grocers' Hunter Candlish into the floor.

TSK, TSK, TSK!

Seconds later Candlish carelessly let his foot dangle in such a way that Chiefs' Bruce Mitchell fell over it and landed on his mush.

Mitchell didn't think much of the whole thing and went looking for a piece of Candlish.

Both benches came alive but the ensuing melee was mostly smoke and no fire. Candlish and Mitchell were invited to leave the premises.

Chiefs started slowly. About as slowly as possible. They were behind 28-11 at the first quarter and left the half with a juicy 20-point deficit.

MADE A BID

Burtwell kept Candlish (five fouls) on the bench in the third quarter and Chiefs did a little running of their own. Playing more cohesively and less individualistically than before, they pared the margin to 51-42.

But Candlish came back and Grocers started to mesh. The six-seven Birtles scored four baskets and set up two more as Grocers, getting three baskets in the last 30 seconds, finished the third session ahead 63-44.

Thereafter it was mostly a question of by how much Grocers would prevail. Birtles and Candlish split 50 points before calling it quits, but a large slice of Grocers' victory cake belongs to Rod Thomson.

Assigned to discourage Chiefs' high-scoring (22.8 points average) Pete Simmonds, Thomson earned an Oscar.

Simmonds' first half production was one (1) foul shot. He improved his output 100 per cent in the second half. One basket. Total for the evening — three points and a deep case of frustration.

As coach Howie Tooby said later: "We could certainly use another big man."

Chiefs should take a leaf out of Grocers' book and run, not walk, in search for one.

BOWLER OF WEEK

Druce, Ron Jay Top Candidates To Replace Ash

Wanted: One lacrosse coach.

Victoria Shamrocks hung up this shingle today, hours after Don "Old Scarface" Ashbee retired.

The sturdy, volatile, always-driving Ashbee advised club officials from his Nanaimo home that his new position with B.C. Telephone would drastically reduce his ability to travel.

Ashbee, the player, is also cutting out.

He guided Rocks into third place the last two seasons, played a vital, inspirational role after taking over from Arnold Ferguson.

Not all the news in the Shamrock office was disappointing.

John Hansen, a former Shamrock who moved to Calgary, is returning here and wants to suit up again.

DRUCE OR JAY

Meanwhile, the Rocks are in the market for a replacement for Ashbee.

They have two possible candidates.

One is Ron Jay, the high-scoring forward who missed most of last year because of a back injury. Jay, who still is undecided about returning to playing ranks, is known to be favored by a few Shamrock directors.

The other candidate is Tommy Druce, coach of the Junior Shamrocks.

Or it could be that both could share the senior coaching duties, a situation that existed a few years ago when Jay and Druce both handled the juniors.

Young Boxer Unconscious, Still Critical

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Novice boxer Jerry Como Jr., who was brought back to life after his heart stopped Tuesday night, remained in critical condition Wednesday.

Como, 17, did not regain consciousness after a left hook to the temple felled him in a Golden Gloves bout.

In a matter of seconds after he plunged head first to the canvas, doctors were in the ring working on the high school senior.

Doctors at hospital restored the heartbeat and performed a tracheotomy, making an incition in Como's throat, and a mechanical aid was used to help the boy's breathing. Another machine was hooked up to maintain heart action.

Esquimalt vaulted into first place in pre-midget boys play by squeezing past Metropolitan 15-14 at Central Junior High. Nicky Smith was high boy with eight.

Victoria High and Oak Bay maintained perfect records in senior girls action. The Vics rocked Mount Douglas 52-26 for their third win while Oak Bay was demolishing Mount View 40-25. The Oaks also have a 3-0 mark.

Philly Gets Wilt For '76ers Trio

ST. LOUIS (AP)—San Francisco Warriors traded centre Wilt Chamberlain to Philadelphia '76ers for Paul Neumann, Connie Dierking and Lee Shaffer and an undisclosed amount of cash Wednesday night.

The trade was announced immediately after the National Basketball Association all-star game. Chamberlain, the NBA's scoring leader ever since he joined the league, played for the West without knowing he had been traded. The East won 124-123.

Shaffer was a holdout and had been suspended by the '76ers for not signing his contract this season. He has been working out in Durham, N.C., and is reported to be in shape to play with San Francisco.

Chamberlain currently tops all scorers with 1,480 points for a 28.9 average. Sporting a facial mask to protect a broken nose suffered in a game against Boston Celtics several weeks ago, Wilt also is second in rebounding and fifth in a field-goal percentage.

Neumann, a guard in his fourth year, had his best season last year when he averaged 11.6 points a game. This season he is second in team scoring with a 14.3 average and is one of the league's best foul shooters with a .804 mark.

Dierking, a centre, is enjoying his best of four pro seasons, averaging 7.6 a game while seeing spot duty.

Shaffer averaged 13.1 in only 41 games for the '76ers last season after a 18.6 and 16.9 mark his first two seasons.

Rearguard Adding Chief Point Spark

A defenceman is taking a run at the point-getting championship.

That's the situation that exists in the Esquimalt and District Hockey League.

The high-scoring rearguard is Joe Iannarelli, captain of second-place Pontiac Chiefs. His 13-point total, amassed in 10 games, is five fewer than the sum collected by teammate Wayne Anderson, a centre.

Individuaf performances may be overlooked, however, when the Pontiacs take to Esquimalt Sports Centre ice for Friday's game with Navy. More important is the game which gives Pontiacs a chance, temporarily at least, to tie for the league lead.

The Chiefs trail first-place University Vikings by only two points. Vikings engage last-place Army in the windup of Friday's regular weekly double-header.

Opening faceoff is at 7:45.

Scots Rinks Fight Back In Curling

EDMONTON (CP) — Scottish rinks won four of six games against Canadian curlers in Edmonton Wednesday in Strathcona Cup competition.

The Scots compiled an aggregate score of 77-68 over Canada to cut Canada's total agregate lead so far in six days of Strathcona Cup competition to 383-279.

Bill Robertson-Aikman piloted his rink to a 19-12 victory over Dr. Jack Bradley of Edmonton, president of the Alberta Curling Association.

In other Scottish wins David Liddell of Glasgow downed Aldous Kent of Vermilion, 10-7; Bob Grierson of Stranraer beat Paul Kehoe of Camrose, 13-9; and Eady Walls of Dollard whipped Gordon Pascoe of Edmonton 12-10.

Canadian winners were William Balaza of Grand Centre, who beat Duncan Nichol of Fife 13-11 and David Hood of Edmonton who beat Brigadier Jack Gow of Kilbarchan 17-12.

This marks the 11th year of competition for the Strathcona Cup since 1909. Canada and the Scots each have won five times.

The Scots, who started their tour in B.C. with losses in Vancouver and Trail and went on to a win in Calgary, wind up Jan. 30 in Nova Scotia.

Hawks Take Lead In Threats Division

TORONTO (CP)—Too bad the 14,437 fans didn't have seats in the dressing room.

That was the scene of most of the action Wednesday night as Chicago Black Hawks and Toronto Maple Leafs fought to a 0-0 tie in the only National Hockey League game played.

While the tempo on the ice was restricted, to say the least, a feud was born in the changing rooms. Shots on goal favored Toronto 20-19, but the Hawks led 2-1 in threats.

Toronto defenceman Kent Douglas, who tangled with Dennis Hull a couple of times and then caught the back of Bobby Hull's hand in the face, delivered the first declaration of intent:

"If Dennis Hull wants trouble he'll get it," said Douglas, still smarting from Bobby's blow. "And his brother won't always be around."

The incident occurred in the first period when Douglas tangled with older brother Bobby on the boards, a split second after Tim Horton had been called for holding the Chicago superman.

"I don't know what Bobby was doing," Douglas said, "He just hit me with his glove. I guess he was looking after Dennis."

Across the hall, the Hull brothers were ready with rebuttals:

DENNIS AGREED

"Dennis is big enough to look after himself, and Douglas knows that," said Bobby. And Dennis was in complete agreement.

"I don't need anyone looking after me. Maybe next time we meet Douglas will need some straightening out as proof."

The verbal outbreak was one of the few highlights of the scoreless tie, which enabled Hawks to move two points ahead of idle Montreal Canadiens although first-place Chicago has played three games more than the Habs.

Hawks and Leafs found their offensive play stifled by tight checking that kept play mostly in the centre ice area. Goalies Johnny Bower and Denis DeJordy weren't hard pressed as they both chalked up their second shutout of the season.

DeJordy had the toughest time, keeping the tie with a big save in the final minute on a shot by Red Kelly.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

WHAT ELSE IS NEW—Don't be surprised if the investigation into the assassination of President Kennedy is renewed in the near future. At least one senator has listed some searching and pertinent questions about Lee Harvey Oswald, which have gone unanswered to date . . . Sophia Loren was supposed to fly to the U.S. for the inauguration, and her arrival was widely announced, but the latest scuttlebutt is that she won't be in Washington as scheduled "unless a last-minute miracle happens" . . . Rex Harrison and his actress wife, Rachel Roberts, are shopping for a co-starring screen vehicle—and they'll probably get it. These days, all Rex has to do is ask.

Hampton Fancher III is pleading with Sue Lyon for a reconciliation, but she doesn't seem the least bit interested . . . Janie Summers, who is expecting another baby in about a month, turned down Vic Damone's offer to co-star with him in his summer TV replacement for Red Skelton, which begins shooting in Rome in March. Joanie thinks that's a little too soon to leave a newborn child . . . Robert Goulet just signed a new five-year deal with Columbia Records which can make him a millionaire from disks alone—never mind the nightclubs, movies or stage. He'll make many more singles for the company now that he's established as a singer who can "crack" the very tough singles market.

BROADWAY GUESSING GAME—Shubert Alley's hottest solo voice romance stars the two leads of a current musical, and I don't mean "Ben Franklin in Paris" . . . A popular chanteuse has a new platter out which just about sums up her unhappy love affair with an important record executive . . . A film starring a top-notch male star is "running very soft" at the box office in a number of locales, simply because his adoring femme fans don't dig his changed image . . . A pretty lady in a Broadway show missed a performance recently because her boy friend has given her a whale of a beating, and she was simply not able to go on.

The producers of a movie that's bound to be highly-rated in 1965 suddenly became old-fashioned and rejected a splendid actor for the lead role because he's in the midst of a divorce action and another woman is involved. If they recalled the Liz Taylor-Richard Burton story, they might reconsider. People don't stay away from theatres because stars have been divorced. Look at Doris Day—who's had three husbands, and is rated as No. 1 at the box office.

Dorothy Collins, once a television pet, and musician husband Raymond Scott may be readying an important announcement . . . Stuart Damon is having his hair bleached for his role in "Do I Hear a Waltz?" the new Richard Rodgers musical. They're making him a blond because the locale is Italy, and he's playing an American, so he can't look Italian. Of course, he isn't Italian—but that's show biz Tommy Sands has signed for "Easter Man," along with Brandon de Wilde, who is reported to have invested $30,000 of his own loot in the show.

Jazz singer Nina Simone has named a famous department store as co-defendant in a million-dollar lawsuit for distributing an album she claims she hasn't authorized. It's titled "Starring Nina Simone" on the Premier label. (The usual question from this desk: Isn't there always a contract in these cases, covering the prerogatives of the artist as well as the rights of the record company?) . . . Sean Connery would have a fit if he could see the billing he's NOT getting on the marque at Cinema I and Cinema II, where "Goldfinger" is packing 'em in around the clock.

Egypt has decided that actor Omar Shariff needn't pay income taxes. They regard him as a figure of valuable national prestige . . . Joao Gilberto, the marvelous Brazilian singer-guitarist-composer, is involved in a hassle with a Chicago nightclub. Something happened that made Joao walk out in a huff, and the cafe owner is huddling with his lawyers about bringing up charges with the musicians union . . . Dick Capri is making them laugh at the Bon Soir because of Jonathan Winters' generosity. Jonathan talked him up to his manager, Martin Goodman, and Marty took a look and signed him.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question an Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Phil Baumgardt, age 11, of Indianapolis, Ind., for his question:

Are bears sleepy after their hibernation?

We tend to think that in the fall every bear finds himself a cosy cave and retires from the world. We think of him passing the winter in the deep sleep of hibernation. But nature experts tell other wintry tales of the bear. What's more, if you visit a zoo in December or any other month you are likely to see Bruin wide awake and ready for handouts.

The most common Bruin of the North American wilds is the black bear—who may be any shade of brown from chocolate to pale honey color. Often, of course, the clownish character really is a black-colored bear. He may tip the scales at anything from 250 to 400 pounds and measure more than six feet from his sharp nose to his stubby tail. As a cub he is a great tree climber, but as a rule in later life he becomes too heavy to lift his big bulk off the ground.

Bruin has a thick coat to keep him warm enough through the coldest weather. His favorite diet includes grass and fruit, mice and other small rodents, birds and their eggs, insects and their larvae and fish. And as everyone knows, he loves honey. These foods disappear from the wilds in the cold weather, and as winter approaches the bear feasts himself and adds an extra layer of warm fat to his bulky body.

Some time between November and January he shuffles off to a sheltering den in a cave or hollow tree and goes to sleep. But he does not fall into a deep coma like a hibernating frog or woodchuk. If snow leaks in upon him or if cold winds whistle through the cracks, he may wake up and shuffle sleepily off to find a cosier bedroom. He may be aroused by the barks of a hunting dog or wake up and go outdoors for a breath of fresh air.

Cubs Born in Winter

In April or May the dozing bear wakes up to greet the spring. Many people think he is famished and fierce enough to attack any living thing in sight. It is true that a wild bear may be dangerous, so sensible people avoid getting close to him at any time of the year. But for a short while after hibernation he tends to be lazy and rather sleepy.

The long winter without food does not make him thin. His coat is glossy and he is in good condition. His stomach could not digest a big meal after such a long fast, and Bruin is not very hungry. For the first few days he does no hunting, and he nibbles only a few dainty morsels of grass and tender shoots.

Mrs. Bruin often comes forth to greet the spring with a surprise—or maybe with a pair of surprises. Her cubs are born between January and March while Mama is still hibernating in the winter den. The newborn infants are toothless and almost hairless. Their eyes are not yet open. For six weeks or two months the cubs grow and develop, fed on Mama's milk and blanketed in her cozy fur. When they emerge, the fluffy, bright-eyed youngsters are all ready to romp and play.

★ ★ ★

And sends a World Book Atlas to Cathy and Susan Chapman, age 12, of Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, for their question:

Does the earth's rotation move the atmosphere?

The air seems to be made of filmy nothing, but its gases have weight, and the earth's total atmosphere weighs many millions of tons. This heavy blanket of gases is hugged to the globe by the earth's gravity. But gases act like liquids, flowing and blowing this way and that, and the slightest shove sets them off in a different direction. In addition to the downward pull of gravity, the atmosphere also feels the whirling spin of the earth's rotation.

The atmosphere is hugged close to the spinning earth, but rotation gives a twist to its blowing air. This makes a difference to the direction in which the blowing winds are twisted. It causes the prevailing winds blowing from the north and south to veer a little or deflect to the east or the west.

Lost Art Of Writing

By JACK HUTTON

"What a shame," the English teacher was remarking sadly. "No one seems to sit down and write an old-fashioned letter anymore. It's a dying art.

"Students write correct letters in class, no doubt of that. But how many go on to make their letters an honest and possibly artistic expression of themselves?"

Honest? Artistic? How much, I wondered, is expected of someone who merely sits down to find how a friend is surviving the winter in Flin Flon, Manitoba.

At that precise moment I was introduced to the best book I've yet read in 1965—The World's Great Letters, edited by M. Lincoln Schuster and published by Simon and Shuster in New York.

NAPOLEON, . . . included battle plans in letter

The year is young, admittedly. But anything else, even a James Bond novel I've overlooked, will have to be a classic to beat this one. If you haven't lost your library card from 1964, rush to find this book.

Did you know, for instance, that Napoleon Bonaparte lost his empire, his second wife and eventually his freedom because he was careless enough to include battle plans in a brief letter to his wife? The letter was intercepted.

White-Hot Anger

You will find in this book a letter written in white-hot anger by the novelist Robert Louis Stevenson, defending a priest whose reputation was attacked after his death in a leper colony.

Stevenson, who had visited the colony and wept at the condition of the sick, called his family together after writing the letter and told them their future was ruined if he mailed it. He fully expected to be sued for libel.

His family told him to press on if he believed he was right. The libel action, incidentally, never appeared. But a monument stands to the memory of Rev. Damien because of Stevenson's letter.

Compare the reactions of two leaders to the plight of families who lost sons on the battlefield—Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany and Abraham Lincoln of the United States.

The Emperor, after hearing that a mother had lost nine sons, wrote to her: "His Majesty the Kaiser hears that you have sacrificed nine sons in defence of the Fatherland in the present war. His Majesty is immensely gratified at the fact, and in recognition is pleased to send you his photograph with frame and autograph signature."

Serves As Model

Lincoln, on the other hand, wrote a letter to Mrs. Lydia Bixby that still serves as a model of its kind. (It came as a shock later to hear that two of Mrs. Bixby's sons, supposedly killed, had deserted. But that didn't detract from Lincoln's letter).

The president wrote (in part): "I feel how weak and fruitless must be any word of mine which should attempt to beguile you from the grief of a loss so overwhelming. But I cannot refrain from tendering you the consolation that may be found in the thanks of the republic they died to save."

The truth is, and I'm afraid we have to admit it, that the art of letter-writing was finely honed in earlier centuries but isn't today.

Bonaparte alone wrote or dictated somewhere between 55,000 and 75,000 letters or dispatches. Many were burned in Russia but more than 40,000 have been printed in one form or another.

I've always felt that the king of letter-writers must have been the French author, historian, poet and philosopher Francois Marie Arouet, better known as Voltaire, who lived between 1694 and 1778.

Voltaire, often called the "Prince of Scoffers", somehow found time to write to all the famous men of his time while turning out his prose, poetry and plays. And that doesn't count the numerous ladies who discussed the state of their hearts with him.

If you want to read an unusual application for employment, cast your eye over a letter which Leonardo Da Vinci wrote to the Duke of Milan in 1482. ("I can make armored wagons carrying artillery, which shall break through the most serried ranks of the enemy.")

A most unusual book about a dying art. If you've time for one more New Year's resolution, find time to peruse it sometime in 1965. Your time won't be wasted.

FOR INAUGURATION CEREMONY

Johnson to Get Security Blanket

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyndon B. Johnson will be the best-protected U.S. president in modern history on his inauguration day.

That much is agreed by all concerned with the ceremonies next Wednesday, but the secret service security screen is so dense that it has blocked reporters' access to most of the details.

Among the protective measures known or understood to be planned, to prevent any would-be assassin's attempt to duplicate the tragedy in Dallas 14 months ago, the assassination of President Kennedy, are these:

—Agents with rifles, as well as army television scanners, will keep watch from rooftops on the throngs massed in and around the Capitol Plaza where Johnson will take the oath of office and deliver his inaugural address.

—The newly-rebuilt and re-armored presidential limousine, with a glass "bubble-top" 1½ inches thick, is expected to be used for the inaugural parade. It permits good visibility.

—A building-by-building inspection of windows overlooking the parade route will be made in advance by teams of police and secret service agents.

—A low wall of quarter-inch armor plate, topped by a bullet proof glass "windshield," will guard the president as he views the bands, marchers and floats from his reviewing stand in front of the White House.

USE TRUSTED WORKERS

A contractor was installing other sections of glass, but his contract provides that the heavy, 10-foot-long centre section is to be "finished, installed and removed by others"—presumably by trusted government employees working under secret service eyes.

The combined height of armor plate and glass is 6¼ feet—enough to shield fully the lanky Texan behind it. The platform also appears to be somewhat higher above street level than in former years.

Reporters and cameramen have been advised that their movements along the line of march will be restricted. There have been some signs that applications for press and other credentials — which haven't yet been issued—are getting a closer security check than usual.

Quebec House 'Interesting' Says Wilson

A Quebec House to represent French Canada on the B.C. coast would be welcomed by Mayor R. B. Wilson.

"It is an interesting possibility," remarked the mayor, who has been acclaimed by French and English-speaking Canadians for the part he played in a unique visit of Quebec mayors to B.C. last year.

"If it helps bring the country closer together, it may have merit. But this is really a matter of more concern to the province than the municipality."

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said he personally did not feel it was a good idea.

Pierre Laporte, Quebec cultural affairs minister, said the province is studying the idea, but he told a delegation of Quebec municipalities "constitutional difficulties" are involved.

Impaired Men Allowed to Keep Their Licences

Two persons earlier convicted of impaired driving were allowed to keep their licences for business purposes only when they were sentenced in city court Wednesday.

But Magistrate William Ostler made it clear the only reason for not imposing a total suspension was that both men depended on their licence for a living.

William Neil, 242 Glenairlie, and Roger Heath, 1019 Collinson, were each fined $350. The driving licence restriction will be for six months in each case.

The magistrate had some hard words for Heath. He said the accused gave the probation officer an "absurd" story of how he came to be impaired.

He said Heath could never have reached a blood alcohol level of .20 per cent on only two drinks of rum, as he claimed.

Heath's lawyer, Foster Isherwood, said the drinks were extra large ones. The magistrate observed, "Anyone drinking that heavily is certainly very stupid, to say the least of it."

"It is my opinion that it is out of accord with the centenary project to introduce such a controversial issue such as the sale of liquor," he wrote.

Peterson Bans Immigrants As Farm Labor

A B.C. Federation of Agriculture spokesman Wednesday said temporary farm laborers should be imported from Mexico if efforts to obtain workers from China are blocked.

But provincial Labor Minister Leslie Peterson ruled out any importation of temporary workers.

"Whatever is done must be done for permanent immigration," Mr. Peterson said. "Whether the immigrants are Chinese or from any other country is not the point."

He said temporary labor imports cause "a great many social problems" as proved by the U.S. experience in importing Mexican harvest workers — a program that has recently been abandoned by the U.S.

BCFA secretary Ron Pilling said in Vancouver that temporary farm help was needed and it didn't matter whether the laborers were Mexican or Chinese.

He maintained that unemployment in rural areas is light.

"All the people out of work are in the city and don't want to work on farms," he said.

Earlier labor officials said it would be "criminal irresponsibility" to import unskilled labor while 30,000 British Columbians are unemployed.

Pat O'Neal, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor, said Canadian farmers face a labor problem only because they offer low wages and poor working conditions.

Free Trade Plan Blasted by U.K.

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP) — Britain's automobile industry believes Canada will be "hitting below the belt" if it concludes a proposed free-trade agreement on autos and new parts with the United States.

A statement issued Wednesday by the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders says the society accepts Canada's desire to remedy its trade deficit with the U.S. but "is worried about the effects such arrangements will have on its exports to North America."

In view of the imbalance of trade between Britain and Canada—amounting to £200,000,000 ($600,000,000) in Canada's favor last year—the society considers the Canadian-U.S. proposals "should do nothing to prejudice the British economy.'

"If these arrangements are concluded, it would seem that British motor manufacturers would lose the benefit of their Commonwealth preferences in Canada.

"It would become even more imperative that the present arbitrary Canadian customs valuation laws should be modified to enable Britain to compete more efficiently in the Canadian market."

In the first nine months of 1964, Britain exported about 30,000,000 vehicles worth about £20,000,000 ($60,000,000) to Canada. This represented a 30-per-cent improvement on 1963.

British car makers are worried that if the benefit of Commonwealth preference vanishes, U.S.-owned manufacturers in Britain will stop exporting to Canada. At the moment British Ford and Vauxhall, both U.S.-controlled, are earning valuable dollars for Britain.

Let Deer Feed Selves Game Official Urges

A fish and game branch official said Wednesday deer would be better off to forage for their own food, rather than be given food by man.

He was commenting on a public cry that something should be done for the starving deer because of B.C.'s severe winter.

There is also a near impossibility to provide food for the province's 700,000 deer — 250,000 of them on Vancouver Island.

And the animals, when weak and cold, will die even if they are fed the best of alfalfa, the spokesman said.

"They eat it, but fail to digest it. The hay forms a ball of fibre in the stomach—this interferes with digestion and the animal succumbs."

Scarce food supplies, he explained, last longer when there is "judicious thinning of the herds" during hunting season.

Under nature's law of survival of the fittest, the culls are removed in the winter, allowing the best stock to survive.

"When a severe winter occurs with unusually deep snow and cold periods, much of the usual winter-range becomes untenable and the game animals concentrate in areas where they can best survive.

"Some of these areas are close to farmland and the highways and the plight of the game becomes obvious.

"The vast size of British Columbia and the large number of game animals make efforts at artificial feeding seem small indeed," he said.

NDP, LIBERAL AFFILIATION 'POSSIBLE'

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Russel Brown, national organizer of the New Democratic Party, said Wednesday there is a growing possibility of an affiliation between the Liberal and New Democratic parties. He described the thinking of the two groups as "very close."

Mr. Brown, visiting here as part of a cross-country tour, said in an interview that "something may be worked out between the NDP and Liberals."

The NDP was expected to support the government in the next session of Parliament but without some government housecleaning the party might be forced to back a non-confidence motion.

Looks Bad? Get a Test Order Police

Saanich police will be directing apparently defective automobiles to the provincial government's testing centre for the rest of this week under an order issued Wednesday by Police Chief W. A. Pearson.

The order states the police will direct the motorists to the testing centre on the Town and Country parking lot for a thorough check if any defects are apparent.

If the motorist refuses, he will be charged under the appropriate section of the Motor Vehicles Act, said Chief Pearson.

Gimme, Gimme Attitude Hit

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia may be reaching the saturation point in pulp mill development, the president of a Vancouver Island logging company said Wednesday.

W. R. Malpass, of M and W Logging Company of Nanaimo, told delegates to the Truck Loggers' Association convention here that "with 10 new mills or so covering the length and breadth of the province, it may well be that our wood supply is getting spread out pretty thin.

"Should we not take a breather at this point and ensure our existing industry has some room to breathe?

Mr. Malpass, keynote speaker at the convention, warned against the "gimme, gimme" attitude that could kill the promising future of the logging business.

Miners Accept Offer

CALGARY (CP) — Six hundred southern Alberta coal miners Wednesday voted two to one in favor of accepting a contract offer from the Western Coal Operators' Association. The offer, which includes a daily wage increase of 80 cents, was turned down earlier by the miners' union policy committee.

Cleaning Woman Left Safety Box Fortune

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Miss Rose Williams, 83, spent her life dusting and sweeping other women's homes so, her friends believed, she could indulge a solitary passion:

Wearing red dresses, red hats, red shoes, red nightclothes.

But county officials have discovered that the tiny spinster made a few other investments —in securities.

She died Dec. 10.

The public administrator's office reported this week that $130,000 in securities was found in her safety box.

"And there may be a lot more in other banks," said an official.

Among the survivors is a nephew, Albert Williams, 3916 Gordon Head Road, Victoria.

His wife, Evelyn, told The Times Miss Williams visited Victoria three times in the last years.

"She was a remarkable person," Mrs. Williams recalled.

"She walked two miles every day. She could outwalk me.

'She made all her own red clothes. She had her own ways and we never talked about it."

Her investment career began about 15 years ago when she saved up $500 and turned it over to a broker to handle.

'She lived on the investments. She was too proud to take social security. And she attended all the stock meetings.'

Miss Williams lived in a small rented room in Los Angeles. She took ill suddenly and died two days later.

"She had never been in hospital in her life. And she only weighed 85 pounds.'

Mrs. Williams recalled when Rose visited her they went to a museum. She was prepared to read the signs but Rose could read them herself and didn't require glasses.

"She was a remarkable person," Mrs. Williams said again.

Banks' Name Pops Up At Inquiry

By DAVE McINTOSH

MONTREAL (CP)—Attempts to obtain bail for narcotics smuggling suspect Lucien Rivard have been at the very core of the Dorion judicial inquiry.

So whose name crops up at the inquiry Wednesday? That of bail - jumping Hal Banks, dethroned czar of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.).

Banks was appealing a five-year jail sentence for conspiracy to commit bodily harm to a Great Lakes captain when he skipped $25,000 bail last summer and fled to the United States.

Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne, acting for the U.S. government, has testified that he was offered a $20,000 bribe and put under pressure by federal ministerial aides to agree to release on bail of Rivard, wanted in the U.S. on charges of smuggling narcotics for a Mafia-run dope ring.

Mr. Lamontagne has said he had every reason to believe that Rivard would skip bail if he was released from Montreal's Bordeaux Jail, where he has been since June 19.

MENTIONED BANKS

The witness who brought up Banks' name was Eddy Lechasseur, 23-year-old friend of Rivard and himself out on bail.

Lechasseur said an "extradition specialist" in Ottawa had been working on the Banks case and had found that Banks could not be extradited to Canada from the U.S.

This so-called expert, he said, had studied whether the experience with Banks could be applied to the Rivard case.

The U.S. is trying to have Rivard extradited to face the dope charges in Laredo, Tex.

Lechasseur, who followed murder suspect Robert Gignac in the witness box, said the contact between Mrs. Rivard and the "specialist" was Guy Masson, identified earlier by Gignac as a Liberal party organizer.

DIDN'T GIVE NAME

Lechausseur said Masson never informed him who the "specialist" was. Masson had told him that the "expert" didn't want his name mentioned and wished to work "incognito."

Lechasseur, who gave his testimony with arms folded and leaning against a pillar beside the witness box, said the "specialist" would advise Mrs. Rivard on how to get her husband out of Bordeaux as a consequence of the Banks case.

The burly witness, who at one point got into a near-shouting match with Chief Justice Frederic Dorion for not being precise in his replies to commission questions, said Masson had quoted the "expert" as saying Rivard's case was difficult because the U.S. wanted Rivard and Canada wanted to get rid of him.

Lechasseur and Gignac both testified that Mrs. Rivard raised $60,000 as bail for her husband, some $35,000 of it from two men identified only as "Roger" and "Dave."

Lechasseur said Masson wanted to be sure the money was available for bail.

GAVE $1,000

He also said Mrs. Rivard gave Masson $1,000 to cover his expenses in dealing with the "specialist," located in Ottawa. Lechasseur and Gignac, the latter charged with capital murder in the slaying of a night-club doorman here Sept. 17, also both mentioned Raymond Rouleau, brother of Montreal Liberal MP Guy Rouleau, former parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson.

Lechasseur said Raymond Rouleau and Rivard were "very close friends" who met quite frequently at election times.

He said that at Rivard's request Raymond Rouleau had met him and Mrs. Rivard.

Francois Chapados, counsel for Masson, entered as an exhibit a telephone bill for one of Gignac's companies for one month last summer.

The exhibit showed a $1.85 phone call June 22 to Ottawa number 992-3234. This was the number listed in the Canadian government telephone directory for Raymond Denis at Immigration Minister Tremblay's House of Commons office.

There was no testimony as to who placed the call or received it.

WAS AT MOTEL

Gignac said Tuesday that a "Mr. Denis" turned up at a motel suite in Hull, Que., where he and Masson were staying after Masson had made a telephone call.

Gignac has also testified that Masson, a sometime employee and partner of his, used his telephone frequently.

Lechasseur denied ever telephoning Mr. Lamontagne and swore that he understood nothing about any bribe offer to the lawyer.

"I don't think Rivard is as rich as everyone thinks he is," he said.

Mrs. Rivard, scheduled to testify later, was described by Lechasseur as a young woman who had led a "sheltered life."

She had asked Lechasseur to advise her after her husband's arrest so that nobody would take advantage of her "naievete and lack of experience."

CELEBRATING birthday number 90 today is Albert Schweitzer who received greetings at his jungle hospital at Lambarene, Gabon, Africa.

Bottle Assault Costs Sailor 2-Year Term

A 20-year-old sailor who indecently assaulted a 16-year-old Saanich girl on Aug. 18 and slugged a Sooke man with a bottle on Nov. 28, drew a two-year jail term in Supreme Court here Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Justice Wootton sentenced him to 12 months definite and 12 months indefinite in the New Haven young offenders' unit.

The judge noted that both assaults were committed under the influence of drink.

"I have to consider what can be done to deter you from drinking and to deter other men from similar behavior," the judge told Daniel Stanley Fletcher.

Fletcher had previously appeared before Mr. Justice Wootton on Nov. 12. He was then given a two-year suspended sentence and put on a $2,000 bond for indecent assault on a 16-year-old girl.

BODILY HARM

On Jan. 9 he was convicted in Sooke police court of causing bodily harm to a Sooke man by hitting him with a bottle.

He was then charged with breaking the conditions of his suspended sentence.

Mr. Justice Wootton said the two convictions were akin since Fletcher had been drinking on both occasions.

Alan Bigelow, Fletcher's defence counsel, said the accused now realized that drink was the cause of his difficulties.

"I thought that was brought home to him when he appeared in this court before on a most distressing charge," said Mr. Justice Wootton, referring to the assault on the girl.

Mr. Bigelow argued that a nominal sentence would do Fletcher more good than a term in the penitentiary.

TEMPER JUSTICE

Mr. Justice Wootton said he was anxious to temper justice with mercy but could not forget that Fletcher had broken the conditions of his suspended sentence.

"On the charge of indecently assaulting a female person I could have sentenced you to five years and had you whipped," he told Fletcher.

"I gave you a lenient sentence and, instead of abiding by the conditions, you committed another asault."

Mr. Justice Wootton then asked crown prosecutor J. Alan Baker, QC, if he could suggest a suitable punishment for Fletcher.

After consultation with a probation officer, Mr. Baker suggested he should be sentenced to two years less a day definite and two years less a day indefinite in the New Haven Young Offenders Unit.

TOO SEVERE

Mr. Bigelow objected.

"I consider that punishment much too severe," he said.

Mr. Baker admitted that Fletcher had no convictions prior to his assault on the girl, but said his breach of probation could not be overlooked.

Mr. Bigelow pointed out that Fletcher's assault on the Sooke man was the result of an altercation in which there was some provocation.

"It wasn't necesarily all his fault," counsel said. "I submit that a two-year sentence in a penal institution on a boy who did wrong while intoxicated would do him more harm than good."

Mr. Justice Wootton agreed to reduce the sentence to 12 months, directing that Fletcher should serve the term in the New Haven Young Offenders Unit.

Jobless Increase

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment in Canada at mid-December, 1964, rose to 285,000 from 258,000 in the preceding month, but was still well below the December, 1963, level of 346,000. A joint report issued Wednesday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and the labor department reported employment at 6,614,00, down 80,000 from November, but 186,000 above the figure for a year earlier.

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, JANUARY 14, 1965—PAGE 21

Arthur Mayse

One day this wet and dreary week, I settled in for a fireside visit with a teacher of English who estimates that she has now brought the word to approximately 6,000 high school students.

The task has bowed but not broken her. She's sassy as a jaybird still (a cliche which will cost me a red-ink marginal note) and her sense of humor, though grim, remains intact.

Like most teachers, she misses no chance to improve her classroom pitch. One gimmick, she has found especially useful for this purpose.

When she assigns her final essay of the school year, she asks students to add an extra page. On this they are to write a frank opinion of her teaching procedures, and offer suggestions as to how she might make English 40 and 91 more palatable to future classes.

Also, and wisely, she promises not to read those end pages until term's over and their authors out of her clutches.

July of 1964 was half spent before she got around to checking opinions.

She opened the folder, took out the first sheet, and turned it over.

Scrawled across it in large, unbridled letters, were two words:

'DROP DEAD!'

★ ★ ★

The other members of her now-scattered flock were, however, more temperate.

One or two timid souls confessed in absentia that she had scared them so they couldn't think straight, especially when they'd goofed.

Several surprised her with a warmth of affection and gratitude which they would never have dreamed of displaying in the presence of their peers. She was, in their view, the best, fairest and most helpful teacher they'd had in 12 years of school.

But the summary this veteran of the scholastic wars most cherishes comes from a different source.

In a school corridor on the first day of a fall term, she found herself close behind a pair of summer-tanned 17-year-olds whom she recognized as grade 12 fodder.

First girl: Who you got for litachure this year?

Second girl: Mrs. X, she's an awful square.

First: I got her too. My boy friend says she's real strict and tough.

Second (gloomily, but with satisfaction): Yeah. She'll make us learn something.

★ ★ ★

Wrapped up in that scrap of adolescent dialogue is a truth which those who have to do with the rearing of the young might ponder.

This I did, with an assist from our school-ma'am.

In the stage when they are no longer children but not yet adults, she said, juveniles may rebel against authority, but thrive best under strict but scrupulously fair discipline.

Delivered of her preachment, she paused to take a pencil to the hellish work schedule which will keep her busy 12 hours a day until Easter vacation, which she will spend correcting papers.

She retrieved a couple of Thursday hours that had bolted over into Friday, then paused.

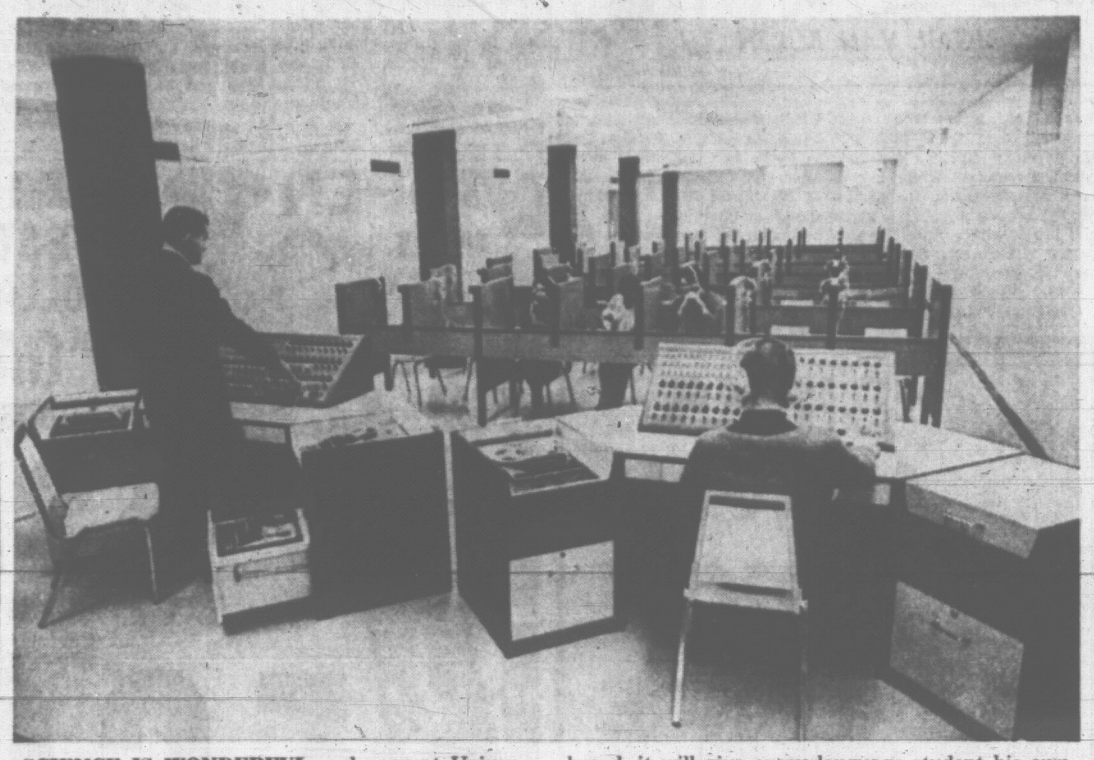

"About reading," she said. "Do you know our great, lumbering potential dropouts strip our library shelves bare of books about cars? The finest aid to reading for those boys would be a set of stories in which other boys constructed prize-winning hot-rods or won stock car races because their . . . their camshafts were honed a trifle finer than their rivals'!"

Our Miss Dove circled a blue Monday with a firm hand. From her 30 years of teaching, she offered a last dictum:

"Before children start school," she said, "they should be read to every day. After they've learned to read — which, with luck, they may do before grade one—make books available to them in the home. Parents who do this aren't likely to be plagued by reading difficulties later."

SCIENCE IS WONDERFUL and soon at University of Victoria, through this electronic switchboard, it will give every language student his own personal instructor—and probably flat ears too.

Cycle Victim Gets $32,000 From Courts

Damages totalling $32,000 were awarded in Supreme Court here Wednesday to a former Victoria man who lost his leg after being hit by a motorcycle nearly five years ago.

The accident took place on Shelbourne Street, Saanich, on June 18, 1959.

Stephen Thomas McGaw, formerly of Saanich and now living in North Surrey, B.C., was awarded $30,000 general damages and slightly more than $2,000 special damages in a judgment handed down by Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton.

The damages were awarded against Gordon William Hatch, a Victoria man now training with the RCAF in Manitoba.

CHECK MISFIRE

Hatch told the court he lost control of his motorcycle when he received an electrical shock as he reached down to check a misfire in his engine.

"The shock caused me to lose control of the bike," he said.

Mr. Justice Wootton ruled that he was negligent in not stopping his motorcycle at the side of the road while he checked the fault.

Mr. McGaw, who lived on Kenmore Road until four years ago, was represented in court by Edwin A. Popham of Victoria.

Thief Gets $11 In City Burglary

About $11 cash and some cigarettes were stolen in a break-in at Dave Duncan's Shell Service Station at Pleasant and Bay Streets overnight.

The thieves also took two peanut machines with them.

They entered the building by breaking a window in the rear of the station.

Learning By Flick Of a Switch

By PETE LOUDON

Some day, if they have long enough wires, language students at University of Victoria will be able to stay in bed—and still pass.

You can see the possibility in a visit to Uvic's latest teaching aid, an electronic classroom now being set up in the Clearihue Building.

When it opens in February, a new day dawns in the history of education in Victoria.

Students will enter the classroom and be seated in one of 45 tiny cubicles. They will put on their earphones and adjust their microphones. They will switch on their tape recorders.

151 Switches

The instructor will enter and seat himself at one of two consoles. He'll start flicking the 151 switches and buttons before him and class will be in session.

Another instructor may enter and take over the twin console at his right. One instructor may be teaching French, the other Russian, Spanish or German to half the class.

Yet instead of a Tower of Babel, the classroom will provide only an industrious murmur to any visitor who isn't "plugged in."

The instructors will have prepared their lessons previously on a tape recorder. They touch a button or two and every student is tuned in, listening and re-recording.

Each student can call in his instructor for individual aid. Each student can recite a lesson to his instructor without embarrassing gaffaws if he makes an error in pronunciation.

Each student can work at his own speed.

No Snoring!

The instructor can call in one student or any number at a given time to recite. He can have one student reciting to the whole class and the student would not know it.

The instructor can cut in on any student while the student is practicing his phrases, without the student's knowledge — and he'd better not hear him snoring.

The instructor's lesson is recorded on an upper track on the student's tape. The student records his own attempts on a lower track. The student can listen to any portion of either.

The man who is installing this wonder, called a 'language laboratory' is Johannes 'Hans' Seidel of RCA Victor service depot here. He says the 'lab' increases the teacher's capabilities.

Teacher Multiplied

"The teacher all of a sudden is multiplied. He is present with every student on a private line.

"He can give a test on tape and then collect the student tapes to mark them later." In fact, with all those controls, the instructor may find his instruction aid makes him busier than ever before.

But the value to the student has been proven in language departments elsewhere, so much so that it is now a modern, essential teaching aid, claims Dr. Harry Hickman who heads the department of modern languages.

The whole installation, with it's 27,000 feet of wiring (more than five miles), its recorders, head sets and booths, costs close to $25,000.

Maybe that's why they call it higher education.

'BENEFITS TRIAL' DECISION TO BE GIVEN WEEK EARLIER

Judge Montague Drake announced today that he has reached a decision in the trial of B.C. purchasing commissioner George E. P. Jones, charged with accepting benefits from a Victoria car firm while he was chairman of the commission.

Judge Drake said he will give judgment in Victoria County Court this Friday at 2:30 p.m. instead of Jan. 22, as previously arranged.

The seven-day trial concluded Tuesday when Hugh McGivern, Mr. Jones' counsel, said he would call no witnesses for the defence because he did not think the Crown had produced sufficient evidence against him.

Mayor Asks Public Drive For Gov't Bus Subsidies

Mayor R. B. Wilson today called on public opinion to support provincial subsidy for urban transit in Greater Victoria and Vancouver.

In an address to Victoria Rotary Club at the Empress Hotel at noon he pointed to "refreshing evidence of the power of public opinion in the recent reduction of student bus fares."

"Much has been made of the fact that the rest of the province should not be subsidizing transit in Greater Vancouver and Greater Victoria.

"However, our analysis tell us that Greater Vancouver and Greater Victoria are subsidizing power rates in the rest of the province, which may not be such a bad thing if it is good for the development of the province.

"The urban bus systems have long been subsidized from the sale of electric power.

"This, too, may not be such a bad thing for after all, the buses do serve three-quarters of the population of the province.

"Public opinion could play an important part in the final solution of urban transit," Mayor Wilson said.

He spoke at a meeting arranged annually by the club to allow members to meet and host each member of city council at luncheon.

The mayor referred to the question of transit in the modern city as an involved one and likely to become more so.

In the U.S. for example, it is approached as an economic exercise — the cheapest way of moving bodies in and out of a city.

It is resolved there into whether it is cheaper to subsidize a mass transit system or build the great road systems necessary to cope with private automobiles.

"It has become so involved that the federal government in Washington has set aside large sums of money for study and aid of urban transit systems," the mayor said.

Canadian Federation of Mayors executive, meeting the federal cabinet last year, "came away with the impression that the federal government would give sympathetic consideration to a joint study by federal, provincial and municipal governments."

RECENT STATEMENT

The mayor referred to a recent statement by Premier Bennett that there had been too much "bla, bla, bla about the the whole question of the buses.

"I think if safe to say that not all the "bla, bla, bla' has come from the public or the municipalities.

"The premier has indicated that if the municipalities wish to discuss the matter of transit with him their proposal must be in writing.

"Coming from one who is notoriously allergic to writing letters or putting anything in writing, this makes strange music indeed," Mayor Wilson said.

The municipalities are "ready and willing" to sit down for discussions with someone in authority in search for a solution, Rotarians were told.

All-Out Search Fails to Find 'Missing Men'

Greater Victoria police departments said today they have no reports of missing persons following a search Wednesday for a small boat said to have tipped over off Dallas Road.

The report came from a woman living on Dallas Road. The boat was said to be about 10 feet long and two men were sitting in it.

A 90-minute search got under way immediately with a coast guard helicopter, two naval harborcraft, a pilotage vessel and the cutter Ready, taking part.

The search covered the area between Holland Point and Trial Island, but nothing was sighted.

"There was no sea and there was little tide at the time," said a pilotage official.

Area-Wide Pact Finishes Store Walkout Threat

A strike of store clerks was forestalled today when Cordova Bay Super-Valu store manager Bruce McMorran agreed verbally to sign an area-wide working agreement.

Forty-eight hours strike notice expired this morning and Local 1518, Retail, Food and Drug Clerks Union agent John Nicol said Mr. McMorran agreed to a meeting at 2:30 p.m. Friday for signing an agreement that will raise senior male salaries by about $9 a week, other rates by a lesser amount.

Ten employees of the store at 5124 Cordova Bay Road are affected by the settlement, as recommended by a labor department conciliator.

Area agreement provides for a range of $1.70-$2.60 an hour for men and $1.60-$2.10 for women employees.

Juveniles Appear In 'Open' Court

Two 14-year-old boys, charged in adult court with three counts of breaking and entering and arson and mischief, were remanded to Jan. 19 when they appeared before Magistrate William Ostler today.

The breaking and entering charges were laid after an office at Fisherman's Wharf and Russell's Radio Sales on Kingston Street were entered Sunday.

The youths are also charged with breaking and entering an equipment shed at Macdonald Park Sept. 26 last year.

The arson and mischief charges were laid following a fire in the Outer Wharf Grocery Dec. 5.

Build Freeways Or 'Be Choked'

City, Swartz Link Needed, Says BCAA

The provincial government today was asked for early action on a Swartz Bay-Victoria freeway by the B.C. Automobile Association.

In a brief to the cabinet, BCAA directors said construction of freeways was the only solution for transportation needs of metropolitan areas faced with appalling congestion "which is choking the life out of our urban areas."

"Only if action is taken now, can we prevent the hardening of our traffic arteries and serious disruption of urban way of life," the brief said.

"Major surgery in the form of freeways is required to get the traffic flowing smoothly."

The brief urged the government to convene a meeting of provincial and civic representatives "to seek ways and means of implementing" two technical studies in 1959 and 1964 urging freeways.

SPECIAL EMPHASIS

It said "special emphasis should be given to early action on a second crossing of the First Narrows (in Vancouver) and early attention be given to the Victoria-Swartz Bay highway problem."

The brief said urban freeways save a great deal of time for motorists, can carry up to 1,700 vehicles per lane in an hour compared with ordinary roads, provide express routes for transit buses which increases their passenger traffic and saves motorists about two cents a mile in operating costs.

Meanwhile Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis and Social Credit MLA John Tisdale criticized a statement Wednesday by Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi that improvement of the Patricia Bay highway is not included in this year's program.

"Death has reigned supreme long enough" on the highway, said Mr. Tisdalle. "It is time the minister took competent action to see that the people of this area are properly rewarded with an adequate highway."

He also reiterated a suggestion that the Swartz Bay-Royal Oak portion of the highway be rebuilt which would give time for the department to decide exactly where the new route should enter the urban area.

Mr. Tisdalle said a large number of landowners along several proposed routes for the new highway have been suffering hardship for the past three years because they can't make plans until the department makes its decision.

Reeve Curtis said persons using the highway "will express their disapproval of this latest delay" in improving the highway link.

PARTIAL PROGRAM

He also called for at least a partial construction program while final details involved with a Greater Victoria traffic report are worked out. The Reeve said an initial draft of the report has been in civic hands but "only within the past few days" and denied any delay.

Mother Saves Infant Daughter But Loses Home

Oil Stove Explodes; Telephones Cut Off

A Duncan mother scrambled to safety with her 19-month-old baby daughter this morning when the kitchen oil heater exploded and set their home ablaze.

Mrs. Florence Middlemiss and baby Karen escaped uninjured from the fire which completely destroyed their two-storey, five-room house on Sahtlam Road, four miles west of Duncan.

Mrs. Middlemiss said she was going to wash dishes but when she dropped a lighted paper into the heater, it exploded.

The explosion broke all kitchen windows and sent flames raging through the top storey.

CUT OFF BY FIRE

Flames cut her off from the telephone. She hurried outside, carrying the baby and ran to her neighbor Jack West.

His telephone was not in service and he had to run to another neighbor to raise the alarm.

Municipal fire chief Pat Clackson said the house was completely engulfed in flames when his men arrived.

All that was saved were some family snapshots, found lying in the snow.

FATHER WORKING

Denis Middlemiss, owner of the house, was at work as a longshoreman and the older six children were all at school.

The Middlemiss family had only lived in the 25-year-old house since last August.

The previous house on the same site was also destroyed by fire.

Mrs. Middlemiss said she believed her husband had the house insured.

¼ teaspoon shredded lemon peel,
Dash white pepper,

3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine,
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion,
2 cups bite size shredded rice biscuits crushed to 1 cup
1 package (1½-2 oz.) cream of mushroom soup mix,
1½ cups cold water.

Heat oven to moderate (350°). Butter 4 (6 oz.) oven-proof dishes. Add water to mushroom liquid to measure cup. Add salt and cook spinach in this until tender. Drain and save spinach water. To this, add one package cream cheese, lemon peel and seasonings. Cook and stir over low heat until sauce is smooth. Gradually beat half the sauce into the egg. Add to remaining sauce. Cook and stir until sauce thickens. Brown mushrooms in butter. Remove mushrooms. Add onions. Cook until clear. Remove from heat. Add cereal crumbs. Mix well. Mix spinach and mushrooms in cheese sauce. Spoon into baking dishes. Top with crumb mixture. Bake 15-20 minutes until sauce is bubbling. Unmold on serving plates. Mix soup and water until smooth. Heat and stir to boiling. Add 1 package cream cheese. Heat and stir until smooth. Serve with spinach mold.

Yield: 4 servings.

Note: Casserole, crumbs and sauce can be frozen if wrapped separately. Thaw, covered, at room temperature. Bake as above.

BE SMART—

Former Baltimorean Margaret Wroten received a novel, and extremely copy-able gift—a pair of black wool mittens with a black-dyed rabbit trim cuff. But the donor had added a clever touch: a cute pair of novelty pins to spice up one glove.

DEAR ABBY...

Technically Speaking!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I know that, technically, my sister's husband is MY brother-in-law, but does that make him my husband's brother-in-law, too? Also my husband has three married sisters. I know that their husbands are my husband's brothers-in-law, but what are they, technically speaking that is, to me? And while I'm asking, are my aunts and uncles my husband's aunts and uncles, too? And how about cousins.

JUST TECHNICAL

DEAR TECHNICAL: Technically, your sister's husband is YOUR brother-in-law, not your husband's. And neither are your husband's brother-in-law YOURS. Your aunts, uncles and cousins are not your husband's, technically. Nor are his yours. But (and this is a very big "but") in most healthy marriages, both husband and wife "take on" the relatives of their spouses as their own. And don't get too "technical" or you might give the impression that you are trying to disclaim relationship to your husband's relatives.

DEAR ABBY: I was unemployed when I met my wife, but she said she'd marry me anyway and she would work until I found a job I could handle with my bum back. We've been married 11 years, and I'll admit I haven't worked much, but it's because of my back. I've been to all kinds of doctors and not one of them has been able to help me, so they say it is all in my head. When I wake up in the morning my back feels like a locomotive ran over it. Now my wife refuses to give me any money. Can I sue for non-support?

BAD BACK

DEAR BAD BACK: A lawyer can tell you whether you can sue or not. It sounds to me like a case of not enough backbone and too much wishbone.

DEAR ABBY: You told the girl whose "wonderful" fiance insisted on driving 90 and 100 miles an hour that you hoped she looked good in black. I liked your answer. I also had a a "wonderful" fiance who loved to speed. I knew it when I became engaged to him, but loved him too much to break off with him.

One night he was doing 85 on wet pavement and we skidded into a pole. My right leg was so badly mangled it had to be amputated near the hip. I was later fitted with an artificial limb, but I must use crutches, too.

After I lost my leg, my fiance lost interest in me. He broke our engagement and married a girl with two legs. I have a good job, live in a nice apartment, but I don't have much fun. If it's true that "men seldom make passes at girls who wear glasses," it is truer that men rarely make clutches for girls who use crutches. While girls in love seldom listen to advice, my experience might help some girl break with a speed demon before she spends the rest of her life regretting it.

SORRY IN S. F.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FED UP," whose husband knocked her down a flight of stairs, tried to choke her and cause her to have four miscarriages because of his brutal beatings: If you spend another night with this animal, you are out of your mind. Send me your name and an address where you can receive my reply and I will tell you exactly what to do.

Designer Pokes Fun At Women

NEW YORK (AP) — When women wear the pants in the family, men should laugh, believes designer John Weitz.

They will, too, if their wives wear the pool-side pants he prescribed at his recent press show.

Yellow cowboy suits with chaps of giant red desert flowers, a scaffold jump suit, lunatic fringe pants and a bodice made modest by a single bow were some of the costumes created to get grins if not guffaws.

Weitz, who is the husband of actress Susan Kohner, heartily approved the ancient sport of poking fun at ladies' wardrobes.

"A man may roar 'good gawd what's that,' but he is secretly amused at his wife's verve," said Weitz.

His pool-side pants are fringed, ruffled, and puffy with poise. Bare midriff and stretch pants that cling to the strategic spots are bold but not bad.

"Some pants for women are cut so that they look wonderful while she stands, but are awful when she sits down," said Weitz. "Other pants are great at right angles but not vertically."

Paris Swept by Craze That Sees Furs Printed in Tartans, Stripes

PARIS (Reuters) —Printed furs are the latest fashion craze in Paris.

Supple flat-haired furs such as river otter, seal, and pony skin are printed with textile patterns in bold multi-colored tartans, hound's tooth checks, stripes, and shadow plaids.

No new idea has so revolutionized the French fur industry since furriers launched bleached beaver and other artificial blonde pelts 15 years ago.

Paradoxically, many smart Frenchwomen, who consider that the epitome of bad taste is to wear a fur coat over a printed dress, are among the strongest partisans of printed furs.

Chombert, the man who originated the novel idea of printed furs this winter, has earned the nickname of Picasso of the Pelts. This designer's new collection, featuring 200 fur models, is the largest in Paris.

Once, a fur automatically became a coat, a jacket, or a stole. For the last few years, Paris furriers, with Christian Dior, Pierre Balmain, Revillon, and Chombert leading the field, have evolved supple furs in every type of garment. There are fur pants, fur shirts, fur skirts, and fur hostess clothes. Balenciaga reached the pinnacle of luxury with his floor-length dressing gowns made of white mink or chinchilla.

PATTERNED PELTS

Now, comes printing.

Fur kerchiefs and scarves come printed in sporty geometrical patterns. Another novelty is an ankle-length hostess skirt made of black and white printed giraffe skin.

Chombert's furs are waterproofed. Mink, otter, beaver, and leopard have suddenly acquired all the practicality of an umbrella, without in any way changing their original aspect.

Roger Vivier, the shoe designer, is showing a collection of handbags and footwear in the same seemingly fragile pelts. Amusing leggings, gaiters, knee-high boots, and roomy travel bags appear in Chombert's water-repellent skins, destined to match, or contrast with his fur "raincoats."

Pierre Cardin shows the most exotic monkey fur coat in Paris. He has dyed the long-haired skins bright green, and then worked them upside down. Long fronds of fur sprout out from the body, so that the model looks somewhat like a palm tree suddenly come to life.

Women Staff Four Banks in India

BOMBAY (CP)—Four banks exclusively run by women have been organized in India.

The latest in the Karol Bagh residential colony of New Delhi has a staff of 10—one manager, two officers, six clerks and an attendant—all women. The only man in the setup is the bank's guard.

"It is only a question of time before we find a reliable woman who can handle a gun and protect the bank," said an official of the Syndicate Bank of Mysore, which is organizing the women's banks.

The three other women's banks are in Madras, Trivandrum and Hyderabad. Their turnover increased by 200 to 400 per cent within six months.

The women's banks welcome deposits from men, too. A brochure says: "The bank considers no woman—or man—too small for a bank account."

A feature of the women's banks is their "pygmy deposits scheme." A man goes around on a motor scooter collecting daily deposits of 25 paise (six cents) from poor clients. The savings are repaid with interest after seven years.

The banks also advance personal loans of up to $1,000 to professional persons going abroad for advanced technical training. Preference is given to women.

A top official of the Syndicate Bank of Mysore said the main idea behind the ventures is to inculcate the banking habit among Indian housewives who are generally home-bound and regard banks as a male preserve.

Now—with the new Red Rose 'Flavour-Flo' Gauze tea bags, you can really taste the sparkle and freshness of Canada's favourite Orange Pekoe. You see, 'Flavour-Flo' tea bags, a world's 'first' from Red Rose—are made of a non-woven rayon fabric that adds not a trace of a taste of its own. It's so porous the boiling water hits the tea leaves at its bubbling peak . . . to give you Red Rose Tea at its delicious, flavour-full best.

Jewelry Trend Makes News For the Spring

By PENNY SAVER

It's only natural that with the influx of new fashions on the market, the jewelry mode should adapt to take in the new "Mod" (to borrow a phrase from the English) styles.

In recent years, necklaces have taken on the new longer length referred to in fashion circles as matinee-length. The most prominent types were those made of a variety of bark, cork and bits of wood or an array of polished nuts, and were suitable only for wear with casual or sport clothes.

However, these, too, have given way to the soft, elegant look dictated by fashion. The ones I found today sell at $4 and combine this popular length with the look of black 'n' silver crystal. Ideal for evening wear, they can be paired with matching cluster earrings that are priced at $2.

Late-day parties are the perfect time for wearing your most elegant little cocktail frock. And, what could add that finishing touch of color better than a necklace of large fashion pearls.

Colors are the fashion favorites of silver and gold and necklaces feature the new glamor clasps. The price is $2 and earrings to match can be purchased for the same price.

With the coming of spring, thoughts (at least a woman's) turn to cool cotton dresses and delicate pastel tones. This year more than ever before, pastel is the word. We see it not only in clothes, but also in jewelry and accessories.

To offset your favorite all-white or all-black outfit, try a three-strand, multi-pastel necklace. Made of a delicate light metal, they combine such colors as pale green, peach, gold and silver. The length is, of course, matinee and the price, a mere $2. Available for the same price are matching cluster earrings.

A new look on the "teen scene" is the bright, wide bangle bracelet. Replacing the former thin gold or silver metal strips, these are made of plastic and are often worn five at a time. Colors include vivid reds, greens and blue and price is five for $1.

Match your favorite ensembles with this new trend in jewelry. But first, call Penny at 382-3131 and find out where she shopped.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Redistribute Your Weight Attractively With Exercise

This is the fourth in a series of 15 articles Josephine Lowman is writing to help readers lose as much as 20 pounds in just eight weeks.

They will appear each day through to Wednesday. Then there will be one article each week to guide and encourage you as you complete the remaining six weeks of the routine.

Lowman

As you know by now, I am bringing you my Eight-Week Beauty Improvement Plan this week. The idea is to see how much you can improve your appearance in eight weeks time with my help. Most women who join BIP wish to lose from 15 to 20 pounds in this length of time.

Those of you who have been following my routine, which is appearing in this newspaper, now know how to decide what your ideal weight is. You know how to take your measurements and what they should be. You know how many calories you should have in order to lose the number of pounds you wish to lose. You have been given general directions as to how to plan your reducing diet and also one sample dinner.

Now we come to an important part of BIP—EXERCISE. Any slimming routine or self-improvement program is much more successful if the right exercises are included. These increase your energy output and burn up calories.

Exercise is the one way you can redistribute your weight more attractively. If you are overweight AND your measurements are out of proportion, when you lose you will be smaller all over but your measurements will still be out of proportion. As a matter of fact many women who are not overweight follow my Beauty Improvement Plan for this reason.

Before starting your exercises you should have your heart and blood pressure checked by your physician.

Warm up before starting your exercise program each day with the following. Walk around the room for a few minutes, slowly at first and gradually increase to briskly. Then stand in place and walk in place, lifting the knees in front of you. This takes care of your heart curve. Never jump into strenuous exercise from inactivity. Work into it slowly.

Today I give you one abdominal and one hip slimming exercise. Do these each day, 10 times at first. For the abdomen: Lie on your back on the floor with your legs straight and your arms resting on the floor overhead. Bend both knees up close to your abdomen and grasp your knees with your hands. Return legs and arms to starting position. Continue for 10 times. Take time for the stretch-out between bendings.

The following exercise is a splendid slimmer for the hips and thighs and also gives the waist a twist. Lie on your back on the floor with your arms resting on the floor, extending straight out from your shoulders, palms toward the floor. Swing your right leg over your left and try to touch the floor on the left side of your body with your right toe. Keep the knees stiff. Bring your right toe as near your left hand as you can. Return leg to starting position.

This time swing your left leg over your right and try to touch the floor on the right side of your body with your left toe. Return leg, and continue, alternating.

Do both of these exercises 10 times the first day and gradually increase until you are doing them 30 times each for the rest of the eight weeks.

If any of my readers missed the first part of my Beauty Improvement Plan, which is being published in this newspaper, or if you would like to have the BIP Kit (which has a booklet of complete instructions, a comprehensive calorie chart, illustrated exercises and a unique chart on which to plot your progress) send 25 cents, plus 15 cents for postage and handling, and your printed name and address with your request. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

The engagement is announced of Evelyn Gail, daughter of Mrs. W. Reburn, 676 Jones Terrace, and the late Mr. Reburn, to Mr. Clyde Morrison Bogle, son of Mrs. J. Bogle, 2327 Epworth Street, and the late Mr. Bogle. The wedding will take place on Saturday, Jan. 30 at 2:30 p.m. in First Baptist Church, Rev. John Watson will officiate.

Newlyweds To Make Home Here Following Hawaiian Honeymoon

Following a honeymoon trip to Hawaii, Mr. and Mrs. David Roy Haywood will make their home in Royal Lancer Apartments, Cedar Hill Road.

The couple exchanged marriage vows in a recent candlelight ceremony at St. Edmund's Anglican Church, Parksville, with Rev. Eric Blackstock officiating.

The bride is the former Elizabeth Graham Wing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wing of Parksville. The groom's parents are Lieut. and Mrs. Eric Haywood, 2151 Allenby Street, Victoria.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride was lovely in a floor-length gown of white French velvet that featured a Watteau train. The fitted bodice, styled with elbow-length sleeves, was enhanced with ribbonette French lace. A crown of seed pearls and crystals held the flared veil of illusion net. She carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis, carnations and ivy, centred with a white orchid.

RED VELVET GOWNS

Short-length gowns of ruby-red French velvet with shoes en tone were worn by matron of honor, Mrs. M. Caljouw, Comox, sister of the bride, and bridesmaids, the Misses Linda Young and Diane Haywood, the groom's sister. They wore handmade circlets of matching velvet in their hair and carried colonial bouquets of white chrysanthemums.

Robert Faulds was best man and guests were ushered to their pews by Brian Hornidge and Allan Bowden.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Victoria Room of the Island Hall Hotel, Parksville. Dan Murray proposed the toast to the bride's happiness.

For travelling, the bride chose a white Italian knit suit, accented with a blue topcoat and black patent accessories. Pink roses were in her corsage.

Only out-of-town guests at the ceremony were the groom's parents, Lieut. and Mrs. Eric Haywood, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Forrest and family, all of Victoria.

Daughters of St. George, No. 238, Friday at 8 p.m., K of P Hall.

Britain's State Schools Mostly 'Unsatisfactory'

LONDON (CP) — A "slum school" report published this week says nearly three-quarters of Britain's 30,000 state schools are "unsatisfactory" or worse. Thousands are without proper heating and plumbing and some are even without electricity.

The report estimates that it would cost £1,368,000,000 ($4,104,000,000) by 1970 to bring facilities up to date and also raise the school-leaving age to 16 from 15, as proposed.

The report is bound to cause a row when Parliament meets next week after the Christmas recess, particularly since Quintin Hogg, education minister in the defeated Conservative government, has been charged with suppressing the report prior to last October's general election.

The report, based on studies started in 1962, says more than 4,000,000 children attend primary and secondary schools that have bad sanitation, no running water and inadequate heating.

The statistics show that 7,529 schools were built before 1875. Some 200 have no running water and 6,474 have no hot water; 1,443 have no flush lavoratories and 17,272 have only outside lavatories.

The survey, in a foreword, says there have been improvements since the report was made.

The school-building program, costing £60,000,000 ($180,000,000) last year, is being increased to £80,000,000 ($240,000,000) for each of the next three years.

Laughed and Laughed All Way to Hospital

BRISTOL, England (Reuters) —Mrs. Helena Kennedy, 33, laughed so hard at a stage comedian's jokes she gave birth to a baby two weeks early, it was learned Monday. Still laughing at the antics of comedian Harry Worth, she was carried from the theatre on a stretcher last week.

Malaysia Steps Up Arms Training

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (UPI)—Deputy Prime Minister Tun Abdul Razak of Malaysia Wednesday announced the immediate establishment of two new military training centres to meet the threat of aggression from Indonesia.

Razak said after a cabinet meeting that 40,000 Malaysian volunteers will be given small arms and designated as a land defence corps to guard coastal areas and remote islands from guerrilla landings.

Razak told newsmen Canada will join Britain, Australia and New Zealand in supplying small arms for the land defence corps.

Razak said the training centres each will handle 400 recruits at a time. He said they will be set up under a plan to establish centres in all of the Malaysian states.

Immigration Change Set By Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson proposed to Congress Wednesday a sweeping new immigration law based on an immigrant's skill and his family ties in the United States.

It would do away with the 40-year-old "national origins" quota system. Johnson called the quota system "incompatible with our basic American tradition."

Instead, immigrants would be selected on a first-come, first-served basis, within a system of preferences based on work and cultural skills and family unity.

The bill is virtually identical to one proposed in 1963 by the late president Kennedy.

Johnson urged Congress today to give the revived bill priority consideration.

Russia Won't Join

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)— The Soviet Union will not join the global satellite communications system, the American president of the system said Tuesday. "It is not likely they will become a part," said Dr. Joseph V. Charyk, president of the Communications Satellite Corporation. "They said the project was too experimental, premature and operated in an undemocratic manner."

CITY COUNCIL

Key Committee Posts Retained

Members of two main standing committee groups and 33 appointments and special committees were named by Mayor R. B. Wilson Monday in his 1965 inaugural address.

Key posts in standing council committees were retained. These include aldermen A. L. Curtis as chairman of finance, revenue and taxation; Mrs. Lily Wilson as health, morals and social welfare chairman; M. H. Mooney in parks, town planning and zoning; Geoffrey Edgelow in public works, and A. W. Toone in urban renewal, downtown improvements and beautification.

New member Clyde Savage was named to civil defence, decorations and illumination, shipping and ferries, public utilities and Ross Bay Cemetery committees.

Ald. Cecil Parrott remains as chairman of buildings and grounds, and Ald. Robert Baird is named to lands, legislative, receptions and entertainment.

The main groups are "A", aldermen Curtis, Wilson, Baird, Savage and the mayor; "B", aldermen Mooney, Edgelow, Toone, Parrott and the mayor.

Many of the other committees, such as advisory planning commission, include members of the community at large as well as aldermen or the mayor.

9 IN MEMORIAM

CRAWFORD—In loving memory of my dear husband, Donald, who passed away on January 14, 1963.

Oh what would I give to clasp his hand.
His dear, kind face to see.
To hear his voice, to see his smile
That meant so much to me.
The nearly gates were opened,
A gentle voice said "Come."
And with farewells unspoken,
He gently entered Home.
Till we meet again, Don.
Sweetest by his loving wife, Jean.
Sadly missed by Ma Heron, Nan and Rod.

MASSON—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, George Masson, who died January 14, 1963.

The face I loved is now laid low.
His loving voice is still.
The hand so often clasped in mine
Lies now in death's cold chill.
I often sit and think of him
When I am all alone,
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.
—Sadly missed by his loving wife and family, Jane A. Masson.

WARWICK — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Margaret Warwick, who passed away January 14, 1960.

Loving memories never die,
Years go on and days go by;
Deep in our hearts a memory is kept
Of one we loved and shall never forget.
—Sadly missed by Louise, Lorraine and Phillip.

"Keystone" clear kiln dried siding is the finest available — a quality material for all applications where perfection is required.

With its "grow-in" workability, weather resistance and lasting good looks, "Keystone" clear Western Red Cedar Siding has long been recognized as the standard of quality home construction.

It has a distinctive "shadow line" which enhances any architectural style in any setting, and is used to create a variety of interesting decorative effects on indoor surfaces as well as exterior.

DURABILITY

Western Red Cedar is one of the most durable species known. Its heartwood is highly resistant to decay and can be counted on for long and worthy service when conditions favoring decay prevail.

ISN'T IT AWFUL

The way some people let their property get run down? Such a nice lot with fruit trees. Such a wonderful location near Oak Bay border, close to bus, school and shops. Sound construction with concrete foundation. Lots of room — over 1,200 sq. ft. of it. And yet the place is so completely run down that it looks like the place where good people don't go. This is the reason why the owner has to let it go with $1,000 down for only $5,500. Looking for a challenge? Then call DON BACON. EV 2-4255.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Instructors in scuba diving techniques can always get their captive student audiences laughing their sides off by simply mentioning the name "Mike Nelson." In fact, the comedian comes right out in some instructors who dote on the "don't-do-what-Nelson-does" teaching method. It's all very funny but the laugh is really on the other side of the ledger.

Stephen

While they have been snickering, chortling and guffawing about the syndicated program "Sea Hunt," actor Lloyd (Mike Nelson) Bridges and program producer Ivan Tors have been laughing all the way to the bank.

Bridges and Tors have grossed $13,000,000, including five years in reruns, to date.

Tors, who owns a piece of the gross of the some 350 episodes, predicts it will hit $20,000,000 eventually.

CBS was originally offered the show but they didn't feel the producer could sustain interest for 39 episodes. Later, CBS paid $3,500,000 alone for reruns of the show.

The new Chuck Connors series, Branded, to debut later this month in the old Bill Dana Show slot on NBC-TV, is split up this way: Connors owns 40 per cent, Goodson-Todman 40 per cent, writer-creator Larry Cohen 20 per cent. If the show is a success, and there is no reason it shouldn't be even though it has not even been viewed yet, they all stand to schedule regular trips to their safety deposit vaults.

One of the biggest success stories belongs to pianist Liberace. He has a true fondness for television, which shot him to the top from a small station to onetime syndication in over 200 markets.

It is estimated, through this mass expoure, he has grossed over $10,000,000 in the last 12 years. In fact, 1964 could be labelled his first submillion dollar year.

Here's an example of his earning power. His appearance as host of ABC-TV's Hollywood Palace last Saturday got him a flat $10,000. For appearing at U.S. colleges he cuts his fee in half. His one-niters average $15,000 and this one facet alone accounted for last year's take of $800,000.

He would like to do more television to erase the impression he's washed up.

He really doesn't need the exposure to fill the auditoriums and theatres where he plays but, using his cash register mind, he reasons television will help to attract a new audience, younger people, without slighting the middle-agers, who have been his loyal supporters for so many years.

There's gold in them thar TV hills. All you have to do is get a piece of the action to help ease the later life settling down process.

Secretariat Scheduled For London

LONDON (CP)—The Commonwealth's secretariat likely will begin functioning within a few months, headed by a nucleus of about 10 skilled diplomats and supported by a modest budget drawn from contributions from all Commonwealth countries.

Its headquarters is expected to be in London's Marlborough House, a huge, ornate palace where the late Queen Mary resided.

There now is a likelihood that some of the top men of the new body may be selected in time to prepare the groundwork for the next prime ministers' meeting which may take place here next summer.

Among those being considered as secretary-general is Arnold Smith, Canada's assistant deputy external affairs minister, a veteran diplomat who was ambassador to the Soviet Union during 1962-63.

ISLAND BRIEFS

UCLUELET—A verdict of accidental death by drowning was brought in this week on Trygve Pederson of Port Albion.

Mr. Pederson's body was found floating in the water close to his fishboat tied up at Port Albion wharf Dec. 8.

It's gracefully wider and elegantly longer. That's how the 1965 Victor 101 gets its brilliant new styling. And lots more is new besides. A new roominess that comes from the new curved glass side windows...an extra 4 inches of shoulder room that takes the squeeze out of three-abreast seating. There's new luggage space in the bigger trunk. New year 'round driving comfort in Victor's new heating and ventilation system. New efficiency in self-adjusting brakes. New durability in extra rustproofing and weather-sealing. New extra power too. On the other hand, some things haven't changed. Like Victor's pocket-saving gas economy and delightfully easy handling. They're permanent Vauxhall features. But only first-hand experience could ever tell you all the new Victor 101 has to offer. So don't delay! See and test drive the 1965 Victor 101.

Ball at Daffodil Festival Planned As Charity Drive

The Victoria unit of the Canadian Cystic Fibrosis Foundation has embarked on an ambitious plan to sponsor a charity ball of the year to open the Daffodil Festival this year.

Members of the unit will meet next week to form a committee to complete plans for the ball which they expect will have "snob appeal."

The Empress Hotel ballroom and foyer have already been reserved for the date and if the affair is a success they plan to continue it every year, said group president Peter Young.

Proceeds of the ball would go to the B.C. Crippled Children's Society which acts as the social service organization for the CF group here.

Cystic Fibrosis is a disease affecting children in which a thick mucus, much like honey, forms in the lungs preventing breathing and choking the patient. It also affects the pancreas and digestive enzymes so that food will pass through the body without being completely digested.

11 KNOWN CASES

There are at least 11 known cases on Vancouver Island, but officials estimate the actual figure would probably be twice that number.

National statistics have shown at least one in every 1,000 live births is affected by the disease.

At a meeting of the Victoria group Wednesday, national president William Hardy said the organization is developing a research and care program which calls for five or six research centres in various parts of the country which would operate in conjunction with treatment centres. In addition, he said, the plans call for 15 to 20 separate treatment centres.

Their entire program could become a reality in three years if they received a grant of between $100,000 and $125,000 from a United States philanthropic organization which they have applied to for assistance," said Mr. Hardy.

"At the present time," he said, "we are negotiating with the federal government to financially support a Canada-wide survey in public health centres to determine exactly the number of CF patients in Canada."

A major concern of most cystic fibrosis chapters is to obtain a subsidy for drug costs for parents of children affected with the disease.

The drug costs for each child may range from about $400 to more than $1,000 each month.

At the present time the provincial governments of Alberta, Manitoba and Ontario pay for all the drug costs incurred by parents of CF children.

The Ontario government paid $250,000 for drugs for the disease last year.

Uvic Grows With New Land Pact

University of Victoria campus expanded this week by 2.5 acres.

Provincial order in council approved borrowing of money for the purchase of land bordering on the north side of Gordon Head campus for $15,000, including a house, the property of Edward Graham, 3868 Finnerty.

The university previously acquired 2.5 acres lying between the Graham land and the campus for $12,000.

The move forestalls the possibility of a private land assembly for subdivision purposes, which would remove it from the reach of university developers or make it too expensive for repurchase by the development board.

Priceless Art Works Damaged by Vandals

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Eight more masterpieces were found damaged in the Uffizi Gallery Wednesday, bringing to 23 the total number of paintings slashed, gouged or scratched by an unknown vandal.

The damage was done during the lunch hour Tuesday, when only 40 visitors were known to be in the gallery, Italy's greatest museum of Rennaissance art.

The market value of the defaced paintings was estimated at more than $2,000,000, but officials said they were priceless. It was the worst case of museum vandalism in Italy since the Second World War.

Damage to the eight was not noticed during a rapid survey of the huge gallery late Tuesday but was spotted in the morning light today.

Police believed a vandal with a sexual aberration was responsible. Sexual areas of nudes were slashed and eyes were gouged out.

Works by such major artists as Michelangelo, Leonardo da Vinci, Botticelli and Raphael were not harmed.

LIONS CLUB WINS PRAISE FOR GRANTS

Victoria Chinatown Lions Club was praised Wednesday for its generous contributions to the community.

Visiting Lions International District Governor Ray Shewaard of Vancouver lauded the club for its many activities.

Chinatown Lions have provided $4,800 worth of furniture for the newly renovated Chineke Hospital.

They contributed substantially to the Salvation Army Red Shield campaign and sponsor the Chinatown Boys and Girls Drum Corps.

Another Chinatown Lions project is a water safety course started last Sunday.

Over 400 swimmers are taught by 25 Red Cross Instructors provided by the Chinatown Lions Club at the Crystal Garden.

Mr. Sheward was addressing a regular meeting of the club.

City Symphony To Perform At Sidney

Victoria Symphony Orchestra will mark the start of the second half of its 1964 season Friday evening with a concert at Sidney.

The program will include Handel's Concerto Grosso No. 7, Mendelssohn's 4th or Italian Symphony and two compositions by guest conductor Michel Perrault of Montreal, suite from the ballet Sea Gallows, and a suite of four French-Canadian folksongs.

The concert starts at 8:30 p.m. and will be repeated Sunday afternoon and Monday evening in Victoria's Royal Theatre.

PLAYHOUSE CHORUS SET

Victoria singers will have a chance to take part in the opening week program at McPherson Playhouse, March 1 to 4.

A 40-voice chorus is being formed which will be singing Broadway show tunes. Rehearsals are held Mondays from 7 to 8 p.m.

Persons interested can contact Howard Denike, 384-5733, for further information.

Metro Health Discussions Held In City

Mayor R. B. Wilson and senior city administrative staff held informal talks Wednesday on the future of Metro Health with deputy health minister Dr. J. A. Taylor.

The mayor said discussion prepares the way for a meeting with Health Minister Eric Martin.

Greater Victoria is one of two areas in the province where public health is a local responsibility. Elsewhere the provincial government assumes the role.

"Dr. Taylor realizes the imperfections of it as well as we do," the mayor said of the existing temporary structure in which Victoria, Oak Bay, Esquimalt and School District 61 operate by one financial standard, and Saanich, Central Saanich and unorganized areas operate on another.

The mayor is hopeful of a better agreement with firm basis and responsibilities properly delineated.

WOMAN TRADING RINGS BUT IT'S NOT LEGAL

NEW YORK (UPI) — The city's leading jewelers are keeping a careful lookout for the fashionably-dressed middle-aged woman who has introduced the latest word in shoplifting — "the great ring switch."

Police said the mysterious woman had visited the plush Fifth Avenue jewelry salon of Harry Winston, Inc. and secretly palmed a 5.30-carat marquise diamond ring worth $38,500. In its place she left a 3.69-carat, $19,800 marquise diamond from Tiffany Jewelers across the street.

Though Macy's doesn't usually tell Gimbels, even in the high-priced jewelry trade, there was a hurried conference between Winston and Tiffany. They discovered the same woman had substituted for the less-expensive Tiffany gem an even cheaper one—2.75 carats, worth $7,500.

No one was willing to guess where the game had started—or where it could end.

Police told this story:

Late last Saturday the woman walked into Tiffany's and had them take out a tray of diamond baubles for her to inspect. She had asked to see the best in the house, but the clerk thought she was not satisfied with the selection because she left without buying.

All the stones were accounted for, he thought.

Across the street at Harry Winston the same lady made the same request and again dawled over the brightest sparklers in the house. She bought nothing there either.

But somewhat later a Winston clerk thought he noticed a somewhat duller stone among all the bright dazzlers and he called Richard Winston, son of the firm's founder.

MERE BAUBLE

Winston confirmed that this was not the $38,500 gem originally on display but a mere $19,800 bauble. To add insult to injury, it carried the Tiffany trademark.

Consulting with his competitor, they rummaged through the Tiffany tray of jewels and found the $7,500 stone there.

"Did she start at Woolworths, exchanging a shard of waterglass for a ring," wondered one jeweler.

"Where will it end?" asked another. "She's got a diamond ring worth $38,500 now. Maybe she'll be here next to try for $40,000.

Performing Arts Centre Urged For Centenary

A University of Victoria centre for the performing arts was formally suggested Tuesday as a Greater Victoria 1967 centennial project.

The idea, put forward late last year by Uvic president Dr. Malcolm Taylor, was received by the Greater Victoria Canadian confederation committee at its 1965 inaugural meeting.

Along with a number of other suggestions on a joint centennial project, it was filed for later study by a subcommittee still to be appointed.

This, and the election of a chairman, was deferred until it is known whether Central Saanich will be participating in the committee.

Victoria representative Ald. Robert Baird said the committee likely will obtain downtown office space as headquarters for the next three years. Another subcommittee will probably be struck to study joint celebrations.

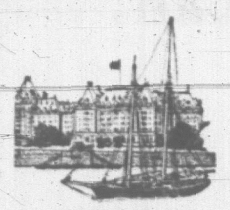

Preliminary centennial celebrations will be held next year in B.C. to mark the 100th anniversary of colonization.

Willow Point Lines Up Legal Advice

CAMPBELL RIVER — Residents of Willow Point are getting legal advice in their battle against Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

Two anti-amalgamationists visited Victoria Tuesday to put the case to a lawyer.

The case is that Willow Point has joined with Campbell River to form a district municipality following a recent vote on the matter.

The over-all vote was in favor of a district.

But of the five municipalities voting, only Campbell River and Willow Point showed a majority in favor.

And the Willow Point majority was slight.

TAXES UP 80%

Garageman Kenneth Forde and farmer Thomas Hudson said the amalgamation will mean an 80 per cent tax rise for some Willow Point residents.

They claimed Mr. Campbell violated several sections of the Municipal Act in "forcing" the merger.

Mr. Forde claimed taxation facts were not brought to the attention of Willow Point residents as had been promised.

Mr. Campbell has ordered new votes Feb. 6 in North Campbell River and Quinsam, two of the suburbs which rejected the merger idea Dec. 12.

The fifth district, Oyster Bay, was dropped after an overwhelming vote against amalgamation.

Anti-amalgamationists have already written to Premier Bennett and Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes seeking reversal of the merger order and Mr. Campbell's removal from office.

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Eaton's
Third Floor
Features Rug-Making Demonstration

Rug making is becoming more and more popular among women because of its usefulness and fun. So says Mrs. V. Shand, representative for Mary Maxim Ltd., who plans to prove it Friday and Saturday by staging a demonstration in EATON'S Wool Department. This demonstration will take place Friday from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

SPECIAL METHOD

She plans a practical demonstration on hooking rugs the "Mary Maxim Way," and also on how to knit the well-known Mary Maxim Northland sweaters.

Knitters—beginners or advanced—are asked to come to EATON'S Third Floor Wool Department and attend this most interesting and informative event.

DISPLAYS

A large display of rugs and sweaters will be on view in the department, offering knitters a wide choice of materials and patterns.

POPULAR HOBBY

In recent years, wool sales people report, rug-making has become increasingly popular as a hobby in the home.

Not only does mother become interested, but the rest of the family appears to be taking an active interest as well.

MANY REASONS

One reason suggested is television. Often people like to have "something to do" while watching TV, and for this reason rug-making has caught on.

And not only are rugs fun to make, but with the wide selection of wools and wool blends available, the rug-maker can choose the precise colour she wishes to harmonize with her home decor.

KITS AVAILABLE

Complete "Mary Maxim Kits" for making rugs are available at EATON'S. Wool is ready cut for your convenience, and latchet hooks, stamped canvas and instructions are also included.

There's a wide choice of patterns and sizes, too, ranging in price from 15.95 to 39.95.

SWEATERS, TOO

In addition, customers can choose the Northland sweater wool in a variety of new shades, patterns and styles.

Wool, patterns and knitting needles are all available in EATON'S Wool Department.

Demonstrator Wields a Wicked Weapon

A special rug making gun, used in the demonstration by Mrs. Shand, is most popular for its speed and efficiency.

The Sims "Wonder Knot" gun is a lightweight, easy-to-use tool designed to knot the wool automatically, and bring it through the canvas. All the operator does is thread the gun and it is ready to use. Gun takes most standard rug yarns cut to 2 and 3-inch length, and works on regular canvas of 3½ mesh to the inch. You will be able to see how easy it is to use while you watch Mrs. Shand demonstrate. These handy rug-making guns are selling for 3.98 at EATON'S, Wool Department, on their Third Floor.

Ferry Subsidy Unlikely

A request for boosting a $1,000-monthly subsidy by $800 to keep the Lady Rose ferry running between Port Alberni and Bamfield is under consideration, Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi said today.

He said his staff is analysing the situation "but nothing has come before me yet for a decision."

However, he appeared dubious that an increase was warranted.

"What's the good of carrying such a large subsidy when there are other transportation services available?" he asked.

Alberni Marine Transportation Ltd., which operates the Lady Rose, told Port Alberni council the service will be shut down at the end of this month if the subsidy is not increased.

Mayor Les Hammer supported the company's request on the grounds that recent heavy snows blocked road and air links to the island's West Coast and the Lady Rose provided the only tranportation between the communities.

The ferry company received a $1,900-monthly subsidy until last June when the Alberni-Bamfield road was completed.

Its present subsidy was provided after pressure from a Port Alberni delegation.

HONEYMOON BAY—Workers at the Western Forest Industries mill here returned to work Monday after a three-day shutdown caused by heavy snow.

About 170 men were laid off. Addition of a third shift in the planer mill will employ all the men until the gang mill opens next Monday.

* * *

CHEMAINUS — Bob Lee has been elected president of Chemainus Western Horsemen's Club.

Other officers elected at the annual meeting here were: Jack Lock, vice-president; Mrs. W. Sowerby, secretary; Bob Goughin, treasurer. Fred Kilner and Bill Smith were named directors for one year, while Floyd Halk, Jim Brooks, Hank Elzinga and Fred Botley of Nanaimo, were named directors for a two-year period.

The club plans to hold a cabaret dance in the Crofton community hall, possibly on Feb. 6.

DUNCAN — Traffic was held up on Cowichan Lake Road this morning when a chip truck spilled its 10-ton load on the highway.

Don Hughes of Shawnigan Lake, driver of an Arrow Transfer truck-trailer unit, told police the accident happened when he tried to avoid a large hole in the road just west of Paldi.

The trailer went off on to the soft shoulder and tipped over, coming to rest on its side in the middle of the road.

Hughes escaped injury. Little damage was done.

DO-IT-YOURSELF KITS WASH UP ON BEACH

TOFINO—Do-it-yourself house kits are washing up on the beaches near here.

In the past week thousands of feet of new lumber have been found scattered along the shoreline.

Dozens of people—including Indians building their own homes—have flocked to the beaches in cars and trucks to cart away the booty.

Many believe the lumber was washed off the deck of a freighter in high seas, but there is no confirmation of this.

In addition to the lumber, an assortment of glass balls, used as floats by Japanese fishermen, have also washed up.

Wood Research Lab To Be Built At UBC

Forests Minister Ray Williston said Wednesday permanent research facilities of the giant Columbia Cellulose forestry firm will be established on the University of B.C. endownment lands.

He said this would help fulfill a desire "to make this province the outstanding leader in woods research on this continent."

Mr. Williston said he fully endorsed an appeal by new UBC Forestry Dean Dr. Joseph Gardner for more help in encouraging students to enter the forestry faculty.

Dr. Gardner said a critical shortage of forestry researchers will develop in B.C. within a decade "unless something is done about it."

He suggested industry and government should come up with incentive programs including an expansion of summer vacation jobs for students in the forestry field.

"I agree wholeheartedly and I know that certain firms are making plans in that direction," said Mr. Williston.

"The Columbia Cellulose facilities also will help by being located next to the campus itself and the government will do everything it can along with industry to encourage students to enter the forestry field."

Logging Operations Begin Big Task of Snow Clearing

CAMPBELL RIVER — Snow continues to interrupt logging operations in this area but two divisions of MacMillan, Bloedel & Powell River Ltd. are making plans to start up again this week.

Only the mechanics are back working at Elk River Timber Co.

Supt. Dan McKenzie flew over logging areas in a helicopter this week and said there was about 36-inches of solid snow in the valley where machines were last working.

"We're going to start ploughing roads next week but it'll likely be the early part of February before we're back to work," he said.

The company shut down for Christmas holidays Dec. 17. Crews were originally slated to go back to work the first week this month.

Things were a little rosier at MB & PR's Menzies Bay division where manager Ike Barber said he hoped some crews would be back to work this week.

There is between three to five feet of snow in the Brewster Lake area where crews were working before the shutdown Dec. 23.

However roads are pretty well ploughed out, he said, "and as soon as the snow is out of the trees we'll start falling in new areas."

Kelsey Bay division of MB & PR also expects to start up again this week.

Officials said there is about 32-inches of snow in the Adams River area where crews worked last on Dec. 16, but ploughing started Monday and was continuing. Operations are expected to get underway today.

OCEAN FALLS, B.C. (CP)—Two persons were known dead and five were missing and presumed dead in a snowslide that tumbled on a portion of this isolated coastal paper mill town, 350 miles north of Victoria, Wednesday night.

Five others were injured when trapped in the wreckage of homes that were crushed or swept into the sea from the mountainside town.

An estimated 200 families, including women carrying children wrapped in blankets, fled from the area as three minor slides followed the first.

A fourth slide tumbled down today and touched off an urgent radio call to nearby ships to return to the town for possible evacuation.

Police and shipping officials later said the slide was of a minor nature and that no ships were required.

A spokesman for Northland Navigation Company in Vancouver said a few persons may have been taken from the Crown-Zellerbach Canada Limited company town here by its steamer Northland Prince. But he said there was no wholesale authorized evacuation.

Earlier reports from Northland's Kitimat office said the ship had taken aboard a number of evacuees in response to an SOS call.

LIST RELEASED

RCMP released the following list of dead, missing and injured:

Dead: Mrs. Edith Hill, 45, and one unidentified child.

Missing: Walter Gordon Taylor, 42; Agnes McDowell, 56, and a mother, a father and one child not identified.

Injured: Douglas Diggins, possible fractured ankle; Clair Langdale, possible broken elbow; Robert Langdale, head and other injuries; Mary Langdale, superficial injuries and shock; Mrs. Grace McKeen, hysteria.

The injured were being treated in hospital here. Only Robert Langdale's injuries were described as serious, the minor.

The snowslide cut swath 100 yards wide through a residential section to the sea, crumpling two duplex homes, a single-family dwelling, a printing shop and a credit office. A third duplex was badly wrecked and the corner of a fourth was smashed.

The slide, at about 8 p.m., touched off three other smaller slides. Police cordoned off the area and evacuated a number of persons who had not fled earlier.

The slide was the second natural disaster to strike British Co-

Workers Protest U.S. Deal

U.K. Abandoning Own Aircraft?

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

LONDON (CP)—Thousands of aviation workers staged a protest march through London today, bearing banners that ironically proclaimed: Harold Wilson, all-American boy.

Prime Minister Wilson's Labor government was bitterly criticized for reported plans to scrap Britain's new super-aircraft, the TSR-2, along with other advanced military planes, and buy United States warplanes for manufacture under licence.

The marchers — estimated at 8,000 or more — called on the government to remember the glory of British-made Spitfires and Hurricanes in the Second World War and put its trust in British aircraft design for the future.

The workers, mostly from British Aircraft Corporation's factory at Weybridge, Sussex, assembled from special trains at Waterloo Station and marched in orderly procession to Hyde Park, nearly three miles away.

A LITTLE DIFFERENT

"They're a little different from the ban - the - bombers, aren't they then?" was the comment of one Oxford Street shopper as the clean-shaven workers passed behind a pipe band.

"We are here looking for the right to work, and to fly and buy British," demonstration leader George Elliott told the workers at Hyde Park speakers' corner.

A few representatives of the Committee of 100, a ban-the-bomb group, handed around leaflets. And a couple of gospellers, dislodged from their usual vantage points by the advancing crusade, wandered around ths fringes with placards

'Pearson Aide Unable To Help Much on Bail'

(See also Page 19.)

MONTREAL (CP)—Eddy Lechasseur, 33-year-old friend of suspected narcotics smuggler Lucien Rivard, testified today that Rivard sent him to see Raymond Rouleau partly because Mr. Rouleau's brother was a Liberal member of Parliament.

But, Lechasseur told the Dorion inquiry, neither Raymond Rouleau nor his brother, Guy Rouleau, then parliamentary secretary to the Prime Minister Pearson, had been able to do anything much to get Rivard released on bail.

Le Chasseur said Rivard wants to get out of Bordeaux jail in Montreal because he is on the point of selling his Place Ideale resort and prefers to be free to close the sale.

The witness said Rivard had rendered services to politicians and it was therefore "perfectly reasonable, perfectly normal" for Rivard to ask his long-time friend Raymond Rouleau for any help possible.

Lechasseur said Rivard Rouleau had told him that Rivard faced a serious charge and that he did not think his brother Guy could do much.

He quoted Raymond Rouleau as saying that Guy Rouleau had stated that he did not see how he could do anything in Ottawa.

Lechasseur said Raymond Rouleau would ask for Rivard's services at election time.

SERVICES QUERIED

Commission counsel Andre Desjardins asked what type of services Rivard rendered to Raymond Rouleau.

Lechasseur said Rivard had a number of employees at his resort and that "there's all kinds of work to be done and you need all kinds of people" at election time.

"There are politicians here and you could ask them to tell you," Lechasseur told Mr. Desjardins.

He said he and Mrs. Rivard went to see Raymond Rouleau to find out whether he could do something for Rivard.

Rivard had good reasons to approach Mr. Rouleau. They had been good friends for a long time.

Mrs. Rivard had told him that Raymond Rouleau had a brother in Ottawa who might perhaps be able to help Rivard.

One of the considerations of seeing Raymond Rouleau was that his brother was an MP.

Raymond Rouleau hadn't undertaken to do anything definite but had said he would do something if he could.

KEPT CALLING

Lechasseur said he kept calling Raymond Rouleau afterwards to see whether there were any new developments.

He said Raymond Rouleau told him that his brother was here, there and everywhere and it was hard to get hold of him.

He kept getting the "same story" when he kept calling Raymond Rouleau.

Raymond had told him that Guy was "not too delighted" about the affair and had said he was looking after it only because his brother had asked him.

Lechasseur said he had never received any report that Guy Rouleau had got in touch with a minister or any other influential person.

The witness said Raymond Rouleau didn't want to discourage Mrs. Rivard and had told him "Eddy, there's not much to be done in this case."

Snow Slides Trap Train In North

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—A freight train was trapped early today between four snow slides that blocked the Canadian National Railways line and the highway between Prince Rupert and Terrace in north central British Columbia.

Communications have been lost with the train, and it was unknown if it was derailed, said CNR operations superintendent Gordon McMillan.

RCMP said no highway travellers were reported missing.

Three days of heavy rain are blamed for the slides, which came down within 10 minutes of each other. Engineers described the slides as 10 to 20 feet deep and 200 to 300 feet long. One of them brought rocks and trees with it.

Six bulldozers are working at clearing the highway and tracks and were expected to reach the train sometime today.

QUEBEC TALKS

PCs Bid To Halt Walkout

MONTREAL (UPI) — The Conservative party's Quebec wing wound up a five-hour closed-door debate today by deciding to put off for the time being at least any split with the main party.

MONTREAL (CP)—Conservative members of Parliament from Quebec province met privately in a Montreal hotel suite today to discuss their future within the party.

The meeting, scheduled to begin at 9:30 a.m., got under way at 10:45 a.m. The start was delayed by last-minute efforts to effect a conciliation. Some members have threatened to leave the party and sit as independents in the Commons.

Dalton Camp, national president of the Conservative party, made an unexpected trip here from Halifax to meet with Quebec leader Leon Balcer before the start of the meeting.

After leaving the meeting with Mr. Camp, Mr. Balcer declined to make any statement to reporters. He said any decisions taken will be announced at a press conference late today in Ottawa.

Mr. Camp conferred with Mr. Balcer in one room of the Windsor Hotel while other Quebec members waited in another room for the caucus to start. Paul Martineau (PC—Pontiac-Temiscamingue) was also understood to have attended the meeting with Mr. Camp.

Egan Chambers, Mr. Camp's predecessor as national president of the Conservative party and a former MP for Montreal St. Lawrence - St. George, was also reported to be participating in the reconciliation talks.

BOSS TOSS THREATENED IN STRIKE

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — About 600 workers barricaded themselves at Astarsa, one of Argentina's largest shipyards, today and threatened to throw 50 management hostages from upper windows if police intervened.

More than 300 riot police, with dogs, firearms, pressure hoses and tear gas tried to move into the shipyards. They were stopped short of the gate by the threat.

The workers, roughly half the shipyard's work force, began a surprise sit-in strike Tuesday night. They claim Astarsa is three weeks behind in wage payments and has not paid the annual one-month bonus provided by law.

Bennett Turns Down Bus Pass For OAPs

(See Pages 3, 21)

Premier W. A. C. Bennett today added his "no" to suggestions that the government or B.C. Hydro provide old age pensioners with bus passes.

He said the Greater Victoria and Greater Vancouver municipalities are receiving franchise payments from the transit system and said they should use the money to provide the passes.

The premier said in an interview that the public utilities commission had settled the fares and "it doesn't involve the government."

He pointed out the higher rates produce higher franchise payments to the municipalities but "the provincial government gets not one cent" in this form of revenue.

"The cities of Vancouver and Victoria get thousands of dollars and it would be a nice gesture if they gave some of their ill-gotten gains to the pensioners."

The premier also recalled that he urged municipalities last year to start discussing the franchise expiry — due in 1966 on the lower mainland and in 1967 here.

He said now is the time to start discussing the situation with B.C. Hydro.

In answer to a question, he said "it's not impossible" that B.C. Hydro may undertake new franchise agreements.

"That's a matter of negotiation between Hydro and the municipalities," he added with a broad smile.

(Both Premier Bennett and Hydro officials have indicated the crown agency plans to drop the bus system into civic laps as soon as the franchises expire.)

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pickets, petitions and mass rallies were back today as the fight against increased bus fares continues.

Not satisfied with the 2½-cent reduction they won, students are continuing their fare battle, and old age pensioners have joined the clamor for special consideration.

Student groups from Vancouver, North Vancouver, Burnaby and the University of British Columbia are organizing a protest rally outside the B.C. Hydro building in Vancouver Saturday.

Busy Session Ahead Says Bouncy Bennett

Premier W. A. C. Bennett, full of bounce and joviality, told reporters today that next Thursday will open a "good session" which will see a "considerable" amount of government legislation.

The premier also said he had a "very nice budget" to present to the legislature, as he fenced with questions by reporters on his programs for 1965.

The premier made the comments before attending his first cabinet session since his Christmas holidays which included a brief "rest" vacation at Palm Springs.

He confirmed that he has been officially invited to accept the freedom of the City of Vancouver.

"I received a call from Mayor Rathie this morning and I am very appreciative. I don't think it (the honor) was deserved but I appreciate it."

He will be made a freeman of Vancouver to mark his record tenure of office as premier Feb. 16 when he exceeds the previous record set by Sir Richard McBride.

HIGHWAY OPEN SOON

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi said today the Hope-Princeton Highway should be reopened "by the end of next week."

Crews now are working to put in a detour over the top of the Johnson Peak slide area 12 miles east of Hope.

Mr. Gaglardi added: "We haven't given up" in searching for the remaining two bodies buried in the massive slide.

A LITTLE KEY, THEN VIDEO PHONE

Supermarkets on the Way Out?

NEW YORK (AP)—Imagine, housewives, shopping for groceries in a supermarket without clerks, without market baskets and with all the products behind glass.

And with an electronic device to tote up the bill and record charges in place of the usual checkout counter.

It's coming in perhaps five to 10 years, the experts say. Forerunners already have appeared in France and Sweden.

"Of course, the ultimate step may be elimination of all supermarkets," said Herbert R. Brinberg, who as market research director of American Can Company studies such possibilities.

"I mean it very seriously. If people become accustomed to buying without touching, there's no reason they couldn't get used to ordering by video telephone two or three times a week."

Brinberg sees an automated supermarket as working something like this:

The shopper enters a display section that occupies a fraction of the floor space now required. Products are arrayed in customary groupings — preserves, breakfast foods, frozen concentrates, and the like—behind a transparent partition dotted with key slots.

The shopper takes a key from her purse. The key would be somewhat larger than a house key to accommodate a micro-miniature electronic tape recording device.

Choosing her brand of coffee, the shopper inserts the key into the slot in the partition, turns and withdraws it. Then she moves on to the soups, detergents and so on, repeating the operation.

At the conclusion of her aisle-touring, she inserts the key into an electronic scanner, charge-reckoning and clearing device hooked into a computer that starts things moving in a large warehousing zone of the store.

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, JANUARY 14, 1965 —PAGE 21

Arthur Mayse

One day this wet and dreary week, I settled in for a fireside visit with a teacher of English who estimates that she has now brought the word to approximately 6,000 high school students.

The task has bowed but not broken her. She's sassy as a jaybird still (a cliche which will cost me a red-ink marginal note) and her sense of humor, though grim, remains intact.

Like most teachers, she misses no chance to improve her classroom pitch. One gimmick, she has found especially useful for this purpose.

When she assigns her final essay of the school year, she asks students to add an extra page. On this they are to write a frank opinion of her teaching procedures, and offer suggestions as to how she might make English 40 and 91 more palatable to future classes.

Also, and wisely, she promises not to read those end pages until term's over and their authors out of her clutches.

July of 1964 was half spent before she got around to checking opinions.

She opened the folder, took out the first sheet, and turned it over.

Scrawled across it in large, unbridled letters, were two words:

'DROP DEAD!'

★ ★ ★

The other members of her now-scattered flock were, however, more temperate.

One or two timid souls confessed in absentia that she had scared them so they couldn't think straight, especially when they'd goofed.

Several surprised her with a warmth of affection and gratitude which they would never have dreamed of displaying in the presence of their peers. She was, in their view, the best, fairest and most helpful teacher they'd had in 12 years of school.

But the summary this veteran of the scholastic wars most cherishes comes from a different source.

In a school corridor on the first day of a fall term, she found herself close behind a pair of summer-tanned 17-year-olds whom she recognized as grade 12 fodder.

First girl: Who you got for litachure this year?

Second girl: Mrs. X. she's an awful square.

First: I got her too. My boy friend says she's real strict and tough.

Second (gloomily, but with satisfaction): Yeah. She'll make us learn something.

Wrapped up in that scrap of adolescent dialogue is a truth which those who have to do with the rearing of the young might ponder.

This I did, with an assist from our school-ma'am.

In the stage when they are no longer children but not yet adults, she said, juveniles may rebel against authority, but thrive best under strict but scrupulously fair discipline.

Delivered of her preachment, she paused to take a pencil to the hellish work schedule which will keep her busy 12 hours a day until Easter vacation, which she will spend correcting papers.

She retrieved a couple of Thursday hours that had bolted over into Friday, then paused.

"About reading," she said. "Do you know our great, lumbering potential dropouts strip our library shelves bare of books about cars? The finest aid to reading for those boys would be a set of stories in which other boys constructed prize-winning hot-rods or won stock car races because their . . . their camshafts were honed a trifle finer than their rivals'!"

Our Miss Dove circled a blue Monday with a firm hand. From her 30 years of teaching, she offered a last dictum:

"Before children start school," she said, "they should be read to every day. After they've learned to read — which, with luck, they may do before grade one—make books available to them in the home. Parents who do this aren't likely to be plagued by reading difficulties later."

FRIDAY MEETINGS

Victoria Lions Club: Empress Hotel, 12 noon; J. A. McConnell, managing director YM-YWCA — Victoria's 'Y' of the future.

SCIENCE IS WONDERFUL and soon at University of Victoria, through this electronic switchboard, it will give every language student his own personal instructor—and probably flat ears too.

Cycle Victim Gets $32,000 From Courts

Damages totalling $32,000 were awarded in Supreme Court here Wednesday to a former Victoria man who lost his leg after being hit by a motorcycle nearly five years ago.

The accident took place on Shelbourne Street, Saanich, on June 18, 1959.

Stephen Thomas McGaw, formerly of Saanich and now living in North Surrey, B.C., was awarded $30,000 general damages and slightly more than $2,000 special damages in a judgment handed down by Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton.

The damages were awarded against Gordon William Hatch, a Victoria man now training with the RCAF in Manitoba.

CHECK MISFIRE

Hatch told the court he lost control of his motorcycle when he received an electrical shock as he reached down to check a misfire in his engine.

"The shock caused me to lose control of the bike," he said.

Mr. Justice Wootton ruled that he was negligent in not stopping his motorcycle at the side of the road while he checked the fault.

Mr. McGaw, who lived on Kenmore Road until four years ago, was represented in court by Edwin A. Popham of Victoria.

Thief Gets $11 In City Burglary

About $11 cash and some cigarettes were stolen in a break-in at Dave Duncan's Shell Service Station at Pleasant and Bay Streets overnight.

The thieves also took two peanut machines with them.

They entered the building by breaking a window in the rear of the station.

Learning By Flick Of a Switch

By PETE LOUDON

Some day, if they have long enough wires, language students at University of Victoria will be able to stay in bed—and still pass.

You can see the possibility in a visit to Uvic's latest teaching aid, an electronic classroom now being set up in the Clearihue Building.

When it opens in February, a new day dawns in the history of education in Victoria.

Students will enter the classroom and be seated in one of 45 tiny cubicles. They will put on their earphones and adjust their microphones. They will switch on their tape recorders.

151 Switches

The instructor will enter and seat himself at one of two consoles. He'll start flicking the 151 switches and buttons before him and class will be in session.

Another instructor may enter and take over the twin console at his right. One instructor may be teaching French, the other Russian, Spanish or German to half the class.

Yet instead of a Tower of Babel, the classroom will provide only an industrious murmur to any visitor who isn't "plugged in."

The instructors will have prepared their lessons previously on a tape recorder. They touch a button or two and every student is tuned in, listening and re-recording.

Each student can call in his instructor for individual aid. Each student can recite a lesson to his instructor without embarrassing gaffaws if he makes an error in pronunciation.

Each student can work at his own speed.

No Snoring!

The instructor can call in one student or any number at a given time to recite. He can have one student reciting to the whole class and the student would not know it.

The instructor can cut in on any student while the student is practicing his phrases, without the student's knowledge — and he'd better not hear him snoring.

The instructor's lesson is recorded on an upper track on the student's tape. The student records his own attempts on a lower track. The student can listen to any portion of either.

The man who is installing this wonder, called a 'language laboratory' is Johannes 'Hans' Seidel of RCA Victor service depot here. He says the 'lab' increases the teacher's capabilities.

Teacher Multiplied

"The teacher all of a sudden is multiplied. He is present with every student on a private line.

"He can give a test on tape and then collect the student tapes to mark them later." In fact, with all those controls, the instructor may find his instruction aid makes him busier than ever before.

But the value to the student has been proven in language departments elsewhere, so much so that it is now a modern, essential teaching aid, claims Dr. Harry Hickman who heads the department of modern languages.

The whole installation, with it's 27,000 feet of wiring (more than five miles), its recorders, head sets and booths, costs close to $25,000.

Maybe that's why they call it higher education.

'BENEFITS TRIAL' DECISION TO BE GIVEN WEEK EARLIER

Judge Montague Drake announced today that he has reached a decision in the trial of B.C. purchasing commissioner George E. P. Jones, charged with accepting benefits from a Victoria car firm while he was chairman of the commission.

Judge Drake said he will give judgment in Victoria County Court this Friday at 2:30 p.m. instead of Jan. 22, as previously arranged.

The seven-day trial concluded Tuesday when Hugh McGivern, Mr. Jones' counsel, said he would call no witnesses for the defence because he did not think the Crown had produced sufficient evidence against him.

Mayor Asks Public Drive For Gov't Bus Subsidies

Mayor R. B. Wilson today called on public opinion to support provincial subsidy for urban transit in Greater Victoria and Vancouver.

In an address to Victoria Rotary Club at the Empress Hotel at noon he pointed to "refreshing evidence of the power of public opinion in the recent reduction of student bus fares."

"Much has been made of the fact that the rest of the province should not be subsidizing transit in Greater Vancouver and Greater Victoria.

"However, our analysts tell us that Greater Vancouver and Greater Victoria are subsidizing power rates in the rest of the province, which may not be such a bad thing if it is good for the development of the province.

"The urban bus systems have long been subsidized from the sale of electric power.

"This, too, may not be such a bad thing for after all, the buses do serve three-quarters of the population of the province.

"Public opinion could play an important part in the final solution of urban transit," Mayor Wilson said.

He spoke at a meeting arranged annually by the club to allow members to meet and host each member of city council at luncheon.

The mayor referred to the question of transit in the modern city as an involved one and likely to become more so.

In the U.S. for example, it is approached as an economic exercise — the cheapest way of moving bodies in and out of a city.

It is resolved there into whether it is cheaper to subsidize a mass transit system or build the great road systems necessary to cope with private automobiles.

"It has become so involved that the federal government in Washington has set aside large sums of money for study and aid of urban transit systems," the mayor said.

Canadian Federation of Mayors executive, meeting the federal cabinet last year, "came away with the impression that the federal government would give sympathetic consideration to a joint study by federal, provincial and municipal governments."

RECENT STATEMENT

The mayor referred to a recent statement by Premier Bennett that there had been too much "bla, bla, bla about the the whole question of the buses.

"I think it safe to say that not all the "bla, bla, bla' has come from the public or the municipalities.

"The premier has indicated that if the municipalities wish to discuss the matter of transit with him their proposal must be in writing.

"Coming from one who is notoriously allergic to writing letters or putting anything in writing, this makes strange music indeed," Mayor Wilson said.

The municipalities are "ready and willing" to sit down for discussions with someone in authority in search for a solution, Rotarians were told.

Area-Wide Pact Finishes Store Walkout Threat

A strike of store clerks was forestalled today when Cordova Bay Super-Valu store manager Bruce McMorran agreed verbally to sign an area-wide working agreement.

Forty-eight hours strike notice expired this morning and Local 1518, Retail, Food and Drug Clerks Union agent John Nicol said Mr. McMorran agreed to a meeting at 2:30 p.m. Friday for signing an agreement that will raise senior male salaries by about $9 a week, other rates by a lesser amount.

Ten employees of the store at 5124 Cordova Bay Road are affected by the settlement, as recommended by a labor department conciliator.

Area agreement provides for a range of $1.70 - $2.60 an hour for men and $1.60 - $2.10 for women employees.

Juveniles Appear In 'Open' Court

Two 14-year-old boys, charged in adult court with three counts of breaking and entering and arson and mischief, were remanded to Jan. 19 when they appeared before Magistrate William Ostler today.

The breaking and entering charges were laid after an office at Fisherman's Wharf and Russell's Radio Sales on Kingston Street were entered Sunday.

The youths are also charged with breaking and entering an equipment shed at Macdonald Park Sept. 26 last year.

The arson and mischief charges were laid following a fire in the Outer Wharf Grocery Dec. 5.

All-Out Search Fails to Find 'Missing Men'

Greater Victoria police departments said today they have no reports of missing persons following a search Wednesday for a small boat said to have tipped over off Dallas Road.

The report came from a woman living on Dallas Road. The boat was said to be about 10 feet long and two men were sitting in it.

A 90-minute search got under way immediately with a coast guard helicopter, two naval harborcraft, a pilotage vessel and the cutter Ready, taking part.

The search covered the area between Holland Point and Trial Island, but nothing was sighted.

"There was no sea and there was little tide at the time," said a pilotage official.

Build Freeways Or 'Be Choked'

City, Swartz Link Needed, Says BCAA

The provincial government today was asked for early action on a Swartz Bay-Victoria freeway by the B.C. Automobile Association.

In a brief to the cabinet, BCAA directors said construction of freeways was the only solution for transportation needs of metropolitan areas faced with appalling congestion "which is choking the life out of our urban areas."

"Only if action is taken now, can we prevent the hardening of our traffic arteries and serious disruption of urban way of life," the brief said.

"Major surgery in the form of freeways is required to get the traffic flowing smoothly."

The brief urged the government to convene a meeting of provincial and civic representatives "to seek ways and means of implementing" two technical studies in 1959 and 1964 urging freeways.

SPECIAL EMPHASIS

It said "special emphasis should be given to early action on a second crossing of the First Narrows (in Vancouver) and early attention be given to the Victoria-Swartz Bay highway problem."

The brief said urban freeways save a great deal of time for motorists, can carry up to 1,700 vehicles per lane in an hour compared with ordinary roads, provide express routes for transit buses which increases their passenger traffic and saves motorists about two cents a mile in operating costs.

Meanwhile Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis and Social Credit MLA John Tisdale criticized a statement Wednesday by Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi that improvement of the Patricia Bay highway is not included in this year's program.

"Death has reigned supreme long enough" on the highway, said Mr. Tisdalle. "It is time the minister took competent action to see that the people of this area are properly rewarded with an adequate highway."

He also reiterated a suggestion that the Swartz Bay-Royal Oak portion of the highway be rebuilt which would give time for the department to decide exactly where the new route should enter the urban area.

Mr. Tisdalle said a large number of landowners along several proposed routes for the new highway have been suffering hardship for the past three years because they can't make plans until the department makes its decision.

Reeve Curtis said persons using the highway "will express their disapproval of this latest delay" in improving the highway link.

PARTIAL PROGRAM

He also called for at least a partial construction program while final details involved with a Greater Victoria traffic report are worked out. The Reeve said an initial draft of the report has been in civic hands but "only within the past few days" and denied any delay.

Mother Saves Infant Daughter But Loses Home

Oil Stove Explodes; Telephones Cut Off

A Duncan mother scrambled to safety with her 19-month-old baby daughter this morning when the kitchen oil heater exploded and set their home ablaze.

Mrs. Florence Middlemiss and baby Karen escaped uninjured from the fire which completely destroyed their two-storey, five-room house on Sahtlam Road, four miles west of Duncan.

Mrs. Middlemiss said she was going to wash dishes but when she dropped a lighted paper into the heater, it exploded.

The explosion broke all kitchen windows and sent flames raging through the top storey.

CUT OFF BY FIRE

Flames cut her off from the telephone. She hurried outside, carrying the baby and ran to her neighbor Jack West.

His telephone was not in service and he had to run to another neighbor to raise the alarm.

Municipal fire chief Pat Clackson said the house was completely engulfed in flames when his men arrived.

All that was saved were some family snapshots, found lying in the snow.

FATHER WORKING

Denis Middlemiss, owner of the house, was at work as a longshoreman and the older six children were all at school.

The Middlemiss family had only lived in the 25-year-old house since last August.

The previous house on the same site was also desroyed by fire.

Mrs. Middlemiss said she believed her husband had the house insured.

Agreement on Free Auto Trade

OTTAWA (CP)—Complete agreement was reached today on Canadian-American free trade for the automobile industry, it was learned.

Details of the new tariff-cutting, market-sharing deal were expected to be announced today, probably after the final closing of west coast stock markets.

Hart Highway Blocked By Snowslide

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — A snowslide early today blocked the Hart Highway near Pine Pass, about 100 miles north of here. The highway connects Prince George with Dawson Creek.

A highways department official said the slide was 10 feet deep and 100 feet long. He feared continued mild, rainy weather would bring down more slides. Motorists were being warned not to travel the route.

Emery's Brother Duplicates Crack-Up

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland (UPI)—Canadian bobsledder Dr. John Emery of Toronto today crashed at the same spot where his brother, Vic, was injured in a bad spill Wednesday.

Dr. Emery suffered bruises and scratches—"but nothing to worry about—it's become routine here," he said.

UN Drops Two Indonesia Projects

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The governing council of the United Nations special fund today approved 67 projects for 49 countries but dropped two projects for Indonesia in view of its announced withdrawal from the UN.

Two Survive Fiery Plane Crash

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP)—A small plane with two men aboard smashed on the field at Willow Run Airport today and burst into a ball of flame.

Both men were taken to hospital where they were reported suffering extensive burns. Police said both were found outside the flaming wreckage.

Families Flee Stricken Area

OCEAN FALLS, B.C. (CP)—Two persons were known dead and five were missing and presumed dead in a snowslide that tumbled on a portion of this isolated coastal paper mill town, 350 miles north of Victoria, Wednesday night.

Five others were injured when trapped in the wreckage of homes that were crushed or swept into the sea from the mountainside town.

An estimated 200 families, including women carrying children wrapped in blankets, fled from the area as three minor slides followed the first.

A fourth slide tumbled down today and touched off an urgent radio call to nearby ships to return to the town for possible evacuation.

Police and shipping officials later said the slide was of a minor nature and that no ships were required.

A spokesman for Northland Navigation Company in Vancouver said a few persons may have been taken from the Crown-Zellerbach Canada Limited company town here by its steamer Northland Prince. But he said there was no wholesale authorized evacuation.

Earlier reports from Northland's Kitimat office said the ship had taken aboard a number of evacuees in response to an SOS call.

LIST RELEASED

RCMP released the following list of dead, missing and injured:

Dead: Mrs. Edith Hill, 45, and one unidentified child.

Missing: Walter Gordon Taylor, 42; Agnes McDowell, 56, and a mother, a father and one child not identified.

Injured: Douglas Diggins, possible fractured ankle; Clair Langdale, possible broken elbow; Robert Langdale, head and other injuries; Mary Langdale, superficial injuries and shock; Mrs. Grace McKeen, hysteria.

The injured were being treated in hospital here. Only Robert Langdale's injuries were described as serious, the others were minor.

The snowslide cut a swath 100 yards wide through a residential section to the sea, crumpling two duplex homes, a single-family dwelling, a printing shop and a credit office. A third duplex was badly wrecked and the corner of a fourth was smashed.

The slide, at about 8 p.m., touched off three other smaller slides. Police cordoned off the area and evacuated a number of persons who had not fled earlier.

The slide was the second natural disaster to strike British Co-

'Like Huge Muddy Pudding'

OCEAN FALLS, B.C. (CP)—"It came thundering down the mountain and looked like a huge muddy pudding.

"It was like watching slow motion when I saw one of the houses caught in the wave of mud and snow and rocks."

Art Braun, a 32-year-old millworker in this paper mill town, said the snowslide that killed seven persons here Wednesday night was a terrifying sight.

Braun's home was close to one of several swept away in the slide.

One house was "lifted up off its foundations, slowly turned sideways, as if twisting to get loose from the ground.

"Then it seemed to float over the edge of the road; then there was a fantastic explosion as the duplex's steamlines broke free. The steam escaping formed a cloud around the duplex and I couldn't see it any more.

"But I heard it crackling and breaking up as the slide carried it over a 100-foot bank. It fell onto the roof of a building on the street below."

Cpl. Paul Gilchrist, in charge of the RCMP detachment in this isolated coastal community, said heavy snow breaking loose and falling into a creek apparently dammed the water.

"More snow kept falling away from the mountainside into the creek and damming up the creek even more. Then the rain got worse and the whole thing just burst."

The snow carried with it rock, mud and trees.

Ray Hague, another Ocean Falls resident, said the first slide started with a "noise like thunder . . . it was as if the whole side of the mountain had come down."

"It's just ghastly. Only the trees seem to be standing. I could only see the top half of one of the duplexes. The other half is pushed up against the Credit Union building."

PLAN DEMANDS

Quebec Tories Delay Walkout

MONTREAL (UPI) — The Conservative party's Quebec wing wound up a five-hour closed-door debate today by deciding to put off for the time being at least any split with the main party.

The decision, which represented something of a retreat by Quebec lieutenant Leon Balcer and at least three other members, apparently was to be accompanied by a strongly-worded demand for greater recognition of French-Canadian views in national Conservative policy.

There were some indications the group might even hint at a demand for the resignation of party leader John Diefenbaker.

Details of the 10-member caucus' position were to be spelled out at a news conference later today.

"As of now, no one is leaving," a spokesman said, "but we plan to make some pretty strong demands in our communique."

ALL IN AGREEMENT

Wording of the communique, it was learned, was agreed on by all 10 MPs who sat in on what one source called "a spirited discussion."

Other than a recording secretary, no one else was present during the meeting, held in the plush royal suite of the downtown Windsor Hotel.

However, Balcer and Paul Martineau, another of those reported ready to sit as an independent when Parliament resumes next month, consulted both before and after the meeting with national Conservative association president, Dalton Camp, of Toronto.

Camp told newsmen he had urged Balcer and his supporters to settle their dispute with the party and Diefenbaker's leadership, in particular, "under the tent of the PC party."

"I told him he would be doing a disservice both to the party and to himself if he took the course that has been suggested," Camp said.

Workers Protest U.S. Deal

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

LONDON (CP)—Thousands of aviation workers staged a protest march through London today, bearing banners that ironically proclaimed: Harold Wilson, all-American boy.

Prime Minister Wilson's Labor government was bitterly criticized for reported plans to scrap Britain's new super-aircraft, the TSR-2, along with other advanced military planes; and buy United States warplanes for manufacture under licence.

The marchers — estimated at 8,000 or more — called on the government to remember the glory of British-made Spitfires and Hurricanes in the Second World War and put its trust in British aircraft design for the future.

The workers, mostly from British Aircraft Corporation's factory at Weybridge, Sussex, assembled from special trains at Waterloo Station and marched in orderly procession to Hyde Park, nearly three miles away.

A LITTLE DIFFERENT

"They're a little different from the ban - the - bombers, aren't they then?" was the comment of one Oxford Street shopper as the clean-shaven workers passed behind a pipe band.

"We are here looking for the right to work, and to fly and buy British," demonstration leader George Elliott told the workers at Hyde Park speakers' corner.

A few representatives of the Committee of 100, a ban-the-bomb group, handed around leaflets. And a couple of gospellers, dislodged from their usual vantage points by the advancing crusade, wandered around the fringes with placards.

Active Session Ahead

Premier W. A. C. Bennett, full of bounce and joviality, told reporters today that next Thursday will open a "good session" which will see a "considerable" amount of government legislation.

The premier also said he had a "very nice budget" to present to the legislature, as he fenced with questions by reporters on his programs for 1965.

The premier made the comments before attending his first cabinet session since his Christmas holidays which included a brief "rest" vacation at Palm Springs.

He confirmed that he has been officially invited to accept the freedom of the City of Vancouver.

"I received a call from Mayor Rathie this morning and I am very appreciative. I don't think it (the honor) was deserved but I appreciate it."

He will be made a freeman of Vancouver to mark his record tenure of office as premier Feb. 16 when he exceeds the previous record set by Sir Richard McBride.

U.K. Soldier Killed

ADEN (Reuters)—One British soldier was killed and another wounded when a party of Yemeni raiders shortly after midnight today attacked a federal regular army garrison at Mukeiras, near the Yemeni border, a spokesman of the Middle East command said here.

Tar Warning Bill Planned By Senator

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Warren G. Magnuson (D—Wash.) proposed legislation today to require labeling of cigarette packages with health hazard warnings and statements on tar and nicotine content.

He said he would introduce his bill Friday.

"I believe that an adult has a right to choose his own poison," the senate commerce chairman said. "But I also believe that he has the right to know just what kind of risk he is taking."

Ford Strike Due

OAKVILE, Ont. (CP) — Officials of Local 707, United Auto Workers (CLC) met early today to make arrangements for setting up pickets after Friday's 2 p.m. strike deadline at the Ford of Canada plant here.

'Pearson Aide Unable To Help Much on Bail'

(See also Page 19.)

MONTREAL (CP)—Eddy Lechasseur, 33-year-old friend of suspected narcotics smuggler Lucien Rivard, testified today that Rivard sent him to see Raymond Rouleau partly because Mr. Rouleau's brother was a Liberal member of Parliament.

But, Lechasseur told the Dorion inquiry, neither Raymond Rouleau nor his brother, Guy Rouleau, then parliamentary secretary to the Prime Minister Pearson, had been able to do anything much to get Rivard released on bail.

Lechasseur said Rivard wants to get out of Bordeaux jail in Montreal because he is on the point of selling his Place Ideale resort and prefers to be free to close the sale.

The witness said Rivard had rendered services to politicians and it was therefore "perfectly reasonable, perfectly normal" for Rivard to ask his long-time friend Raymond Rouleau for any help possible.

Lechasseur said Raymond Rouleau had told him that Rivard faced a serious charge and that he did not think his brother Guy could do much.

He quoted Raymond Rouleau as saying that Guy Rouleau had stated that he did not see how he could do anything in Ottawa.

Lechasseur said Raymond Rouleau would ask for Rivard's services at election time.

Commission counsel Andre Desjardins asked what type of services Rivard rendered to Raymond Rouleau.

Lechasseur said Rivard had a number of employees at his resort and that "there's all kinds of work to be done and you need all kinds of people" at election time.

"There are politicians here and you could ask them to tell you," Lechasseur told Mr. Desjardins.

He said he and Mrs. Rivard went to see Raymond Rouleau to find out whether he could do something for Rivard.

Rivard had good reasons to approach Mr. Rouleau. They had been good friends for a long time.

Mrs. Rivard had told him that Raymond Rouleau had a brother in Ottawa who might perhaps be able to help Rivard.

One of the considerations of seeing Raymond Rouleau was that his brother was an MP.

Raymond Rouleau hadn't undertaken to do anything definite but had said he would do something if he could.

KEPT CALLING

Lechasseur said he kept calling Raymond Rouleau afterwards to see whether there were any new developments.

He said Raymond Rouleau told him that his brother was here, there and everywhere and it was hard to get hold of him.

He kept getting the "same story" when he kept calling Raymond Rouleau.

Raymond had told him that Guy was "not too delighted" about the affair and had said he was looking after it only because his brother had asked him.

Lechasseur said he had never received any report that Guy Rouleau had got in touch with a minister or any other influential person.

The witness said Raymond Rouleau didn't want to discourage Mrs. Rivard and had told him "Eddy, there's not much to be done in this case."

Earlier today Kennedy Candlish, 28-year-old accountant for

BOSS TOSS THREATENED IN STRIKE

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — About 600 workers barricaded themselves at Astarsa, one of Argentina's largest shipyards, today and threatened to throw 50 management hostages from upper windows if police intervened.

More than 300 riot police, with dogs, firearms, pressure hoses and tear gas tried to move into the shipyards. They were stopped short of the gate by the threat.

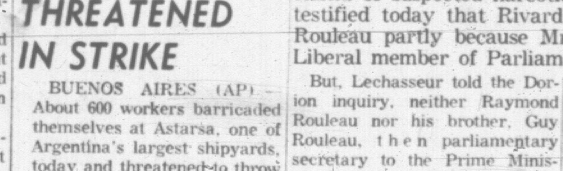

The workers, roughly half the shipyard's work force, began a surprise sit-in strike Tuesday night. They claim Astarsa is three weeks behind in wage payments and has not paid the annual one-month bonus provided by law.

Premier Cool To Highway Rebuilding

Premier Bennett today gave a cold reception to B.C. Automobile Association requests for rebuilding the Patricia Bay Highway as a four-lane express route. (See Page 21).

BCAA president E. A. Adams said the premier "told us that is a good highway and it only takes 32 minutes to come in," from Swartz Bay.

Mr. Adams said the delegation pressed the point that a 60 MPH two-lane highway, with many motorists hurrying to catch a ferry, "is not a good thing."

Young Boxer Dies

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (UPI) —A young golden gloves boxer whose heart stopped beating during a match lost his fight for life, despite heroic efforts to revive him. Jerry Como, 17, died at South Side hospital after collapsing during the second round of a fight Tuesday.

Snow Slides Trap Train In North

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—A freight train was trapped early today between four snow slides that blocked the Canadian National Railways line and the highway between Prince Rupert and Terrace in north central British Columbia.

Communications have been lost with the train, and it was unknown if it was derailed, said CNR operations superintendent Gordon McMillan.

RCMP said no highway travellers were reported missing.

Three days of heavy rain are blamed for the slides, which came down within 10 minutes of each other.

Bennett Turns Down Bus Pass For OAPs

Premier W. A. C. Bennett today added his "no" to suggestions that the government or B.C. Hydro provide old age pensioners with bus passes.

He said the Greater Victoria and Greater Vancouver municipalities are receiving franchise payments from the transit system and said they should use the money to provide the passes.

The premier said in an interview that the public utilities commission had settled the fares and "it doesn't involve the government."

He pointed out the higher rates produce higher franchise payments to the municipalities but "the provincial government gets not one cent" in this form of revenue.

"The cities of Vancouver and Victoria get thousands of dollars and it would be a nice gesture if they gave some of their ill-gotten gains to the pensioners."

The premier also recalled that he urged municipalities last year to start discussing the franchise expiry — due in 1966 on the lower mainland and in 1967 here.

He said now is the time to start discussing the situation with B.C. Hydro.

In answer to a question, he said "it's not impossible" that B.C. Hydro may undertake new franchise agreements.

"That's a matter of negotiation between Hydro and the municipalities," he added with a broad smile.

(Both Premier Bennett and Hydro officials have indicated the crown agency plans to drop the bus system into civic laps as soon as the franchises expire.)

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pickets, petitions and mass rallies were back today as the fight against increased bus fares continues.

Not satisfied with the 2½-cent reduction they won, students are continuing their fare battle, and old age pensioners have joined the clamor for special consideration.

Student groups from Vancouver, North Vancouver, Burnaby and the University of British Columbia are organizing a protest rally outside the B.C. Hydro building in Vancouver Saturday.

Wood Research Lab To Be Built At UBC

Forests Minister Ray Williston said Wednesday permanent research facilities of the giant Columbia Cellulose forestry firm will be established on the University of B.C. endownment lands.

He said this would help fulfill a desire "to make this province the outstanding leader in woods research on this continent."

Mr. Williston said he fully endorsed an appeal by new UBC Forestry Dean Dr. Joseph Gardner for more help in encouraging students to enter the forestry faculty.

Dr. Gardner said a critical shortage of forestry researchers will develop in B.C. within a decade "unless something is done about it."

He suggested industry and government should come up with incentive programs including an expansion of summer vacation jobs for students in the forestry field.

"I agree wholeheartedly and I know that certain firms are making plans in that direction," said Mr. Williston.

"The Columbia Cellulose facilities also will help by being located next to the campus itself and the government will do everything it can along with industry to encourage students to enter the forestry field."

HIGHWAY OPEN SOON

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi said today the Hope-Princeton Highway should be reopened "by the end of next week."

Crews now are working to put in a detour over the top of the Johnson Peak slide area 12 miles east of Hope.

Mr. Gaglardi added: "We haven't given up" in searching for the remaining two bodies buried in the massive slide.

Logging Operations Begin Big Task of Snow Clearing

CAMPBELL RIVER — Snow continues to interrupt logging operations in this area but two divisions of MacMillan, Bloedel & Powell River Ltd. are making plans to start up again this week.

Only the mechanics are back working at Elk River Timber Co.

Supt. Dan McKenzie flew over logging areas in a helicopter this week and said there was about 36-inches of solid snow in the valley where machines were last working.

"We're going to start plowing roads next week but it'll likely be the early part of February before we're back to work," he said.

The company shut down for Christmas holidays Dec. 17. Crews were originally slated to go back to work the first week this month.

Things were a little rosier at MB & PR's Menzies Bay division where manager Ike Barber said he hoped some crews would be back to work this week.

There is between three to five feet of snow in the Brewster Lake area where crews were working before the shutdown Dec. 23.

However roads are pretty well ploughed out, he said, "and as soon as the snow is out of the trees we'll start falling in new areas."

Kelsey Bay division of MB & PR also expects to start up again this week.

Officials said there is about 32-inches of snow in the Adams River area where crews worked last on Dec. 16, but ploughing started Monday and was continuing. Operations are expected to get underway today.

Willow Point Lines Up Legal Advice

CAMPBELL RIVER — Residents of Willow Point are getting legal advice in their battle against Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

Two anti-amalgamationists visited Victoria Tuesday to put the case to a lawyer.

The case is that Willow Point has joined with Campbell River to form a district municipality following a recent vote on the matter.

The over-all vote was in favor of a district.

But of the five municipalities voting, only Campbell River and Willow Point showed a majority in favor.

And the Willow Point majority was slight.

TAXES UP 80%

Garageman Kenneth Forde and farmer Thomas Hudson said the amalgamation will mean an 80 per cent tax rise for some Willow Point residents.

They claimed Mr. Campbell violated several sections of the Municipal Act in "forcing" the merger.

Mr. Forde claimed taxation facts were not brought to the attention of Willow Point residents as had been promised.

Mr. Campbell has ordered new votes Feb. 6 in North Campbell River and Quinsam, two of the suburbs which rejected the merger idea Dec. 12.

The fifth district, Oyster Bay, was dropped after an overwhelming vote against amalgamation.

Anti-amalgamationists have already written to Premier Bennett and Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes seeking reversal of the merger order and Mr. Campbell's removal from office.

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Eaton's Third Floor Features Rug-Making Demonstration

Rug making is becoming more and more popular among women because of its usefulness and fun. So says Mrs. V. Shand, representative for Mary Maxim Ltd., who plans to prove it Friday and Saturday by staging a demonstration in EATON'S Wool Department. This demonstration will take place Friday from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

SPECIAL METHOD

She plans a practical demonstration on hooking rugs the "Mary Maxim Way," and also on how to knit the well-known Mary Maxim Northland sweaters.

Knitters—beginners or advanced—are asked to come to EATON'S Third Floor Wool Department and attend this most interesting and informative event.

DISPLAYS

A large display of rugs and sweaters will be on view in the department, offering knitters a wide choice of materials and patterns.

POPULAR HOBBY

In recent years, wool sales people report, rug-making has become increasingly popular as a hobby in the home.

Not only does mother become interested, but the rest of the family appears to be taking an active interest as well.

MANY REASONS

One reason suggested is television. Often people like to have "something to do" while watching TV, and for this reason rug-making has caught on.

And not only are rugs fun to make, but with the wide selection of wools and wool blends available, the rug-maker can choose the precise colour she wishes to harmonize with her home decor.

KITS AVAILABLE

Complete "Mary Maxim Kits" for making rugs are available at EATON'S. Wool is ready cut for your convenience, and latchet hooks, stamped canvas and instructions are also included.

There's a wide choice of patterns and sizes, too, ranging in price from 15.95 to 39.95.

SWEATERS, TOO

In addition, customers can choose the Northland sweater wool in a variety of new shades, patterns and styles.

Wool, patterns and knitting needles are all available in EATON'S Wool Department.

Demonstrator Wields a Wicked Weapon

A special rug making gun, used in the demonstration by Mrs. Shand, is most popular for its speed and efficiency.

The Sims "Wonder Knot" gun is a lightweight, easy-to-use tool designed to knot the wool automatically, and bring it through the canvas. All the operator does is thread the gun and it is ready to use. Gun takes most standard rug yarns cut to 2 and 3-inch length, and works on regular canvas of 3½ mesh to the inch. You will be able to see how easy it is to use while you watch Mrs. Shand demonstrate. These handy rug-making guns are selling for 3.98 at EATON'S, Wool Department, on their Third Floor.
